$5 Million Is Paid For Quentin Land

T. I. Properties Sells 105 Peninsula Acres

By BILL ROBERTS

A Menlo Park land development company has purchased 105 acres of land on San Quentin Peninsula for $5 million from a company which has been planning development there for over three years.

Buyer of the Hutchinson Quarry and Remillard lands on the peninsula from T. I. Properties of Los Angeles is Lincoln Properties, developer of several apartment projects on the Peninsula.

T. I. purchased the land in 1970 and has been planning development there including recreational, office and high density apartment.

Development plans were frozen this year as Larkspur held off consideration of any plans until the city's general plan was completed. The general plan was adopted early this month and development moratoriums were lifted last week.

John J. Ford III, an attorney who handled the project for T. I. and will do the same for Lincoln, said the $5 million figure could change as the final contract is completed.

He said the land was valued at $4.1 million when T. I. purchased it but completion of quarry work at the site and future payments would bring the total price to Lincoln around $5 million.

John E. Roberto, city planning director, said the city will probably rezone the area to a planned development district soon. That would require developers to submit master plans for their projects showing their relationship to surrounding properties.

He said a master plan for the area would have to receive at least four public hearings, two each before the town's planning commission council.

Ford said Lincoln Properties has been working on a master plan for development of the area and it could be submitted to the city next month.

Representatives of Lincoln Properties could not be reached today for comment on development plans.

Specific plans discussed by T. I. Properties in the past included 1,550 multiple dwelling units, a cluster of shops and a motel.

Development was threatened when Ross Valley Sanitary District said it intended to condemn 41 acres at the site for use as a subregional sewage treatment plant.

That threat has been lifted however, as state department of corrections officials last month assured the district it would have no trouble obtaining San Quentin Prison land for the plant.

Mailliard Won't Run Again

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Rep. William S. Mailliard, Marin's congressman since 1968, today made it official — he will not run for reelection next year.

The San Francisco Republican, whose Sixth District spans the Golden Gate, also acknowledged he may resign soon to take a White House appointment. This would force a special election to fill his seat until January, 1975, when the victor in next November's general election will be seated.

"If for any reason I do not serve out my term," Mailliard told the Independent-Journal, "it would be to take another job, and that announcement would have to come from the White House."

He said he already has had "some discussions with the executive branch about possibly not serving out my term and taking another assignment. We've discussed a lot of possibilities. Some I turned down, and we're still talking about some.

"It could be resolved in a couple of days, or it may be a matter of a few weeks," he said in a telephone interview from his Washington office.

Mailliard also acknowledged he has discussed the special election with Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, but was "not encouraging or discouraging" the state senator to run. He termed Marks "probably the strongest Republican candidate who has indicated any interest" in making the race.

Marks visited Mailliard in Washington two weeks ago, but reportedly is torn between the prospect of running for the congressional seat and for mayor of San Francisco.

The congressman ended months of speculation he would not run by mailing some 1,500 letters yesterday to longtime supporters. "After serious and careful consideration," he wrote, "I have decided not to seek reelection to Congress in 1974."

REP. WILLIAM S. MAILLIARD
Will step down

He added the hope "that I shall be able to continue to serve the country in some other capacity."

The letter was written and duplicated in the basement of his longtime aide, Marion E. Otsea of San Francisco. It was done so quietly that the rest of his staff still did not know of the letter this morning.

Mailliard declined to comment on a rumor he will be appointed to an ambassadorship. Among the posts mentioned is ambassador to the Organization of American States. He was congressional advisor to the OAS from 1964 to 1967.

Mailliard, 56, first was elected to Congress in 1952, and has become one of the more senior Republicans in the House of Representatives. He is the ranking minority member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs and a longtime member as well of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

For many years he was associated with legislation to upgrade the nation's merchant marine fleet. He also was instrumental in establishing the Golden Gate National Recreation Area and in getting federal transit grants for the Golden Gate Bridge District's bus and ferry system.

Mailliard repeatedly vowed in private after his last few reelections that he would not run again, but party leaders persuaded him to keep running because they doubted any other Republican could win.

The picture changed drastically, however, when the state Supreme Court redrew congressional district lines this past fall. The renumbered Fifth District cut GOP registration from 36 to 32 per cent and added the Fillmore, Western Addition and Haight-Ashbury areas — all heavy with voters who ballot for Democrats. Adding to his reelection woes was the loss of

Standby Rationing Plan Adopted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government announced today a stand-by system of gasoline rationing that would provide drivers up to 35 gallons a month but officials were hopeful the program would never be needed.

Federal energy chief William E. Simon told a news conference he has ordered the printing of ration coupons and set up basic ground rules for rationing if voluntary steps fail to ease the energy crisis. The system could swing into active operation by March 1 if necessary, he said.

Simon said one of the major yardsticks he will use to decide if the nonrationing program is working will be the length of the lines of cars at filling stations.

He declared that "three or four hour waits" at service stations "would not be tolerated."

The stand-by plan spelled out by Simon would feature flexible exchange by motorists of colored ration coupons. Those not using their supply could sell coupons to those who needed more.

Simon also recommended that high school students help ease the demand for gasoline by giving up their cars and "walking, taking buses or riding bicycles" instead.

The order to the Bureau of Printing and Engraving called for a three-month supply of coupons.

Middlemen Blamed For Higher Cost Of Family's Food Basket

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The annual retail cost of a typical grocery basket rose $14, or 0.9 per cent, in November because food industry middlemen fattened their margins sharply for the third consecutive month, an Agriculture Department report showed today.

The expanded marketing costs more than offset another decline in farm prices.

The monthly report showed retail beef prices edged down again last month to the lowest level since last February. But the total retail market basket cost, which had declined for two straight months after hitting a record in August, rose from a rate of $1,620 per year in October to $1,634 last month compared with $1,330 in November, 1972.

On a weekly basis, the November cost was $31.42, up 27 cents from October and $5.84 above a year earlier, but 37 cents below the August record.

The report showed consumer food bills would have declined another 1 per cent in November, instead of rising, if food processors and retailers had passed on to consumers the latest installment in a substantial decline in farm prices which began after mid-August. Farm prices for foods in the market basket slid another 2.2 per cent in November for a total 15.7 per cent decline since August, but the spread between farm and retail prices widened another 3.3 per cent in November for a 13.7 per cent gain since August.

The farm-to-retail spread had narrowed last summer when farm prices were booming and middlemen were absorbing part of the raw product gains rather than passing them all on to consumers. The government also had clamped price controls on retail food sellers.

The farm-to-retail spread represents middlemen's charges including both costs and profits, for handling the U.S. farm-produced foods included in the market basket. The basket represents a selection of foods needed for a theoretical household of 3.2 persons.

Airlines Get More Fuel As Oil Shortage Eases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government announced today that an easing of the oil shortage will allow a 10 per cent increase in jet fuel allocations for the hard-hit airline industry.

"Increases in imported oil and a reduced general demand will allow this additional shift of fuel to the airlines," federal energy chief William E. Simon said.

Earlier, the government had ordered jet fuel cutbacks totaling 25 per cent for domestic airlines. In response to the cutback, the airlines trimmed more than 3,000 flights from schedules and claimed they faced a possible 25,000-man layoff.

Under the new allocations, effective immediately, the major airlines will get 95 per cent of their 1972 quota — up from 85 per cent.

Regional airlines will get 100 per cent of their 1972 quota compared to 90 per cent under the original allocation.

Business aircraft will remain at 80 per cent of their 1972 quota and private aviation will also be held to 70 per cent of the quota.

In separate actions the Federal Energy office announced it was diverting emergency supplies of residual fuel oil to New England utilities.

Simon said that the utilities supply in the area was down to 27 days.

The fuel oil will be diverted from other areas of the country where stocks are now at high levels and where fuel is currently being allocated at 100 per cent of current demand.

Missing Skiers Found In Park

YOSEMITE (UPI) — Park rangers today found eight cross-country skiers missing overnight in a storm in Yosemite National Park.

Park information officer Sue Edelstein said the eight were part of a 30-member cross country skiing party which had planned to spend the night at the Ostrander Lake Ski hut in the park.

However, they became separated from the main group and their companions reported them missing at 7 p.m. yesterday.

Two five-man groups of rangers began searching early today and spotted the missing skiers although their condition was not immediately known.

Nixon Flies To San Clemente Aboard A Commercial Jetliner

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — The man from Washington, making a holiday trip with his wife and daughter, bought three tickets to Los Angeles on a jumbo jet for $652.92, and finished the trip driving at a sedate 55 miles per hour, thus saving the nation about 40,000 gallons of fuel. (See pictures, page 11.)

President Nixon figured "he ought to set an example," a spokesman said.

Nixon gave up the luxurious accommodation of The Spirit of '76, the Air Force jet assigned to Presidential travel. He left behind the backup jets, the chartered press corps plane, and the helicopters.

Instead he flew to the Western White House by commercial airliner, the only President in office to make such a trip except for President-elect John F. Kennedy, who flew from Palm Beach, Fla. to Washington in November, 1960, for the premature birth of his son John.

Nixon paid for the tickets — $214.67 each — for himself, his wife, Pat, and daughter Tricia Cox out of his own pocket, the White House said.

With them was a White House staff contingent of 22. The 110 regular passengers on United Airlines flight 55 out of Dulles International Airport had no idea Nixon was on board until he came strolling through the plane, shaking hands, making quips, signing autographs and even, shades of the campaign trail, having his picture taken cuddling a baby.

"He was walking all over the place, shaking hands and wishing people happy New Year," said Tina Myers, 16, of Arlington, Va.

"When he got to me, I said 'You look like Bob Hope' and he said 'Yes, he's a good friend of mine'."

Julie Gilkey, 19, of Fairfax, Va., said she had been worried about a bomb on the plane because of the extraordinarily thorough baggage security check passengers went through.

"I'm glad it's you instead of a bomb," she said to Nixon when he greeted her.

Up To 3.5 Inches Of Rain; Chance Is 70% Tomorrow

Up to 3.5 inches of rain fell in Marin County yesterday and last night, from clouds that federal forecasters had expected only to produce showers or drizzle.

There is a 70 per cent chance the rains will continue through tomorrow, the forecasters said today.

The heaviest rainfall for the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today was 3.5 inches in Bolinas. Tamalpais Valley had 2.47 inches, Mill Valley 2.37 inches, Marinwood 1.97 inches, Woodacre and Novato 1.10 inches, San Anselmo .87 of an inch and Petaluma a relatively light .69 of an inch. San Rafael's rainfall in the 24 hours ending at noon was 1.05 inches.

Marin and Southern Sonoma counties escaped the storm problems encountered elsewhere in the Bay Area. In Fremont, Alameda County, Mission Avenue flooded four feet deep at the Niles Canyon Road underpass. Numerous other areas reported traffic difficulties and minor flooding.

MIDEAST TALKS — Egyptian and Israeli generals met yesterday in a new effort to break the deadlock over separation of their armed forces on the Suez Canal front as the first step toward negotiating a Middle East peace settlement. But each side dismissed the other's proposals as unacceptable. Israel proposed to pull back from the canal's west bank up to a distance of 16 miles inside Sinai, but Egypt wants Israel to withdraw behind the Sinai passes, with the U.N. on the passes as a buffer. This would give Egypt about half of the Sinai. (UPI Map)

Egypt, Israel Make Warlike Statements

GENEVA (UPI) — With the Israeli-Egyptian military talks in a one-day recess, there were increasingly warlike statements today from both Egypt and Israel. Egypt said it was fighting a war of attrition along the Suez Canal and Israel said a new war could come at any time.

Brig. Tahal el Magdoub of Egypt and Maj. Gen. Mordecai Gur of Israel met for 90 minutes yesterday and said in a brief communique they discussed the principle of disengaging their Suez troops in hopes it would make future discussions more productive. Officials said any concrete talks would have to wait until after Israel's Dec. 31 elections.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi, who remained in Geneva after attending the opening round of the Geneva conference Dec. 21-22, returned today to Cairo after overseeing the start of the military talks. Cairo has made it clear there must be troop disengagement before the peace conference can resume.

Maj Gen. Hassan el-Greitly, the Egyptian army's chief of operations, told a political gathering yesterday that Egyptian troops now are fighting a war of attrition along the Suez Canal and awaiting President Anwar Sadat's order to complete the liberation of the Israel-occupied Sinai Peninsula.

"What we are doing now is the attrition of the enemy because, for us, the war has not ended at all," Greitly said.

Greitly was secretary general of the War Ministry during the October war and was promoted earlier this month to the post of chief of military operations.

The fact that Egypt is taking part in the Geneva peace conference has no effect at all on the armed forces, Greitly said —"Our mission is to liberate occupied lands and, in our view, this can only be achieved by force."

Three influential Israeli newspapers said today fighting between Israeli and Egyptian troops on the Suez Canal front has been much more fierce than official announcements have indicated.

"The exchanges of fire and artillery battles which have gone on for the past week on the Suez front are of dimensions far greater than those indicated by official announcements," the newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said.

"(Last) Tuesday for example, more than 1,000 shells were fired at Israeli forces on the west bank of the canal.

"Aside from cannons and mortars, tanks also were used in the exchange," the paper said.

Yedioth said several Egyptian tanks were hit by Israeli return fire.

Yedioth, Ma'ariv and Ha'aretz also said Egypt had begun constructing land fill bridges across the canal's midsection near Cairo's 2nd Army in order to move armored units to the east bank.

Egypt last month accused Israel of constructing an earthen bridge across the canal south of the Bitter Lake. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan denied Egyptian claims the bridge was altering the character of the strategic waterway.

Elazar, according to national Israeli radio, said Israel will have "to maintain our forces at the highest level of alert because any case in which the talks at Geneva run aground might bring about the renewal of fire."

Terrorist Killed

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI) — State police have killed a terrorist leader who masterminded bombings and kidnapings that forced the government to call out the army to keep order last month, the governor said today.

They said Pedro Orozco Guzman was slain Christmas Eve when he tried to shoot it out with policemen who stopped his car during a routine check.

Police said Orozco was personally responsible for the kidnapings earlier this year of U.S. Consul Terrance Leonhardy, honorary British consul Anthony Duncan Williams and industrialist Fernando Aranguren.

Ray In Conspiracy?

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A Nashville television station quoted "highly placed sources" last night that James Earl Ray claims he was involved in a conspiracy to assassinate Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

WSM-TV quoted the sources as saying Ray attached a statement naming several persons he claims gave him money to participate in the conspiracy to kill King to a writ mailed to the U.S. District Court here Saturday.

Federal court officials said, however, they have received no documents from Ray recently.

Ships Refused

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Malagasy Republic has refused to allow four American destroyers operating in the Indian Ocean to dock, allegedly because the island nation lacks both fuel and docking space, according to State Department officials.

An Arab delegation from Libya was in the Malagasy Republic last week, setting off speculation the government may have banned the ships for political reasons to avoid offending the Arabs who supply the nation's oil.

Ford Called Twice

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — Vice President Gerald Ford, relaxed and contented from five days of skiing, says President Nixon had to phone twice to offer him the nation's No. 2 job.

"I was hoping he wouldn't change his mind in that 30 seconds between the two phone calls," Ford said at a service club meeting yesterday.

Ford said his wife was on another telephone when Nixon first called on an unlisted line to offer the job.

Ford said that because the President wanted Mrs. Ford to hear the call, Ford asked him to call back on a different line where there was an extension phone.

Battle For Rice

SAIGON (UPI) — Government forces and North Vietnamese regulars fought hand-to-hand today in a battle for rice that erupted Christmas day 100 miles southwest of Saigon, military sources said.

The three-day-old Mekong Delta fight in Chuong Thien province bordering Cambodia had spread to within six miles of the provincial capital of Vi Thanh, the sources said.

South Vietnamese officers said a 2,500-man North Vietnamese regiment of the crack 1st Division started the battle Christmas day by attacking a patrolling government battalion.

Mission For Oil

TOKYO (UPI) — The Yomiuri newspaper said today that Japan's Toyo Oil Co. will send a mission to Hanoi early next year for talks with North Vietnamese officials on exploration for oil in the Gulf of Tonkin.

A spokesman for the company called the report "premature" and declined to discuss it.

Air Raid Plan

BELFAST (UPI) — The London Daily Mail said today the Irish Republican Army (IRA) planned an air raid on Belfast. British army spokesmen in Belfast refused comment on the report.

The Daily Mail said army intelligence units had warned of the IRA air raid possibility and that security forces in Northern Ireland had broken out antiaircraft guns. Army sources here would say only that all units already have machineguns capable of being used against aircraft.

The Daily Mail's report of a possible IRA aerial attack followed an interview which IRA leader Seamus Twomey gave to a German magazine in which he said: "We will have commando action from the air."

Oil Fire Out

GLENROCK, Wyo. (UPI) — Firefighters Wednesday detonated 500 pounds of nitroglycerine over the wellhead of a stubborn oil fire and blew it out like a lighted match.

It was the second time that firefighters from the Red Adair Co. of Houston, used the technique to put out the expensive oil well fire.

Gov. Stan Hathaway said that the well had been burning up to 250 barrels of crude oil an hour before it was put out.

The charge used to blow out the flames was placed on a 75-foot boom attached to a heat-shielded bulldozer. An earlier blaze was snuffed out Saturday but reignited Christmas Eve, possibly because of static electricity.

Mormon Leader Lee Dies At 74 In Salt Lake City

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Harold B. Lee, "prophet, seer and revelator" to 3.3 million Mormons, died unexpectedly last night of heart and lung failure at the age of 74.

Lee, the youngest president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints since World War II, headed the faith for just 17 months—the shortest tenure of any of the 11 Mormon leaders.

Under a church tradition dating back to 1844, when Brigham Young became the second Mormon president, President Spencer W. Kimball of the church's Council of the Twelve would succeed Lee. He became acting leader upon Lee's death.

Kimball, 78, had major heart surgery two years ago, and most of his vocal cords were removed in 1957 because of throat cancer.

The Council of the Twelve traditionally meets in the Salt Lake temple the day after a church president's funeral to select a new "prophet, seer and revelator"—who is believed by the faithful to receive direct revelation from God.

Lee, the first leader of the massive Mormon welfare program set up "under divine inspiration" during the depression to take Mormons off the public dole, was named church president on July 7, 1972, five days after President Joseph Fielding Smith died at the age of 95.

He was confirmed by the elders of the church in a solemn ceremony at the Salt Lake Tabernacle during October conference last year. During his brief period as leader, the Mormons made some efforts to reduce their emphasis on Salt Lake City, holding world conferences in Europe and Mexico and urging members to develop the church where they lived rather than "gathering in Zion."

Lee was born March 28, 1899, in Clifton, Idaho, grew up on a family farm with five brothers and sisters and received a teacher's certificate in 1917 from Albion Normal College in Idaho. He became principal of an Idaho school at the age of 17.

He served as a Mormon missionary in the Western states from 1920 to 1922, then studied for a year at the University of Utah before becoming a school principal in Salt Lake County. He resigned in 1928 to become regional manager for Foundation Press Inc.

In 1932, Lee, who was moving up the hierarchy of local church positions, was appointed a Salt Lake City commissioner. He won re-election the next year and held the city post until 1937, when he resigned at the church's behest to head the new welfare program.

Lee, who had organized a regional welfare program for Mormon members, headed the church-wide program for 22 years.

In 1941, he was appointed to the Council of the Twelve, the church's ruling body, and—at 42—became its youngest member in modern church history. He was senior member at the time of Smith's death and was unanimously selected by the council to succeed him.

Lee married Fern Lucinda Tanner in 1923. She died in 1962. He married Freda Joan Jensen the following year. He was survived by his widow, a daughter and 10 grand-children.

All Reported Dead In Russian Crash

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet airliner crash on Dec.16 killed all passengers and crew members, according to the newspaper Sovietskaya Litva.

The Lithuanian newspaper, in its Tuesday edition which reached Moscow today, did not say how many persons were aboard the plane. It mentioned the crash in reporting the death of three prominent Lithuanian pediatricians who were among the passengers.

Tax Limit Opposed By Students

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Students at California colleges voted overwhelmingly against Gov. Ronald Reagan's unsuccessful tax initiative at last month's statewide election, according to a student researcher.

Bruce Fuller, research coordinator for the University of California Student Lobby, yesterday also said students turned out in small numbers to vote on the measure. He estimated the student turnout at about 20 to 25 per cent.

About 90 per cent of the students at state universities and colleges voted against the tax proposal, Fuller said.

He based his conclusions on voter results in 30 student precincts at 12 campuses around the state.

"It appears that students attending public universities strongly believed that their tuition would increase substantially if Prop. 1 was approved as claimed by the initiative's opponents," he said.

Of the universities polled, Reagan's initiative fared best among students at the private University of Southern California, where 22.8 per cent of the students balloting cast "yes" votes, Fuller said.

The lowest turnout appeared to have been at San Diego State University, he said, where 16.5 per cent of the registered student voters went to the polls. The "no" vote in the student precincts was about 90 per cent, Fuller added.

The overall statewide turnout for the general population was about 46.8 per cent.

The student turnout was much higher at University of California campuses with the highest at Riverside, where 55.5 per cent cast ballots (with 9.01 per cent against), Fuller said.

The initiative drew the least favorable reaction at UC Berkeley where only 6.6 per cent of the registered students voted for the measure.

MIDEAST TALKS — Egyptian and Israeli generals met yesterday in a new effort to break the deadlock over separation of their armed forces on the Suez Canal front as the first step toward negotiating a Middle East peace settlement. But each side dismissed the other's proposals as unacceptable. Israel proposed to pull back from the canal's west bank up to a distance of 16 miles inside Sinai, but Egypt wants Israel to withdraw behind the Sinai passes, with the U.N. on the passes as a buffer. This would give Egypt about half of the Sinai. (UPI Map)

Egypt, Israel Make Warlike Statements

GENEVA (UPI) — With the Israeli-Egyptian military talks in a one-day recess, there were increasingly warlike statements today from both Egypt and Israel. Egypt said it was fighting a war of attrition along the Suez Canal and Israel said a new war could come at any time.

Brig. Tahal el Magdoub of Egypt and Maj. Gen. Mordecai Gur of Israel met for 90 minutes yesterday and said in a brief communique they discussed the principle of disengaging their Suez troops in hopes it would make future discussions more productive. Officials said any concrete talks would have to wait until after Israel's Dec. 31 elections.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi, who remained in Geneva after attending the opening round of the Geneva conference Dec. 21-22, returned today to Cairo after overseeing the start of the military talks. Cairo has made it clear there must be troop disengagement before the peace conference can resume.

Maj Gen. Hassan el-Greitly, the Egyptian army's chief of operations, told a political gathering yesterday that Egyptian troops now are fighting a war of attrition along the Suez Canal and awaiting President Anwar Sadat's order to complete the liberation of the Israel-occupied Sinai Peninsula.

"What we are doing now is the attrition of the enemy because, for us, the war has not ended at all," Greitly said.

Greitly was secretary general of the War Ministry during the October war and was promoted earlier this month to the post of chief of military operations.

The fact that Egypt is taking part in the Geneva peace conference has no effect at all on the armed forces, Greitly said —"Our mission is to liberate occupied lands and, in our view, this can only be achieved by force."

Three influential Israeli newspapers said today fighting between Israeli and Egyptian troops on the Suez Canal front has been much more fierce than official announcements have indicated.

"The exchanges of fire and artillery battles which have gone on for the past week on the Suez front are of dimensions far greater than those indicated by official announcements," the newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said.

"(Last) Tuesday for example, more than 1,000 shells were fired at Israeli forces on the west bank of the canal.

"Aside from cannons and mortars, tanks also were used in the exchange," the paper said.

Yedioth said several Egyptian tanks were hit by Israeli return fire.

Yedioth, Ma'ariv and Ha'aretz also said Egypt had begun constructing land fill bridges across the canal's midsection near Cairo's 2nd Army in order to move armored units to the east bank.

Egypt last month accused Israel of constructing an earthen bridge across the canal south of the Bitter Lake. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan denied Egyptian claims the bridge was altering the character of the strategic waterway.

Israeli chief of staff, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, told Israeli soldiers on a tour of the Suez lines full-scale fighting could resume with Egypt if the Geneva truce talks break down.

Elazar, according to national Israeli radio, said Israel will have "to maintain our forces at the highest level of alert because any case in which the talks at Geneva run aground might bring about the renewal of fire."

Plan Commissioner Seeks Sausalito Seat

Sausalito Planning Commissioner Violeta Autumn filed candidacy papers today for a seat on the city council in the March 5 election.

Mrs. Autumn, 43, an architect, was appointed to the planning commission in 1968. She also was a member of the city's community appearances advisory board from 1965 to this year. She said she is an advocate of strong planning to make Sausalito a balanced community.

"As a planning commissioner I have openly and consistently worked for decreased density through open space preservation and zoning for our undeveloped areas," she said. "As a city councilman I will use my eight years experience to continue to work toward that goal.

"Currently, our zoning in the Marinship, for example, allows such high density development that it threatens to greatly diminish the quality of life of all Sausalito."

She cautions against poor planning, which could turn Sausalito into "a nightmare."

A resident of the city for 12 years, Mrs. Autumn was chairman of the citizens committee that produced the open-space element for the Sausalito General Plan.

She holds a bachelor's degree in architecture from Oklahoma University and maintains a private architectural practice. She and her husband live at 521 Sausalito Boulevard. They have a son.

ENERGY

The plan would cost $1.5 billion dollars a year, if implemented, Simon said. The cost would be offset by a charge of $1 per person for coupons.

The coupons would be distributed to all Americans 18 years or older who hold drivers licenses. The number of coupons each person receives each month would vary "according to the population density of the area where he lives" and the availability of mass transit.

The average distribution would amount to 32 to 35 gallons per month per person, Simon said, but would be flexible enough to allow the coupons to be exchanged on the open market. This would head off the black market that plagued rationing during World War II.

The coupons would be multicolored, with the color changing every 30 days, and about a third the size of a dollar bill.

Simon said that he was still convinced that the American public "could lick the fuel crisis." If the public continues to cooperate with government-mandated conservation measures, he said, the nation could avoid further restrictions that might include longer periods of closing service stations and a complete ban on driving on certain days of the week.

Simon said the "shortfall in crude oil was not as great as the government had expected." He said the Federal Energy Office was planning for the worst contingency.

A full description of the rationing system will be published in the Federal Register in two weeks, Simon said.

Each person will be mailed an authorization card by the Motor Vehicle Department in his state. The card may be used to pick up coupons at a designated place.

"To receive his issue of gasoline coupons for the month, each person will present his authorization card and his drivers license at the distribution point," Simon said.

The driver will be charged $1 for his packet of coupons. Energy officials said banks and post offices would be the most likely places for distribution of the coupons.

The coupons will be good for 60 days and may be freely exchanged on the open market. The market value of a coupon will depend on local supply and demand.

The out-of-pocket cost for gasoline will depend on the number of coupons used. Consumers who limit their driving to the rationed amount will simply pay the gasoline price at the pump. Consumers buying less gasoline will be paying the pump price, but they will receive income by selling unused coupons.

Consumers who want to buy more gasoline than their rationed amount will pay an extra amount. Their price will be the price at the pump "plus the cost of additional coupons bought on the local coupon exchanges," energy officials said.

According to Simon, the buying and selling of coupons introduces a limited free market approach to rationing.

"This contrasts with the World War II system in which a large public bureaucracy was used to decide hundreds of thousands of questions about individual need for gasoline," he said.

Latest figures compiled by Simon's office indicate the nation's "shortfall" of crude oil, which had been expected to be up to 3.4 million barrels a day at this time, actually may be as low as 1.2 million. Gasoline and other petroleum products are made from crude oil.

They said one factor that went into the new estimate was that, despite the Arab oil embargo, Arab oil exports to other countries are resulting in unexpected shipments of 700,000 barrels a day to this country. Other countries either transship the Arab oil to the United States or use it themselves and send the United States equivalent amounts from other sources.

Unless steps are taken to restrict this secondary flow to the United States, more crude is expected to enter the United States as a result of the decision announced by Arab oil ministers in Kuwait this week to produce 10 per cent more oil in January than planned. A White House spokesman Wednesday called that decision "a step in the right direction."

MAILLIARD

the Sunset area with its conservative population.

The result of redistricting, Mailliard conceded in September, was to make his reelection "extremely difficult." He also said then he was "not about to stay in office at the cost of going out each two years and raising $150,000."

A two-year term just isn't worth that kind of money. The same money spent somewhere else might be better spent."

Even without redistricting, he said in September, registration in his district was moving steadily toward a greater Democratic majority, thus each election was going to get tougher and more expensive. McGovern carried the district with a considerable margin last year.

Mailliard's position on impeachment of the President has been strictly neutral. He has insisted it was "entirely too early" in the process for him to say whether he would vote to impeach Nixon. Mailliard nevertheless has been a strong backer of the administration's legislation. Only six other Republicans outrank him in the House.

The prospect of an empty seat already has attracted five candidates for the Democratic nomination next June: Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, Alan F. Reeves and Alan D. French, also of San Francisco, Lloyd F. Harolds of Novato and Terrence V. McGuire of San Rafael.

Two Commission Seats Are Filled

The board reappointed Kenneth Katz, Kirk Beales and Thomas M. O'Haire to the Marinwood Fire Commission for 1974, and appointed Gary Skaggs to fill a commission seat vacated by the resignation of W. E. Wright.

The board reappointed Emily Dvorin and David Paoli to the parks and recreation commission for 1974, and appointed Judy Hacker to fill a commission seat vacated by the resignation of Bernard Nangle.

The board next meets at 8 p.m. Jan. 21 in the community center.

Aspirin Get A Study Nod

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UPI) — Aspirin does not cause kidney damage unless taken to excess, according to a study by New Zealand doctors.

A two-year research project by the New Zealand Rheumatism Association has found that aspirin did not cause kidney damage even to patients taking the drug regularly.

Dr. Ron D. Wigley of Palmerston North Hospital, who coordinated the research project, said the team did not set out to dispute that aspirin with other combinations of drugs caused kidney damage.

"But under medical supervision, people may take up to 12 aspirins a day and consider their kidneys quite safe," Wigley said.

NIXON

way tickets and no plans were announced for the length of their stay or their mode of travel when they return to Washington.

The 13 first class tickets, including the three that Nixon bought, cost $2,829.32, and the 12 coach seats, mostly for Secret Service agents, came to $2,011.68.

The pilot of the DC10 said he did not learn the President would be aboard until an hour before takeoff, and was told not to inform the passengers. An FBI agent rode beside him in the cockpit the entire flight, he said.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren said that "because of the energy crisis, the President decided to go commercial ... He thought he could, as president, take many steps to set an example in the field of energy."

Ordinarily for such a trip, Warren said, the No. 1 presidential plane, "The Spirit of '76," would use about 20,000 gallons of fuel, the backup plane would use 7,380, and the three helicopters employed would use 18,000 gallons.

Waiting at the Los Angeles airport for the drive to San Clemente, about 60 miles to the south, were a Lincoln for Nixon, but Plymouth station wagons for the rest of the party.

The presidential motorcade moved "at exactly 55 m.p.h."—the administration's gas-saving speed—according to a UPI photographer who trailed the President's party. "Not 54 or 56," the photographer said, "But a steady 55," which is 10 miles per hour below the speed limit on the interstate highway they used.

Others in the party included the President's military aide and the White House doctor—required by law to travel with the President—Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, personal secretary Rose Mary Woods, valet Manuel Sanchez, an appointments aide, two men from the military attache's office and Secret Service agents.

The trip caught newsmen by surprise, and the White House press corps was left to scramble for its own transportation to the West Coast, many of them still arriving today. The White House had talked earlier of Nixon going to his Florida estate by train, as an energy-saving gesture, but then appeared to give up the idea.

It generally was not known that Nixon was going anywhere until the plane was already in the air. There were security checks of passengers, luggage and crew.

There was "not much demand" for the flight, Warren said, and so no one was "bumped" out of a seat by the White House.

Even on the commercial jet, Nixon was in contact with the White House, Warren said. The highly sophisticated communications equipment Nixon relied on during his trip to China is no bigger than a suitcase, Warren said. The pilot of the plane, Capt. Robert Wayt of Santa Ana, Calif., said the Secret Service set up communications gear in the first class compartment and "was in almost constant communication with White House officials."

Plan Commissioner Seeks Sausalito Seat

Sausalito Planning Commissioner Violeta Autumn filed candidacy papers today for a seat on the city council in the March 5 election.

Mrs. Autumn, 43, an architect, was appointed to the planning commission in 1968. She also was a member of the city's community appearances advisory board from 1965 to this year. She said she is an advocate of strong planning to make Sausalito a balanced community.

"As a planning commissioner I have openly and consistently worked for decreased density through open space preservation and zoning for our undeveloped areas," she said. "As a city councilman I will use my eight years experience to continue to work toward that goal.

"Currently, our zoning in the Marinship, for example, allows such high density development that it threatens to greatly diminish the quality of life of all Sausalito."

She cautions against poor planning, which could turn Sausalito into "a nightmare."

A resident of the city for 12 years, Mrs. Autumn was chairman of the citizens committee that produced the open-space element for the Sausalito General Plan.

She holds a bachelor's degree in architecture from Oklahoma University and maintains a private architectural practice. She and her husband live at 521 Sausalito Boulevard. They have a son.

The plan would cost $1.5 billion dollars a year, if implemented, Simon said. The cost would be offset by a charge of $1 per person for coupons.

The coupons would be distributed to all Americans 18 years or older who hold drivers licenses. The number of coupons each person receives each month would vary "according to the population density of the area where he lives" and the availability of mass transit.

The average distribution would amount to 32 to 35 gallons per month per person, Simon said, but would be flexible enough to allow the coupons to be exchanged on the open market. This would head off the black market that plagued rationing during World War II.

The coupons would be multicolored, with the color changing every 30 days, and about a third the size of a dollar bill.

Simon said that he was still convinced that the American public "could lick the fuel crisis." If the public continues to cooperate with government-mandated conservation measures, he said, the nation could avoid further restrictions that might include longer periods of closing service stations and a complete ban on driving on certain days of the week.

Simon said the "shortfall in crude oil was not as great as the government had expected." He said the Federal Energy Office was planning for the worst contingency.

A full description of the rationing system will be published in the Federal Register in two weeks, Simon said.

Each person will be mailed an authorization card by the Motor Vehicle Department in his state. The card may be used to pick up coupons at a designated place.

"To receive his issue of gasoline coupons for the month, each person will present his authorization card and his drivers license at the distribution point," Simon said.

The driver will be charged $1 for his packet of coupons. Energy officials said banks and post offices would be the most likely places for distribution of the coupons.

The coupons will be good for 60 days and may be freely exchanged on the open market. The market value of a coupon will depend on local supply and demand.

The out-of-pocket cost for gasoline will depend on the number of coupons used. Consumers who limit their driving to the rationed amount will simply pay the gasoline price at the pump. Consumers buying less gasoline will be paying the pump price, but they will receive income by selling unused coupons.

Consumers who want to buy more gasoline than their rationed amount will pay an extra amount. Their price will be the price at the pump "plus the cost of additional coupons bought on the local coupon exchanges," energy officials said.

According to Simon, the buying and selling of coupons introduces a limited free market approach to rationing.

"This contrasts with the World War II system in which a large public bureaucracy was used to decide hundreds of thousands of questions about individual need for gasoline," he said.

Latest figures compiled by Simon's office indicate the nation's "shortfall" of crude oil, which had been expected to be up to 3.4 million barrels a day at this time, actually may be as low as 1.2 million. Gasoline and other petroleum products are made from crude oil.

They said one factor that went into the new estimate was that, despite the Arab oil embargo, Arab oil exports to other countries are resulting in unexpected shipments of 700,000 barrels a day to this country. Other countries either transship the Arab oil to the United States or use it themselves and send the United States equivalent amounts from other sources.

Unless steps are taken to restrict this secondary flow to the United States, more crude is expected to enter the United States as a result of the decision announced by Arab oil ministers in Kuwait this week to produce 10 per cent more oil in January than planned. A White House spokesman Wednesday called that decision "a step in the right direction."

MAILLIARD

the Sunset area with its conservative population.

The result of redistricting, Mailliard conceded in September, was to make his reelection "extremely difficult." He also said then he was "not about to stay in office at the cost of going out each two years and raising $150,000."

A two-year term just isn't worth that kind of money. The same money spent somewhere else might be better spent."

Even without redistricting, he said in September, registration in his district was moving steadily toward a greater Democratic majority, thus each election was going to get tougher and more expensive. McGovern carried the district with a considerable margin last year.

Mailliard's position on impeachment of the President has been strictly neutral. He has insisted it was "entirely too early" in the process for him to say whether he would vote to impeach Nixon. Mailliard nevertheless has been a strong backer of the administration's legislation. Only six other Republicans outrank him in the House.

The prospect of an empty seat already has attracted five candidates for the Democratic nomination next June: Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, Alan F. Reeves and Alan D. French, also of San Francisco, Lloyd F. Harolds of Novato and Terrence V. McGuire of San Rafael.

Two Commission Seats Are Filled

The board reappointed Kenneth Katz, Kirk Beales and Thomas M. O'Haire to the Marinwood Fire Commission for 1974, and appointed Gary Skaggs to fill a commission seat vacated by the resignation of W. E. Wright.

The board reappointed Emily Dvorin and David Paoli to the parks and recreation commission for 1974, and appointed Judy Hacker to fill a commission seat vacated by the resignation of Bernard Nangle.

The board next meets at 8 p.m. Jan. 21 in the community center.

Aspirin Get A Study Nod

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UPI) — Aspirin does not cause kidney damage unless taken to excess, according to a study by New Zealand doctors.

A two-year research project by the New Zealand Rheumatism Association has found that aspirin did not cause kidney damage even to patients taking the drug regularly.

Dr. Ron D. Wigley of Palmerston North Hospital, who coordinated the research project, said the team did not set out to dispute that aspirin with other combinations of drugs caused kidney damage.

"But under medical supervision, people may take up to 12 aspirins a day and consider their kidneys quite safe," Wigley said.

NIXON

way tickets and no plans were announced for the length of their stay or their mode of travel when they return to Washington.

The 13 first class tickets, including the three that Nixon bought, cost $2,829.32, and the 12 coach seats, mostly for Secret Service agents, came to $2,011.68.

The pilot of the DC10 said he did not learn the President would be aboard until an hour before takeoff, and was told not to inform the passengers. An FBI agent rode beside him in the cockpit the entire flight, he said.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren said that "because of the energy crisis, the President decided to go commercial ... He thought he could, as president, take many steps to set an example in the field of energy."

Ordinarily for such a trip, Warren said, the No. 1 presidential plane, "The Spirit of '76," would use about 20,000 gallons of fuel, the backup plane would use 7,380, and the three helicopters employed would use 18,000 gallons.

Waiting at the Los Angeles airport for the drive to San Clemente, about 60 miles to the south, were a Lincoln for Nixon, but Plymouth station wagons for the rest of the party.

The presidential motorcade moved "at exactly 55 m.p.h."—the administration's gas-saving speed—according to a UPI photographer who trailed the President's party. "Not 54 or 56," the photographer said, "But a steady 55," which is 10 miles per hour below the speed limit on the interstate highway they used.

Others in the party included the President's military aide and the White House doctor—required by law to travel with the President—Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, personal secretary Rose Mary Woods, valet Manuel Sanchez, an appointments aide, two men from the military attache's office and Secret Service agents.

The trip caught newsmen by surprise, and the White House press corps was left to scramble for its own transportation to the West Coast, many of them still arriving today. The White House had talked earlier of Nixon going to his Florida estate by train, as an energy-saving gesture, but then appeared to give up the idea.

It generally was not known that Nixon was going anywhere until the plane was already in the air. There were security checks of passengers, luggage and crew.

There was "not much demand" for the flight, Warren said, and so no one was "bumped" out of a seat by the White House.

Even on the commercial jet, Nixon was in contact with the White House, Warren said. The highly sophisticated communications equipment Nixon relied on during his trip to China is no bigger than a suitcase, Warren said. The pilot of the plane, Capt. Robert Wayt of Santa Ana, Calif., said the Secret Service set up communications gear in the first class compartment and "was in almost constant communication with White House officials."

With all the shortages these days, there's one fellow who needn't worry about a shortage of headgear. He's Dr. S. I. As a result, Dr. Hayakawa was flooded with head coverings sent from almost all parts of the world. He is shown with a few of them. Although he still maintains an office at the university, Dr. Hayakawa has not returned to teaching duties. (UPI Telephoto)

Comet Near Low Point Of Orbit

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Comet Kohoutek makes its closing approach to the sun Friday as it begins a swing which will take it back out of the solar system.

Kohoutek is to reach perihelion, or the low point in its orbit, at 5:24 a.m., EST. At that time, it will be only 13.24 million miles from the sun and traveling at 251,400 miles per hour.

The comet will go around the sun, but it will not dip behind our star as seen from earth. Because of the angle of the comet in relation to the earth, it will appear just to loop around the top of the sun before heading back out into space.

Dr. William A. Deutschman, head of Project Kohoutek at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, says that after perihelion the comet should reemerge to earth viewers in the nighttime sky.

"However, comets are notoriously unpredictable," Deutschman says, noting that some have disappeared completely at perihelion or have broken up into smaller units.

If Kohoutek survives its close encounter with the sun, it will appear brighter than before.

Deutschman explained that after perihelion, the comet will be visible in a darker, night sky instead of in the morning sky in which it is now seen.

Increase In Violent Crime Reported In United States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Violent crime rose 3 per cent in the United States in the first nine months of 1973, the FBI reported today.

Overall, serious crime — encompassing murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault and far more numerous cases of burglary, larceny and auto theft — rose 1 per cent compared to the same period in 1972.

The FBI report, based on figures supplied voluntarily by local and state police, showed a 6 per cent rise in major rural crime and a 5 per cent increase in serious crime in the suburbs.

The national serious crime rate a year earlier showed a 2 per cent decrease.

"This increase in serious crime in the nation means that all of us must continue to support our law enforcement agencies in their efforts to combat crime in the streets," said Acting Attorney General Robert H. Bork.

The breakdown by category was:

Rape—up 8 per cent.

Murder—up 5 per cent.

Aggravated assault—up 5 per cent.

Robbery—no change.

Burglary—up 3 per cent.

Auto theft—up 1 per cent.

Larceny-theft—no change.

In a regional analysis, crime was up 4 per cent in the South and 2 per cent in the North Central states. There was no change in the Northeast and a decrease in the West.

But the report said serious crime fell in 71 large cities — including New York, Los Angeles, Clevleand, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, St. Louis and Washington.

The most dramatic crime rate drop was in Fall River, Mass., which recorded 29 per cent fewer crimes in the reporting period.

Other cities with marked decreases were Lansing, Mich., and Pasadena, Calif. — 22 per cent; Cleveland, Ohio, and Newark, N. J. — 15 per cent; Baltimore — 12 per cent and Los Angeles — 9 per cent.

The statistics came from 5,477 police agencies responsible for 148,775,000 people.

There were 1,236 murders in New York City during the period, six fewer than the year before. The highest reported murder increases in major cities were in San Francisco with 31 per cent more and Chicago with nearly 28 per cent more.

Milwaukee, according to the figures, had 91 per cent more rapes compared to the same period in 1972.

Tapes Fail To Support Milk Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Special Watergate Prosecutor's Office says White House tapes and documents do not support the charge that the Justice Department filed an antitrust suit against milk producers in an effort to extract contributions for President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

The Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI), defendant in the 1972 antitrust suit, had asked the courts to order the tapes and documents produced, saying they would support the group's claim the suit was motivated by campaign considerations.

But assistant Watergate prosecutor Jon A. Sale said in an affidavit filed last week in U.S. District Court in Kansas city that "none of these documents or recordings support" AMPI's charge. The affidavit was part of a Justice Department brief opposing disclosure of most of the materials, although the department said it was willing to produce some for the private inspection of the judge.

The Senate Watergate committee and the Watergate prosecutors are investigating allegations that Nixon increased the federal price support for raw milk in 1971 in exchange for $527,000 in campaign contributions by the dairy industry. AMPI, headquartered in San Antoio, Tex., is the largest of the three cooperatives in the investigation.

The Justice Department filed a civil antitrust suit against AMPI on Feb. 1, 1972, charging the 40,000-member cooperative with forcing milk haulers to refuse to deal with nonmembers and forcing dairies to buy only from members.

Richard W. McLaren, who was in charge of the antitrust division when the suit was filed, said in an affidavit his "sole reason for directing that the AMPI suit be filed was to prevent and restrain what appeared from our investigation to be serious violations of the antitrust laws."

"I deny that I directed the investigation of AMPI or the filing of the suit against AMPI for any improper purpose," McLaren said.

7¼% on 5-year certificates of $1,000 or more.

Comet Near Low Point Of Orbit

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Comet Kohoutek makes its closing approach to the sun Friday as it begins a swing which will take it back out of the solar system.

Kohoutek is to reach perihelion, or the low point in its orbit, at 5:24 a.m., EST. At that time, it will be only 13.24 million miles from the sun and traveling at 251,400 miles per hour.

The comet will go around the sun, but it will not dip behind our star as seen from earth. Because of the angle of the comet in relation to the earth, it will appear just to loop around the top of the sun before heading back out into space.

Dr. William A. Deutschman, head of Project Kohoutek at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, says that after perihelion the comet should reemerge to earth viewers in the nighttime sky.

"However, comets are notoriously unpredictable," Deutschman says, noting that some have disappeared completely at perihelion or have broken up into smaller units.

If Kohoutek survives its close encounter with the sun, it will appear brighter than before.

Deutschman explained that after perihelion, the comet will be visible in a darker, night sky instead of in the morning sky in which it is now seen.

Increase In Violent Crime Reported In United States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Violent crime rose 3 per cent in the United States in the first nine months of 1973, the FBI reported today.

Overall, serious crime — encompassing murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault and far more numerous cases of burglary, larceny and auto theft — rose 1 per cent compared to the same period in 1972.

The FBI report, based on figures supplied voluntarily by local and state police, showed a 6 per cent rise in major rural crime and a 5 per cent increase in serious crime in the suburbs.

The national serious crime rate a year earlier showed a 2 per cent decrease.

"This increase in serious crime in the nation means that all of us must continue to support our law enforcement agencies in their efforts to combat crime in the streets," said Acting Attorney General Robert H. Bork.

The breakdown by category was:

Rape—up 8 per cent.

Murder—up 5 per cent.

Aggravated assault—up 5 per cent.

Robbery—no change.

Burglary—up 3 per cent.

Auto theft—up 1 per cent.

Larceny-theft—no change.

In a regional analysis, crime was up 4 per cent in the South and 2 per cent in the North Central states. There was no change in the Northeast and a decrease in the West.

But the report said serious crime fell in 71 large cities — including New York, Los Angeles, Clevleand, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, St. Louis and Washington.

The most dramatic crime rate drop was in Fall River, Mass., which recorded 29 per cent fewer crimes in the reporting period.

Other cities with marked decreases were Lansing, Mich., and Pasadena, Calif. — 22 per cent; Cleveland, Ohio, and Newark, N. J. — 15 per cent; Baltimore — 12 per cent and Los Angeles — 9 per cent.

The statistics came from 5,477 police agencies responsible for 148,775,000 people.

There were 1,236 murders in New York City during the period, six fewer than the year before. The highest reported murder increases in major cities were in San Francisco with 31 per cent more and Chicago with nearly 28 per cent more.

Milwaukee, according to the figures, had 91 per cent more rapes compared to the same period in 1972.

Makers Of Gypsum Board Indicted In Price Fixing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's six largest manufacturers of gypsum board and 10 of their executives were indicted by a federal grand jury today for price fixing.

Acting Attorney General Robert H. Bork said in a statement the indictment was returned in U. S. District Court in Pittsburgh, Pa. He said the Justice Department simultaneously filed a criminal attempt petition charging four of the gypsum companies and four of their executives with violating a 1951 court ruling prohibiting the firms from agreeing to fix, raise or stabilize prices of gypsum board.

Gypsum board is a widely used manufactured building material for the construction of walls and ceilings.

The indictment and criminal contempt petition charged the firms and officials with conspiring, beginning sometime before 1960 and continuing through 1973, to raise, fix, maintain and stabilize the prices and terms and conditions of sale of gypsum board, and to adopt uniform methods of packaging.

Named as defendants in the indictment were:

U. S. Gypsum Co., Chicago, Ill. and Graham J. Morgan, chairman and chief executive officer, and Andrew J. Watt, executive vice president;

Georgia-Pacific Corp., Portland, Ore., and William H. Hunt, former president;

The Celotex Corp., Tampa, Fla., and William D. Herbert, president;

Named as respondents in the criminal contempt petition were: U. S. Gypsum Co., and Graham J. Morgan and Andrew J. Watt; National Gypsum Co., and Colon Brown; Georgia-Pacific Corp. and William H. Hunt; and the Celotex Corp.

Acting Assistant Attorney General Bruce B. Wilson said the alleged price-fixing conspiracy violated a major provision of a final judgment handed down by the U. S. District Court in Washington on May 15, 1951, in a civil antitrust suit brought by the Justice Department against seven gypsum manufacturers.

Two More File For Election To Tiburon City Council Seats

Two more filings yesterday, one by a marketing consultant the other an attorney, have assured a contest in the March 5 Tiburon City Council election.

Registering for candidacy were John S. Mueller, 32, a marketing consultant and member of the Marin County Grand Jury, and George C. Martinez, 39, an attorney with a practice in San Francisco.

Planning Commissioner E. Bruce Ross, who announced his candidacy earlier this month, also filed yesterday. One other candidate, George Ellman, former parks and recreation commissioner, filed about two weeks ago.

Open in the election are the seats of Mayor Branwell D. Fanning and Councilmen Albert H. Sennett and M. Carlisle Becker. Fanning and Becker have announced they will not run.

Both Mueller and Martinez have strong reservations about the adopted Tiburon downtown plan and a proposal from Sequoia Pacific of Santa Ana to develop the downtown area.

Mueller, who said he is a member of Tiburon's Committee for A Downtown Plan Review, said both the adopted plan and the development proposal should be changed "to maintain the small town character of Tiburon, to limit automobile traffic and visitors, to preserve the open waterfront and retain the downtown area primarily for the use of residents."

Martinez said his first years in Marin were spent in Sausalito. "After that experience I really feel there has to be a careful watchdog on the council in connection with the downtown plan. In Sausalito on Saturdays and Sundays, you have to get out by 8 a.m. or stay home. Depending on the way that downtown Tiburon is developed, it could end up the same way."

He said he opposed downtown development for commercial purposes except to meet the needs of residents.

Martinez has lived two years in Tiburon and resides at 4 McCart Court with his wife and two sons.

He is a native of San Francisco where he was reared and where he attended San Francisco State University and the University of San Francisco School of Law. In 1968 he was appointed to the Joint Legislative Committee on Bay Area Reorganization. He is also a member of the California Trial Lawyers Association, the Commonwealth Club and the San Francisco Press Club.

Mueller has lived in Tiburon six years and resides at 246B Esperanza Street. Besides serving on the grand jury, he is present vice president of the Volunteer Bureau of Marin, vice president of Planned Parenthood of Marin, a member of the Marin Council of Agencies, a Marin United Bay Area Crusade representative and a member of the Sierra Club, the Marin Conservation League and the Tiburon Peninsula Advisory Committee.

He has bachelor's and master's degrees from Michigan State University.

Labor Unit Asks For $30 Boost In Jobless Pay

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A proposal to boost weekly payments for unemployment insurance by $30 was announced yesterday by the California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO.

John F. Henning, executive secretary-treasurer of the federation, said the proposal will be one of the key items in the organization's 1974 legislative program.

The present ceiling on jobless insurance is $90 per week.

The AFL-CIO will also propose when the legislature meets next month that the duration of the benefits be extended from 26 to 39 weeks.

Presently, benefits are allowed beyond 26 weeks only if unemployment conditions warrant it, based on a complicated formula.

Labor Unit Asks For $30 Boost In Jobless Pay

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A proposal to boost weekly payments for unemployment insurance by $30 was announced yesterday by the California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO.

John F. Henning, executive secretary-treasurer of the federation, said the proposal will be one of the key items in the organization's 1974 legislative program.

The present ceiling on jobless insurance is $90 per week.

The AFL-CIO will also propose when the legislature meets next month that the duration of the benefits be extended from 26 to 39 weeks.

Presently, benefits are allowed beyond 26 weeks only if unemployment conditions warrant it, based on a complicated formula.

Former Mayor

Councilman F. Wayne Sartain was erroneously listed as Novato's mayor yesterday in a story about his intention to seek reelection. Sartain was formerly the city's mayor but Fred F. Ruegg is now Novato's mayor.

Sino-Soviet Border Talks Reportedly Off

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia's sensitive border talks with China have come to a halt and specialists in Sino-Soviet affairs see relations as the worst since open frontier fighting broke out in 1969.

In an unusual revelation, an authoritative Soviet journal said in its yearend edition that the Chinese refuse to come to agreement in the border talks, "pretending that 'an atomic bomb is hanging above the negotiating table.'"

The talks were designed to solve disputes over where the Soviet-China border legitimately should be. The dispute dates to a 19th Century treaty, and flared up in 1969 when troops of each country periodically exchanged shots.

The quarterly journal, "Problems of the Far East," said the border negotiations which began Oct. 20, 1969, have proved futile.

At the same time, a ranking Soviet Politburo member raised the level of antagonism to a new height when he described China as an "aggressive power."

Possibly connected with this apprehensive view, a top-level conference of civil defense staff began in Moscow on Christmas Day. It was presided over by the chief of Soviety civil defense, Col. Gen. Alexander T. Altunin.

The newspaper Moscow Pravda said yesterday that Altunin's deputy, Col. Gen. Vladimir Grekov, delivered a report on "the tasks of strengthening propaganda about knowledge of civil defense."

Some Western diplomats said they were struck by the senior rank of the participatns and took it as a sign that the conference was not routine.

Though Problems of the Far East didn't say so, the border talks in Peking appear to Western specialists to have been suspended as long ago as last July.

The Soviet view of the deadlock was outlined by Problems of the Far East and clearly blamed China for the failure.

"The negotiations have proved futile," the journal said, "because Peking advances a demand which no sovereign state could accept — that even before the border questions are discussed, the border should be moved deep inside the Soviet Union and Soviet troops should be withdrawn from a number of regions of the USSR under the pretext of the existence of 'contested' regions."

The diplomats said the 1969 agreement included the withdrawal of forces from contested zones.

The aim of the talks for the Chinese is to have the Soviet Union recognize that the treaties by which Russia acquired large areas of Chinese territory in the 19th century were unequal because China was weak and Russia was strong.

China does not demand that this territory be returned, but it insists that land acquired by Russian encroachments beyond the treaty limits be returned.

The territory seized by Russia after the treaties were signed is considered "contested." Foreign specialists in Moscow said it consists of relatively small parcels of land, frequently no more than islands in the Amur and Ussuri rivers.

If you have a savings account, you should read every word on this page.

Never before has it been so difficult to maintain your standard of living

With shortages causing more inflation, and the outlook so uncertain, you must be sure to get the most for your money:
1. By getting the highest assured return, and
2. By reducing expenses.
Now, at Fidelity Savings, you can do both. Here's how:

1. Highest assured return. Interest rates are up everywhere. Since, directly or indirectly, you are paying them, you should also be getting them. But rates are not up equally everywhere. Fidelity Savings is paying the highest rates in its history. But make no mistake: commercial banks are not allowed to pay as much and most do not pay as much as they could: 4½% on passbook accounts, for example, while Fidelity passbook accounts pay 5¼% (16⅔% more) to 5¾% (27.7% more). And, of course, accounts at Fidelity Savings are insured by an agency of the Federal Government.

2. Reducing expenses. For the first time, Fidelity Savings is offering to all its savers an exclusive list of free money-saving opportunities that can help you cut unnecessary expenses. These are not frills: they are things you are paying for now; things you want and need, but could pay less for. Through Fidelity's Golden Opportunity Club, you can enjoy these money-savings benefits:
First: A package of financial services that costs you a bundle at commercial banks is FREE at Fidelity Savings.
Second: A money-saving coupon book that will save you money every time you do the things you like to do: travel, eat out (or take prepared food home), go to the movies or the theater.
Here are the details:
First the valuable financial services.

Free Bank Checking Account. If you add up the service charges you pay every month on our checking account, this could save you plenty!

Free Safe Deposit Box. This would cost you $7 or $8 at a bank. It's free to G. O. Club Members.

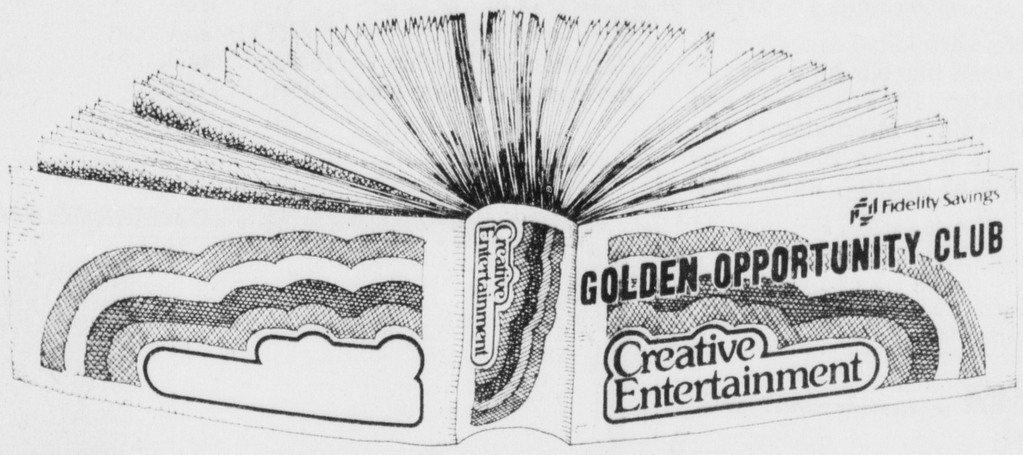
Free American Express Travelers Cheques. The safe way to carry cash while traveling. G. O. Club Members get theirs free of charge at any of our offices.

Discount Auto Purchase Plan. G. O. Club Members present their membership card at participating dealers and receive substantial savings on autos, trucks, and recreational vehicles. (One member recently saved over $750 on the purchase of a sedan.)

Discount Rent-A-Car Plan. If you don't want to buy a car, rent one. As a Golden Opportunity Club Member you are entitled to a 20% discount at America's "No. 1" rent-a-car company. (It's a cheaper way to G.O.!)

Free American Express Money Orders. The safe way to mail money or pay special bills. No charge to members.

Free Note Collection Service. Payments collected and deposited to your account free of charge.



And now a way to cut expenses while your money works

This is more than another gimmick for savers, but it's such an incredible deal that you must actually thumb through this monstrously thick book of passes yourself to believe it. There is something there for everyone in your family. Enjoy eating out and saving...gourmet restaurants to fast food. Save on theater tickets, sporting events, travel, vacations, concerts, A.C.T., Broadway shows, museums, and movies. You'll have a Golden Opportunity to save money while you and your family enjoy sports like skiing, scuba diving, bowling, archery, riding, sailing, plus special tickets to spectator sports...and more. If someone in your family wants to learn a sport, there are honest, substantial, savings in instruction courses, too. Learn to sail, karate, become a certified diver, an accomplished equestrian, and more. And that's not all...

40 Convenient Locations

We now have more locations in our Northern California service area than any other S&L. Now, that doesn't make us the biggest, maybe just the most convenient. But, we know that it's the one nearest you that counts ...the others are for everybody else. If we're not near where you live, maybe we're near where you work.

Your money is as safe as money in the bank

That's because it's insured by the same kind of U. S. Governmental agency that insures banks. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation insures bank accounts, the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation insures Savings & Loan Accounts. It's as simple as that. As a matter of fact, no one has ever lost a penny in an insured savings and loan account! So, we can't take any special credit. No S&L should. Accounts are insured to $20,000 by the above named agency and that's that.

If you put it all together–

Some math whiz added it all up and came to the conclusion that if your family used up every single ticket and the weekly bonuses, you could save yourself over $2,000! Nobody in his right mind would do all that, but we worked it out just to impress you with all the possibilities.

All this didn't just happen

The G. O. Club isn't the first time we've gone all out for our savers. Even since we first started out in the Savings & Loan business we have made it a policy to try our best to give our depositors as much as we could in the way of service. We were the first in this area to offer depositors free checking accounts, check-a-month annuity plans, a travel service and more.

Over $690 million in assets

Another indicator of a growing group of people who trust us.

What you have to do to become a member

(or: Something for Something)

In order to qualify for all these nice things, we ask that you maintain a Fidelity Savings account with a minimum balance of $2,500. (or establish that amount as your savings goal and pledge regular monthly deposits). There are some clubs that require as much as $7,500 and others that only ask for $1,000. But, we don't think you'll find any savings club that gives you so much value.

Please don't take our word for it–get tough!

This is the age of the consumer and savers are consumers, too. So, take a little time this week and do a little "shopping" for a savings institution. Visit the S&L's and banks near you and collect their literature. Ask a teller, or if you really want more information, ask the manager. Get tough. Compare. Get the most for your money. You may never use all the services available. However, consider what's in it for you and your family. All we ask is that you give Fidelity Savings and the Golden Opportunity Club a fair chance.

IF YOU WANT TO JOIN, THIS COUPON CAN TAKE AWAY THE BOTHER OF TRANSFERRING YOUR ACCOUNT. JUST COMPLETE AND BRING IT WITH YOUR PRESENT PASSBOOK OR CERTIFICATE TO THE NEAREST FIDELITY BRANCH.

BADLY BANGED-UP BUS

Two young people were killed and about 30 injured yesterday when this bus hit a car and overturned near Paxton, Ill. Passengers had been picked up at O'Hare International Airport in Chicago and were en route to the University of Illinois at Urbana, where they were to be part of a staff Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship Conference. About 10 of those injured were hospitalized in Paxton.

A Half Million In W. German Army

BONN (UPI) — West Germany's armed forces total nearly half a million men.

Defense ministry figures say there are 319,000 soldiers, 111,000 airmen and 37,000 sailors on duty.

IRS Claims Gas Dealers Overpricing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) says one out of three gasoline stations it checked recently were overcharging customers or violating price controls in other ways, such as failing to post price stickers on pumps.

A spokesman said yesterday that IRS, which has been given the job of checking on compliance with the controls, received 2,115 complaints between Nov. 16 and Dec. 14.

Of 25,543 spot checks made by IRS during that period, agents found 9,198 apparent violations, a spokesman said.

"They were not only (cases of) overcharging," he said, "but could also be failing to post the price on the sticker at the pump."

IRS is checking a report that one station in the New York City area charged 99.9 cents a gallon for gasoline on Christmas night. But it said most cases of overcharging—whether deliberate or accidental—involved pennies at a time.

Gasoline retailers are allowed to pass on to customers price increases related either to increased cost of imported oil or increased cost of newly discovered domestic oil.

Astronauts In Top Shape

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab 3 astronauts, nearly halfway through their 84-day flight, say they are in top physical and mental shape because of increased exercise.

The final Skylab crew is working harder to keep their muscles and hearts in shape in weightlessness than the two previous crews did.

Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue, who will reach the midpoint of their mission Friday morning, spend a major portion of today conducting medical experiments.

The trio spent a relaxing day off Tuesday and have a light schedule today and Friday before venturing outside the station again Saturday for a three and a half hour walk in space.

Scientists told the astronauts they were pleased with their research on Comet Kohoutek which makes its nearest approach to the sun Friday.

"All of the comet investigators are simply delighted as far as the operations have been going," said William Snoddy, Kohoutek project scientist for Skylab. "Interest in the comet is quite high and you can even get a Kohoutek T-shirt if you want to."

The comet discoverer, Lubos Kohoutek, will visit the Johnson Space Center Friday and talk with the astronauts from Mission Control.

Carr and Gibson discussed their physical conditions Wednesday with ground physicians and said they did not want to cut down on the amount of exercise although they were spending at least an hour and a half daily working on a stationary bicycle and pulley ropes.

Gibson said the extra exercise was "not in any way a personal fetish at all. It's strictly to try and keep ourselves in good shape for the long duration flight.

"None of us are complaining of any muscle soreness or any fatigue or anything like that from the exercise," Gibson said. "Most of us find the exercise is a cobweb clearer. It makes us feel a lot better when we're finished."

Oil Revenue

BEIRUT (UPI) — Iraq's revenue from oil after the latest rise in the price of Persian Gulf oil will be running at $8.337 billion annually, the Iraqi newspaper Al Taakhi said today.

BADLY BANGED-UP BUS

Two young people were killed and about 30 injured yesterday when this bus hit a car and overturned near Paxton, Ill. Passengers had been picked up at O'Hare International Airport in Chicago and were en route to the University of Illinois at Urbana, where they were to be part of a staff Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship Conference. About 10 of those injured were hospitalized in Paxton.

A Half Million In W. German Army

Defense ministry figures say there are 319,000 soldiers, 111,000 airmen and 37,000 sailors on duty.

IRS Claims Gas Dealers Overpricing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) says one out of three gasoline stations it checked recently were overcharging customers or violating price controls in other ways, such as failing to post price stickers on pumps.

A spokesman said yesterday that IRS, which has been given the job of checking on compliance with the controls, received 2,115 complaints between Nov. 16 and Dec. 14.

Of 25,543 spot checks made by IRS during that period, agents found 9,198 apparent violations, a spokesman said.

"They were not only (cases of) overcharging," he said, "but could also be failing to post the price on the sticker at the pump."

IRS is checking a report that one station in the New York City area charged 99.9 cents a gallon for gasoline on Christmas night. But it said most cases of overcharging—whether deliberate or accidental—involved pennies at a time.

Gasoline retailers are allowed to pass on to customers price increases related either to increased cost of imported oil or increased cost of newly discovered domestic oil.

Astronauts In Top Shape

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab 3 astronauts, nearly halfway through their 84-day flight, say they are in top physical and mental shape because of increased exercise.

The final Skylab crew is working harder to keep their muscles and hearts in shape in weightlessness than the two previous crews did.

Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue, who will reach the midpoint of their mission Friday morning, spend a major portion of today conducting medical experiments.

The trio spent a relaxing day off Tuesday and have a light schedule today and Friday before venturing outside the station again Saturday for a three and a half hour walk in space.

Scientists told the astronauts they were pleased with their research on Comet Kohoutek which makes its nearest approach to the sun Friday.

"All of the comet investigators are simply delighted as far as the operations have been going," said William Snoddy, Kohoutek project scientist for Skylab. "Interest in the comet is quite high and you can even get a Kohoutek T-shirt if you want to."

The comet discoverer, Lubos Kohoutek, will visit the Johnson Space Center Friday and talk with the astronauts from Mission Control.

Carr and Gibson discussed their physical conditions Wednesday with ground physicians and said they did not want to cut down on the amount of exercise although they were spending at least an hour and a half daily working on a stationary bicycle and pulley ropes.

Gibson said the extra exercise was "not in any way a personal fetish at all. It's strictly to try and keep ourselves in good shape for the long duration flight.

"None of us are complaining of any muscle soreness or any fatigue or anything like that from the exercise," Gibson said. "Most of us find the exercise is a cobweb clearer. It makes us feel a lot better when we're finished."

Oil Revenue

BEIRUT (UPI) — Iraq's revenue from oil after the latest rise in the price of Persian Gulf oil will be running at $8.337 billion annually, the Iraqi newspaper Al Taakhi said today.

Teen-Age Gangs End Feud, Work Together

DETROIT (AP) — The Bishops and the Chains have been warring over the turf near Van Dyke Road on Detroit's East Side for five years.

Recently the two teen-age street gangs ended their violent feud and about 300 of the gang's members set out to help revitalize their neighborhood.

"I just don't want my little brother to be another alley kid with nothing else to do but knock somebody on the head," said James, a member of the Chains.

"It couldn't keep on, man," said 18-year-old Frank, a member of the Bishops. "It was a threat to our survival. We want to have a positive effect."

The two gangs claimed opposite sides of Van Dyke Road as their territory in a rivalry that saw numerous burglaries and fights. The street war came to a head last month when four teen-agers were wounded in a shootout.

Police started to crack down. In late November, Dick Humphries of the Metropolitan Detroit Youth Foundation decided to initiate a truce meeting of Bishops, Chains and police.

"We weren't getting very far, so one of us asked the gang members what we could do to help them," Humphries said. "One of them told us to leave the room and they'd work things out."

Humphries and police Inspector Frank Blount were called back into the room an hour later.

"They'd worked out a truce and exchanged phone numbers so they could call each other in case something happened," Humphries said.

Gang members now say they are determined to gain the trust of the community. They are asking government and private agencies to help set up a year-round recreation project and job training center.

Councilman Souza Seeks Reelection

ROBERT R. SOUZA
Reelection bid

Veteran Fairfax Town Councilman Robert R. Souza yesterday announced he will seek reelection in the March 5 council election.

Souza, 50, a veteran's employment coordinator for the state Human Resources Development Agency, was appointed to the council in 1964 and has been reelected to the post twice.

Souza, former chairman of the town parks and recreation commission, said he is an advocate of controlled growth in Fairfax.

He said it is "unfortunate" that a proposal to develop the Buon Gusto property with 80 apartment units has become a political issue since the proposal has not yet been presented for council consideration.

"I will not make a definitive statement about the proposed Buon Gusto development until plans for multiple housing have been presented," he said.

"I feel that a property owner has definite rights in the development of his property, consistent with town ordinances," he added.

Souza said he supports improvement of Center and Sir Francis Drake boulevards, and supports a study of possible widening of the thoroughfares.

He called for acquisition of open space "only by voter approval in a bond issue," and called for integrity in public office.

He pledged to make public all campaign contributions, contributors and expenses.

He said that salaries of town safety personnel "should be as adequate as is within the town's means to pay."

Souza attended the College of Marin and graduated from the University of San Francisco with a bachelor's degree in psychology.

He is a member of the California State Employees Association, the Native Sons, and the San Rafael Elks Club, and is active in Little League and Scouting.

Show Goes On Despite London Theater Boming

LONDON (UPI) — The cast of "Carry on London" carried on despite a bomb explosion by Irish extremists outside the Victoria Palace Theater and actress Barbara Windsor received a standing ovation.

Miss Windsor was singing "You Made Me Love You," one of the songs in the hit comedy, when the bomb went off just outside the stage door of the packed theater last night.

True to both the title of the show and the show business tradition, she did not miss a note.

"Everyone could tell what had happened," said comedian Sid James, appearing with Miss Windsor in the show. "But when we were in the wings congratulating her, all she said was, 'Don't be daft. I was a war baby, you know.'"

The bomb was one of two exploded in London last night, renewing the bomb campaign of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) after a bombless Christmas day.

The second bomb yesterday exploded in a subway ticket office. There were no injuries in either blast.

Vague warnings of bombs planted "in the West End" and "on the District (subway) line" were telephoned to police and a news agency before the explosions, but police were unable to find either before they exploded.

The theater bomb was planted in a window box at the Stage Door pub beside the actual stage door of the Victoria Palace. It blew out windows and scarred woodwork at the pub. The second was placed in a telephone booth at the Sloane Square subway station, but because it was late at night there was no one near the explosion although three telephones were blown up.

The bombs were the 22nd and 23rd in a 10-day-old IRA bombing campaign to protest the British-sponsored coalition government in Belfast.

Drunken Drivers Being Offered A Free Funeral

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The Dilday Family Funeral Directors are offering a free funeral to drunken drivers.

The conditions, according to spokesman Harry Christensen, are:

Applicants must sign up ahead of time, local residents only.

They will get a certificate, promising that if they kill themselves because of their drinking and driving habits, Dilday will inter them free of charge.

They must attach the certificate to the sun visor on the driver's side of their cars, where the driver can see it overhead constantly.

Collegians Will Use Vouchers Next

NEW YORK (UPI) — The high cost of college-going eventually will force on the nation a new public voucher system under which college students can take tuition-paying vouchers to the college of their choice.

Under such proposed voucher programs, the students would receive grants and loans from state and federal funding sources and spend them as they wish in the education market. The new plan, already being considered by several state legislatures, comes in for a detailed analysis in the October issue of Change, the magazine of higher learning.

Lithograph Will Benefit Flournoy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Controller Houston I. Flournoy today displayed a lithograph by artist William Crutchfield which will be used to raise funds for Flournoy's Republican gubernatorial campaign.

Flournoy said the Crutchfield work, produced in a series of 300, will be available to the public for a donation of $300 to his campaign.

The lithograph, entitled "Support California," represents Crutchfield's conception of the current political climate in America, Flournoy said.

The work showed rain clouds over Sacramento, which Crutchfield said "symbolize the credibility crisis looming over all those involved in the political process."

D.C. Police Officers To Disclose Finances

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chief of the Metropolitan Washington police force has ordered all officers holding the rank of captain and above to make a yearly, confidential financial disclosure beginning next month.

Chief Jerry V. Wilson said the order affects 95 captains, inspectors, deputy and assistant chiefs, including himself. Detailed disclosures of real estate holdings, investments, stocks, bonds, and all sources of income outside the department are required.

At the present time, seven police officers, including one inspector and one former officer, are among 14 defendants on trial in connection with gambling payoffs. And seven other past and present officers are defendants in a conspiracy vice trial. "Recent disclosure of corruption is not a reason for the order," Wilson said. "I don't expect to find thieves."

Wilson said he will get the information in sealed envelopes to be kept in his possession. He said they will provide a "helpful tool" in checking out complaints about irregularities involving officers.

Offering an example, Wilson said that if an officer purchased a $100,000 home, a look at his financial statement could establish whether or not the man had the resources to make such a purchase. If the records produced questions about the deal, a board of inquiry could be formed to probe the case.

Bone From Ancient Bear Is Found Near Berkeley

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A seven-year-old boy discovered a bone identified by University of California paleontologists today as part of a giant bear that roamed six millions years ago.

This was the first evidence of the bear, called the agriotherikum, found in Northern California. Fossils of the animal have been found in several other western states, but are extremely rare.

The bone was found by Darren Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Schroeder, of Orinda, near Berkeley. Darren saw the bone, a peculiar black object, sticking out of the ground near a hiking trail and called it to his father's attention.

The father and son took the bone to the university where experts searched the Museum of Paleontology and determined that it was part of the foreleg of the ancient bear, which was slightly larger than the present giant Alaskan brown bear.

Speed Cut May Lower Insurance

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lower speed limits which go into effect Jan. 1 may result in as much as a 10 per cent reduction in California automobile insurance rates, according to the state's insurance commissioner.

The commissioner, Gleeson L. Payne, said yesterday he expected reductions in California similar to the 10 per cent cut ordered in Rhode Island yesterday.

But unlike Rhode Island where the state ordered the cut, Payne said he expected reductions in California to come about through competition among insurance companies.

"I feel certain that there will be reductions," Payne said, "but I don't believe that anyone has the knowledge at this point to make definite statements as to what they will be."

Payne said a study was underway to determine what the accident rate in California might be after the maximum speed limit is reducted to 55 miles per hour Jan. 1. The study also is taking into account the probability that fewer vehicles will be on the road because of the energy crisis.

Payne said California has an "open rating" system under which carriers could offer competitive rates but that the rates are screened by the state to make sure they are neither excessive nor too low for normal competition.

Federal Aid Said Causing Building In Hazard Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Uncle Sam is so generous to disaster victims he may be encouraging homeowners and businessmen to build in hazardous areas without insurance, according to a University of Pennsylvania economist.

Federal disaster subsidies in recent years have been so large that some individuals have actually made substantial profits, says Prof. Howard Kunreuther of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business in a study released yesterday.

In one case, a motel owner in Fairbanks, Alaska, whose property suffered $140,000 damage in a 1967 flood, was able to borrow $894,000 from the government at 3 per cent interest. The going rate for loans at the time was 7 per cent, Kunreuther said.

After a 1971 California earthquake, many homeowners sought—and received—funds to repair damage that was not even caused by the quake, and some got more than they asked, he said.

After the 1972 floods caused by tropical storm Agnes, Congress passed laws which, for that period only, gave $5,000 free to victims and let them borrow up to $200,000 more at 1 per cent interest. As a result, total claims this year swelled to $2.6 billion—more than the previous six years put together.

At the same time, Kunreuther said, Pennsylvania residents hit by the storm declined to buy readily-available federal flood insurance and many rebuilt on river flats despite the fact other land could be used.

"The cost of repairing damage from natural disasters is now being treated as a public responsibility," Kunreuther said. "The general taxpayer is being burdened with an increased role in financing recovery despite the availability of insurance, of sites in less hazard-prone areas and of construction methods that will reduce losses."

"The current disaster relief program is perverse in its failure to discourage individuals from locating in hazard-prone areas," he wrote at another point. "It may in fact even reinforce their decision to locate in hazard-prone areas and not to protect themselves against potential losses."

Realty Tycoon Has Problems

CHICAGO (UPI) — Walter Judd Kassuba, who built a family real estate business in Milwaukee into a $550 million nationwide empire of apartments and condominiums, has asked U.S. District Bankruptcy Court for financial help, it was learned yesterday.

Kassuba, 39, asked the court today to prevent creditors from making collections against his companies pending a reorganization of his finances. The petition said he was unable to meet an $800,000 payroll and $1.2 million in accumulated debts without the court's help.

Kassuba and his wife, Christina, residents of West Palm Beach, Fla., are owners of a cost-to-coast string of 119 housing projects catering to more than 40,000 middle income group tenants.

Impoundment Of Funds For Farmers Is Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration has decided to impound nearly half of $175 million voted by Congress to pay farmers for conservation and environmental protection projects.

The Agriculture Department announced yesterday that it will spend only $90 million in 1974 on a renamed Rural Environmental Conservation Program (RECP) and that the other $85 million approved by Congress has been held up by the White House's Office of Management and Budget.

Refusal by an administration to spend money which Congress ordered be spent is called "impoundment," and its legality is at issue in a number of lawsuits pending in the courts.

In another development, the Agriculture Department said it had White House clearance to spend $10 million on reviving a Water Bank program to preserve farm marshlands for migratory birds. That is the full amount voted by Congress for 1974.

The administration's decision to spend even $90 million on the conservation program represents a concession, since the administration a year ago canceled a predecessor program called Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP). But congressional critics are not expected to be satisfied with the limited revival.

The new program will involve two types of federal agreements with farmers. One will pay them part of the cost of approved conservation and environmental protection practices, a continuation of a program going back under varying names to 1936. The second type of contract will provide cost-sharing payments for conservation work done over periods ranging from three to fifteen years.

Low Bid Received For Bridge Work

A low bid of $70,728 has been received by the state Toll Bridge Administration for repair work on the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge, a spokesman said.

The work is to include resetting existing bearing keeper plates and installing new ones where the present plates have been damaged on the San Quentin approach to the bridge. The plates secure the bearings at the top of bridge piers which bear the load of the bridge and traffic on it.

Water Illnesses

NEW YORK (UPI) — More and more physical illnesses are associated with impure water. The latest ones are typhoid fever, infectious hepatitis, cholera, gastro-enteritis, and skin infections. The World Health Organization reported that 5 million people each year suffer disabling diseases associated with water.

Suffocation Held Cause In Murder

A 51-year-old houseboat dweller whose bound and gagged body was discovered Christmas night had been suffocated, the Marin County coroner's office said today.

The method of suffocation used by the killer of Dean Prowse, a retired Navy commander who lived aboard a houseboat berthed at the SFO Heliport north of Sausalito, was not known, according to the coroner. More tests were to be conducted.

Sheriff's deputies said they are following "a large number of leads" but the murderer remained at large today. Investigators said they had not recovered Prowse's late model car, or his billfold or wristwatch, all presumed stolen.

Prowse's body was found by his roommate, Larry Krause, 23, when he returned from visiting friends in San Francisco at 11:30 p.m.

Prowse, a part-time secretary, is survived by a son, Dean Prowse Jr. of Oregon. Funeral arrangements were pending today at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley.

Bus Driver, Passengers Injured In Bus Crash

JORDAN VALLEY, Ore. (UPI) — a Boise Winnemucca Stages bus slid off snowcovered U.S. 95 about 14 miles southwest of Jordan Valley early today, critically injuring the driver and four passengers.

Investigating officers said as many as 16 of the 25 passengers may have been hurt in the 2:20 a.m. accident.

Driver James Jackson, 44, Boise, Idaho, who has logged 15 years without an accident, was thrown through the windshield when the bus slammed into boulders in a rock cut.

His pelvis broken, the critically hurt Jackson crawled up an embankment over which the bus had gone, reached the road, flagged down an approaching car and then collapsed.

Jackson and the four other critically hurt persons were taken to Memorial Hospital in Caldwell, Idaho. The others were not identified immediately.

Passengers said the bus slid into the rockcropping and then traveled down the embankment into boulders. Three inches of snow were reported on the road at the time.

Airport Project Given Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — By a narrow margin, the Board of Supervisors voted yesterday in favor of a proposed $330 million expansion of San Francisco International Airport.

By a vote of 6-4, the bare minimum needed, the supervisors adopted an environmental impact report that was required before the expansion could go ahead.

Opponents charged that the environmental report failed to deal with recent developments in the energy crisis, fuel shortages and declining passenger volume.

But William Dwyer, the airport's general manager, said it would cost $1.5 million in inflation for every month the expansion was delayed.

Protest Suppression In South Korea Hit

SEOUL (UPI) — Opposition politicians today criticized the government's announced intention to suppress calls for constitutional revision and a return to democracy in South Korea.

A spokesman for the opposition New Democratic party said the government was seeking to force "humiliating obedience" on South Koreans.

The small Democratic Unification party said in a statement it was "outrageous" the government intended to suppress political dissent.

Premier Kim Jong Pil, in a 90-minute speech to the nation yesterday, warned the government would not tolerate street demonstrations or the gathering of signatures for petitions in favor of constitutional reform.

"Any actions defying the present government system of the country such as street demonstrations and signature collection campaigns seeking constitutional amendments cannot be tolerated," Kim said.

His speech seemed aimed specifically at South Korean students, who have been staging antigovernment demonstrations — mostly on their campuses — since last Oct. 2. Authorities ordered schools closed early for winter vacation.

More recently, some civic and religious leaders have demanded constitutional revision and said they would collect one million signatures supporting their cause.

Senator Tunney's Marriage Ended

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — The marriage of Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., 39, and his wife Mieke, 35, was dissolved yesterday.

A decree by Superior Court Judge Thomas Bucciarelli ended the marriage of almost 15 years. The Tunneys, who separated in May, 1972, and their lawyers met privately with the judge for four hours to work out terms of a settlement.

The judge sealed the records, keeping the terms secret. But lawyers for the Tunneys said she would continue to live in their Washington, D.C., home, and would have custody of their three children, ages 6 to 12, with Tunney to have custody every other weekend and half the summer.

His pelvis broken, the critically hurt Jackson crawled up an embankment over which the bus had gone, reached the road, flagged down an approaching car and then collapsed.

Jackson and the four other critically hurt persons were taken to Memorial Hospital in Caldwell, Idaho. The others were not identified immediately.

Passengers said the bus slid into the rockcropping and then traveled down the embankment into boulders. Three inches of snow were reported on the road at the time.

Airport Project Given Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — By a narrow margin, the Board of Supervisors voted yesterday in favor of a proposed $330 million expansion of San Francisco International Airport.

By a vote of 6-4, the bare minimum needed, the supervisors adopted an environmental impact report that was required before the expansion could go ahead.

Opponents charged that the environmental report failed to deal with recent developments in the energy crisis, fuel shortages and declining passenger volume.

But William Dwyer, the airport's general manager, said it would cost $1.5 million in inflation for every month the expansion was delayed.

Protest Suppression In South Korea Hit

SEOUL (UPI) — Opposition politicians today criticized the government's announced intention to suppress calls for constitutional revision and a return to democracy in South Korea.

A spokesman for the opposition New Democratic party said the government was seeking to force "humiliating obedience" on South Koreans.

The small Democratic Unification party said in a statement it was "outrageous" the government intended to suppress political dissent.

Premier Kim Jong Pil, in a 90-minute speech to the nation yesterday, warned the government would not tolerate street demonstrations or the gathering of signatures for petitions in favor of constitutional reform.

"Any actions defying the present government system of the country such as street demonstrations and signature collection campaigns seeking constitutional amendments cannot be tolerated," Kim said.

His speech seemed aimed specifically at South Korean students, who have been staging antigovernment demonstrations — mostly on their campuses — since last Oct. 2. Authorities ordered schools closed early for winter vacation.

More recently, some civic and religious leaders have demanded constitutional revision and said they would collect one million signatures supporting their cause.

Senator Tunney's Marriage Ended

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — The marriage of Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., 39, and his wife Mieke, 35, was dissolved yesterday.

A decree by Superior Court Judge Thomas Bucciarelli ended the marriage of almost 15 years. The Tunneys, who separated in May, 1972, and their lawyers met privately with the judge for four hours to work out terms of a settlement.

The judge sealed the records, keeping the terms secret. But lawyers for the Tunneys said she would continue to live in their Washington, D.C., home, and would have custody of their three children, ages 6 to 12, with Tunney to have custody every other weekend and half the summer.

Ross Valley Man Given Jail Term

The final case resulting from the arrest of three Ross Valley men in Fairfax Oct. 23 has been settled in Marin Municipal Court.

Kevin Jude Fitzpatrick, 22, of San Anselmo, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and a year's probation on a resisting arrest count, to which he pleaded guilty.

Stephen Charles Donnellan, 21, of Fairfax, earlier was placed on probation for six months and fined $150 for resisting arrest.

A petty theft charge against Scott Rollins Shepherd, 20, also of San Anselmo, was dismissed last month.

The trio originally was arrested on suspicion of auto theft after Fairfax police allegedly found them inside a stolen station wagon.

Milestone Reached In Cancer Research

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A University of California researcher has reached an important milestone on the long road to understanding human cancer.

He has discovered that a strain of Swiss mice formerly thought to be wholly free of cancer viruses are in fact full of the viruses.

He also has found that these highly specialized mouse leukemia viruses will only grow when transplanted into the cells of other animals — they don't infect the mice.

The researcher, Dr. Jay A. Levy of UC's Cancer Research Institute, was working along the lines of a theory advanced by other scientists, including Dr. Robert J. Huebner of the National Cancer Institute.

The theory is that every animal, including man, is born with an hereditary endowment of cancer viruses. but since only certain cells become cancerous, it is believed they have a mechanism to suppress the infectious cancer viruses.

When something goes wrong, and the hereditary mechanism to inhibit the cancer viruses breaks down, the victim gets cancer.

Particles that resemble the cancer viruses of mice have been observed in human tissues, although they have never been isolated and grown in laboratory cultures.

Now experimenters must try to grow these particles found in humans in tissue cultures from other animals.

Then the researchers must probe into the genetic material of mice to discover the unknown mechanism that protects normal mice from cancer when their own bodies contain cancer viruses.

If the protective mechanism can be found in a mouse, it should be found in other animals — and man, as well.

If the mechanism can be found, researchers may be able to learn how to keep it from breaking down and thus prevent the scourge of cancer.

France Expecting 1974 To Be Bad

PARIS (UPI) — The year 1973 may have been a bad one for France but 1974 will be worse, according to an opinion poll published by Le Figaro newspaper today.

Inflation is the major topic worrying the French.

Asked if they thought 1973 was a year like any other or worse than average, 42 per cent said it was worse.

Sixty-six per cent thought things were likely to deteriorate further in 1974 and 45 per cent said the government's main task next year must be ending inflation.

Judge Rules Alimony Is Illegal

ATLANTA (UPI) — A Fulton County Superior Court judge ruled yesterday that alimony payments are a form of sex discrimination and are therefore unconstitutional in Georgia.

Agreeing with a husband's contention that the Georgia alimony statutes are unconstitutional, Judge Charles Wofford ruled against the wife in the divorce case of Michael Vincent Murphy III vs. Barbara Browne Murphy.

Wofford based his ruling on Georgia's definition of alimony, which is defined as "...an allowance out of the husband's estate made for the support of the wife when living separate from him..."

"There is a substantial federal question involved in this case," Wofford said. "Our law provides only that it is an allowance out of the husband's estate, so it can't flow both ways. The modern tendency is that it must flow both ways, and the male and female must be treated equally. The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled to this effect in several cases."

In making the ruling, Wofford said the definition of alimony "denies husbands as a class due process and equal protection of the law as guaranteed (them) by the Constitution of the state of Georgia and by the Constitution of the United States."

Woman Gets Probation For Drugs

Virginia Lee Sabo, 30, of Garberville, has been placed on probation for 18 months for possession of opium, marijuana and dangerous drugs in September.

If she gets into no further trouble, Municipal Judge David R. Baty said, the charges will be dismissed.

Baty acted on authority of a law which gives first-time drug offenders a second chance.

Mrs. Sabo and her husband, Ronald Phillip Sabo, 33, were arrested when California Highway Patrol officers stopped their car on Highway 101 and discovered the drugs.

Sabo failed to appear during a preliminary hearing, and a bench warrant with bail at $5,000 has been issued for his arrest.

His income averages $5,970 and his spending $6,100.

$500,000 Ransom Asked In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Kidnapers of American construction manager Charles Hayes were reported yesterday asking $500,000 ransom for his release.

Buenos Aires newspapers cited sources close to Hayes' employer, McKee Tecsa, for the unconfirmed report. The company declined comment.

Hayes, 51, a resident of Argentina for the past six years, was seized Friday in La Plata, 35 miles southeast of Buenos Aires, while on his way from his home to a McKee Tecsa construction site at the nearby port. McKee Tecsa is an Argentine affiliate of the U.S. firm McKee Cleveland.

Unlike most of the other 11 foreigners kidnaped in Argentina this year, Hayes' case has not been accompanied by a communique from left-wing guerrillas taking credit for the act.

The People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), an outlawed leftwing group, claimed belated credit yesterday for kidnaping Kurt Schmid, Latin American director of Swissair airline.

A clandestine ERP magazine, Red Star, said the group had collected $3.8 million for Schmid's release, announced Nov. 29 — 37 days after his disappearance.

Red Star also had a photo of kidnaped U.S. oil executive Victor Samuelson on its cover with the slogan, "No truce for imperialist companies."

ERP said Samuelson, kidnaped Dec. 6 from an Esso company restaurant, would be "submitted to revolutionary justice" and that Esso, the Argentine subsidiary of Exxon, must pay $10 million for his release.

"Our organization has decided that 100 million pesos ($10 million) in food, clothing, etc. must be distributed among the needy people in neighborhoods and cities indicated," the ERP said.

The ERP was outlawed by the Peronist government Sept.

Soviet Painter Is Under Arrest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Soviet painter Alexander Ann has been arrested in Moscow on a four-year-old charge of "hooliganism" after he applied for an exit visa to emigrate to Israel, it was reported yesterday.

The Bay Area Council on Soviet Jewry said it learned of Ann's arrest in a telephone conversation with dissident intellectuals in the Soviet Union.

Ann was arrested in 1969 on the charge of hooliganism, but the charge was dropped for lack of evidence. Three weeks after the artist applied for permission to emigrate, the charge was reactivated, the council said.

Parents Learn 'Parenting'

ELEANOR THIEL shows how her baby, Michele, can take beginning steps during the discussion series for young Marin parents in a program developed by Marin Red Cross volunteer nurse Faith Eckhoff. The program may become a national community service of the Red Cross.

A young mother has a premonition that something dreadful is going to happen to her new baby. A young father draws back from cuddling his infant son, worried that such a display of affection might seem unmanly. Another parent wonders if her baby is old enough to sleep in a room by himself.

New parents often find themselves far from family or friends with whom they can discuss these concerns and the problems they feel too minor to bring to the attention of their pediatricians.

To meet the needs of a changing society, Marin Red Cross volunteer nurse Faith Eckhoff has developed a parent discussion group, which offers new parents the opportunity to share their problems and learn about "parenting."

A new course will begin Feb. 4.

Faith, a Red Cross volunteer for several years, for the past four years has taught prenatal instruction classes for expectant parents, co-sponsored by the Red Cross and Marin General Hospital.

The idea of a parenting class began in the summer of 1972. She felt that while many agencies offered prenatal instruction, no agency offered a program for the new, at times uneasy, parent. As her interest in providing the community with such a service grew, Flora Abbott, professor of maternal child health at the University of California in San Francisco, suggested that Faith do a study of the development of such a program for credit.

After two quarters of study, Faith felt her program was ready to test through the Red Cross. Once her concept was approved by the Red Cross and the Marin County pediatricians, Faith began making it a reality.

"IT WAS a lot of work," said Faith. She personally contacted each parent from her prenatal instruction class as she read newspaper reports of the baby's delivery.

Of the 15 parents who expressed an interest in the new service, eight couples came to the first discussion group. Six couples have stayed with the group nearly a year and plan a birthday party for the new "parenting class," on Feb. 4th.

Three successive classes were started in April, August and October. They were led by Pat Ravicz, Judy Frey and Betty Chamberlin, who are also Red Cross volunteer nurses trained in maternal and child care.

Many parents would like to start the program when their child is first born, but find this impossible. Most parents were able to join the class when their child was three to four weeks old. They settled on meeting every two weeks because so many things change in that time in the development of a baby.

The parents now meet twice a month at the Marin Red Cross Chapter house in San Rafael to discuss universal problems of parents. Sessions are held in the evening.

At first Faith arranged for another Red Cross volunteer nurse to provide baby sitting services for those parents who desired it. "It soon became apparent baby sitting services were not necessary," she said.

The young parents look upon the discussion sessions as a night out.

"THEY BRING their babies dressed as for a party and park them in their infant seats on the table in front of them as they talk.

"At the first two or three sessions," recalls Faith, "the mothers relived the experience of their deliveries. This seems very important," she explained, "as most had no friends with babies and they felt nobody really understood what they had experienced."

Direction of the discussion is determined by the parents, according to Faith. One evening a young man noticed another father constantly stroking and cuddling his little daughter. "Do I have to hold my son?" he asked the group. "I like him," he explained, "but I look forward to the time when he's grown up and I can play ball with him."

The group decided that the young man was free to express his emotion toward his son in whatever way he felt most comfortable. Gradually, the reassured father began to touch and fondle his child, free to express the emotion he really felt.

"Much discussion centers on feelings of resentment," said Faith. "There's a lot of talk about feeding and sleeping problems."

One evening a parent expressed anxiety about sudden infant death. Introduction of the subject enabled the group to find that they shared a feeling of premonition that something dreadful was going to happen to their babies. Once they found this was a completely normal tribulation of parents, all felt reassured.

Faith explained that parents should recognize that sudden infant death is like a catastrophe unlikely to happen to them any more than earthquake, fire or accident.

"There is no way to prepare for it and no way to prevent it," she said, "and in no way are the parents to blame."

NURSES ARE the logical leaders for these "parenting" discussions, according to Faith. Although she says very little, letting the parents determine the content of the sessions, she believes the discussion leader must be a supporting person who leads the group toward knowledge and understanding. Nursing training provided general concepts of a child's growth in the family and community, as well as knowledge of critical points of child rearing and understanding of those special issues about which parents may unknowingly hinder their children's development.

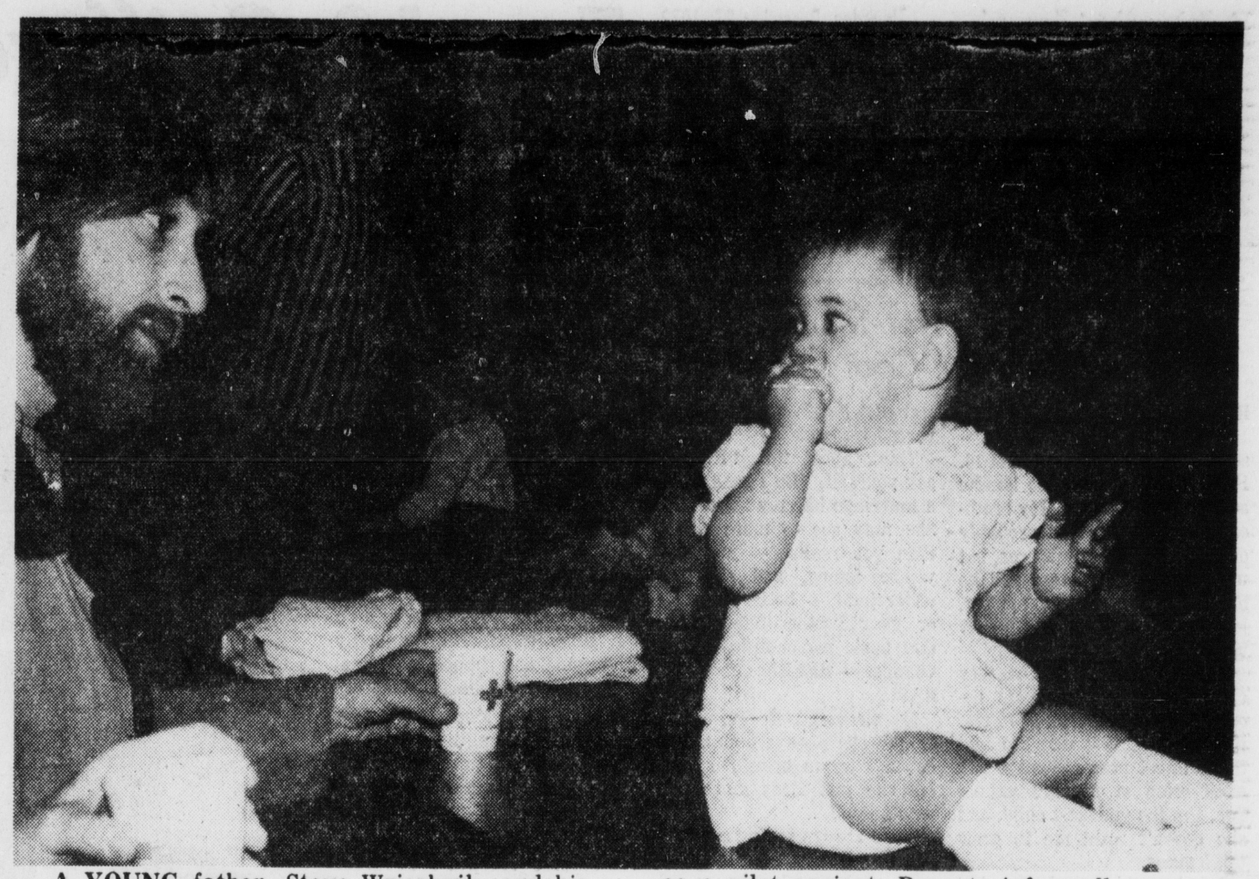
In the midst of a discussion of feeding of solids, one mother asked what to do if the baby choked. Faith showed the Red Cross film, "Breath of Life," at the next session and let the parents practice resuscitation on the lifelike doll, "Resusci-Baby."

The evening the film was shown, conversation centered on details of resuscitation. A Red Cross volunteer first aid instructor talked more about what to do for bleeding, breathing and poisoning.

BECAUSE OF the success of the pilot "parenting" program, Faith plans to offer the service to the entire community this coming year.

Kick off for the new Red Cross program will be at the pilot group's birthday party on Feb. 4 at 7:30 p.m., at the chapter house, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael. All prospective parents or parents with new infants, interested in the program, are invited to join the group that evening and see "parenting" in action.

Marin is not the only area where the need for such a service is evident. Faith has been invited to serve as a member of a committee which will be writing an American National Red Cross course for "parenting." The committee will hold its first meeting on March 4 and Faith is looking forward to the "birthing" of what should become a new Red Cross service.



A YOUNG father, Steve Wrischnik, and his baby daughter, Brin, attend the parenting discussion group offered by the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross in San Rafael as a pilot project. Parents informally compare growth, sleep, feeding problems and fears they may have with other parents and a nurse trained in child development.

Chronic Coughing May Be Warning

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hacking, anyone?

Chronic coughing may be a possible warning of coming cancer or emphysema, says the Health Insurance Institute. Coughing is nature's way of getting irritants out of the nose, sinus, trachea and bronchi linings. At the same time it represents a clear warning of trouble if it persists for more than a week. If you hack that long, says the Health Insurance Institute, better see a doctor — whether you feel ill or not.

Parents Learn 'Parenting'

ELEANOR THIEL shows how her baby, Michele, can take beginning steps during the discussion series for young Marin parents in a program developed by Marin Red Cross volunteer nurse Faith Eckhoff. The program may become a national community service of the Red Cross.

A young mother has a premonition that something dreadful is going to happen to her new baby. A young father draws back from cuddling his infant son, worried that such a display of affection might seem unmanly. Another parent wonders if her baby is old enough to sleep in a room by himself.

New parents often find themselves far from family or friends with whom they can discuss these concerns and the problems they feel too minor to bring to the attention of their pediatricians.

To meet the needs of a changing society, Marin Red Cross volunteer nurse Faith Eckhoff has developed a parent discussion group, which offers new parents the opportunity to share their problems and learn about "parenting."

A new course will begin Feb. 4.

Faith, a Red Cross volunteer for several years, for the past four years has taught prenatal instruction classes for expectant parents, co-sponsored by the Red Cross and Marin General Hospital.

The idea of a parenting class began in the summer of 1972. She felt that while many agencies offered prenatal instruction, no agency offered a program for the new, at times uneasy, parent. As her interest in providing the community with such a service grew, Flora Abbott, professor of maternal child health at the University of California in San Francisco, suggested that Faith do a study of the development of such a program for credit.

After two quarters of study, Faith felt her program was ready to test through the Red Cross. Once her concept was approved by the Red Cross and the Marin County pediatricians, Faith began making it a reality.

"IT WAS a lot of work," said Faith. She personally contacted each parent from her prenatal instruction class as she read newspaper reports of the baby's delivery.

Of the 15 parents who expressed an interest in the new service, eight couples came to the first discussion group. Six couples have stayed with the group nearly a year and plan a birthday party for the new "parenting class," on Feb. 4th.

Three successive classes were started in April, August and October. They were led by Pat Ravicz, Judy Frey and Betty Chamberlin, who are also Red Cross volunteer nurses trained in maternal and child care.

Many parents would like to start the program when their child is first born, but find this impossible. Most parents were able to join the class when their child was three to four weeks old. They settled on meeting every two weeks because so many things change in that time in the development of a baby.

The parents now meet twice a month at the Marin Red Cross Chapter house in San Rafael to discuss universal problems of parents. Sessions are held in the evening.

At first Faith arranged for another Red Cross volunteer nurse to provide baby sitting services for those parents who desired it. "It soon became apparent baby sitting services were not necessary," she said.

The young parents look upon the discussion sessions as a night out.

"At the first two or three sessions," recalls Faith, "the mothers relived the experience of their deliveries. This seems very important," she explained, "as most had no friends with babies and they felt nobody really understood what they had experienced."

Direction of the discussion is determined by the parents, according to Faith. One evening a young man noticed another father constantly stroking and cuddling his little daughter. "Do I have to hold my son?" he asked the group. "I like him," he explained, "but I look forward to the time when he's grown up and I can play ball with him."

The group decided that the young man was free to express his emotion toward his son in whatever way he felt most comfortable. Gradually, the reassured father began to touch and fondle his child, free to express the emotion he really felt.

"Much discussion centers on feelings of resentment," said Faith. "There's a lot of talk about feeding and sleeping problems."

One evening a parent expressed anxiety about sudden infant death. Introduction of the subject enabled the group to find that they shared a feeling of premonition that something dreadful was going to happen to their babies. Once they found this was a completely normal tribulation of parents, all felt reassured.

Faith explained that parents should recognize that sudden infant death is like a catastrophe unlikely to happen to them any more than earthquake, fire or accident.

"There is no way to prepare for it and no way to prevent it," she said, "and in no way are the parents to blame."

NURSES ARE the logical leaders for these "parenting" discussions, according to Faith. Although she says very little, letting the parents determine the content of the sessions, she believes the discussion leader must be a supporting person who leads the group toward knowledge and understanding. Nursing training provided general concepts of a child's growth in the family and community, as well as knowledge of critical points of child rearing and understanding of those special issues about which parents may unknowingly hinder their children's development.

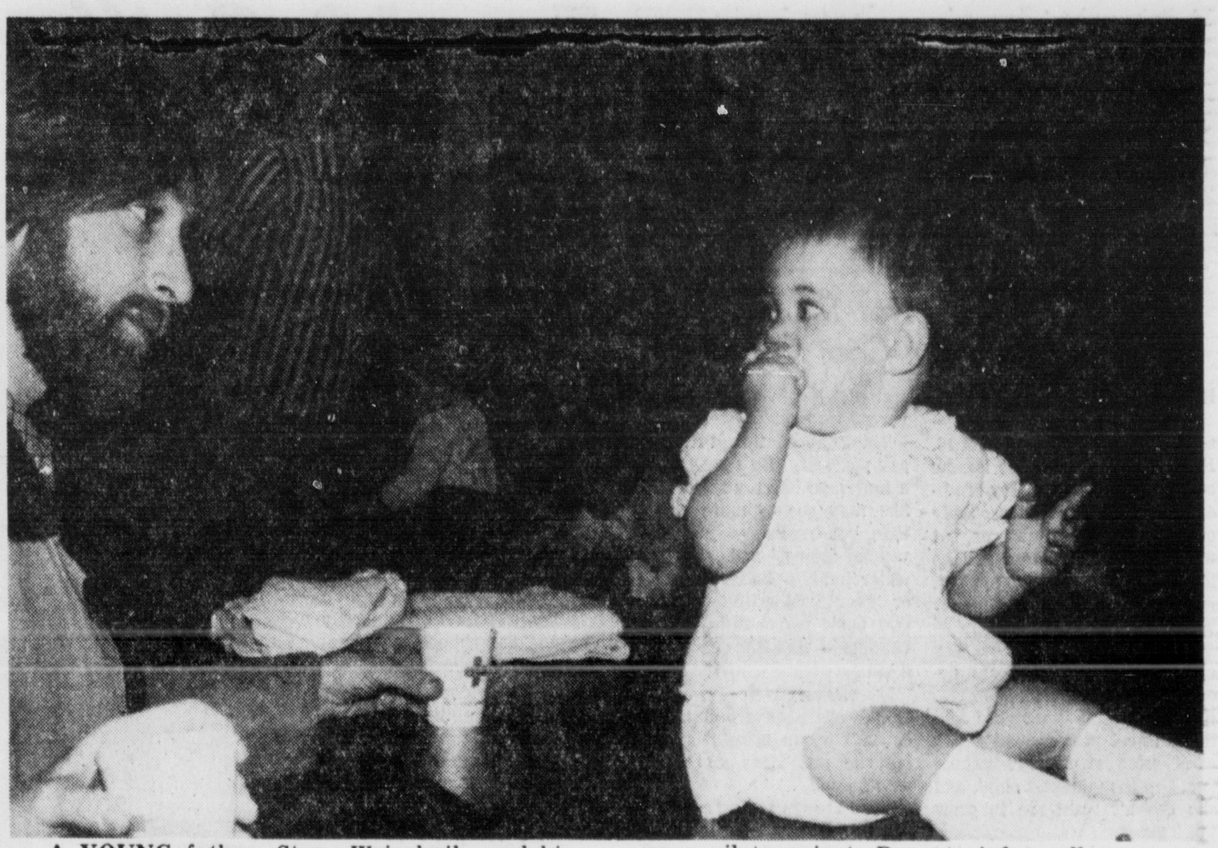
In the midst of a discussion of feeding of solids, one mother asked what to do if the baby choked. Faith showed the Red Cross film, "Breath of Life," at the next session and let the parents practice resuscitation on the lifelike doll, "Resusci-Baby."

The evening the film was shown, conversation centered on details of resuscitation. A Red Cross volunteer first aid instructor talked more about what to do for bleeding, breathing and poisoning.

BECAUSE OF the success of the pilot "parenting" program, Faith plans to offer the service to the entire community this coming year.

Kick off for the new Red Cross program will be at the pilot group's birthday party on Feb. 4 at 7:30 p.m., at the chapter house, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael. All prospective parents or parents with new infants, interested in the program, are invited to join the group that evening and see "parenting" in action.

Marin is not the only area where the need for such a service is evident. Faith has been invited to serve as a member of a committee which will be writing an American National Red Cross course for "parenting." The committee will hold its first meeting on March 4 and Faith is looking forward to the "birthing" of what should become a new Red Cross service.



A YOUNG father, Steve Wrischnik, and his baby daughter, Brin, attend the parenting discussion group offered by the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross in San Rafael as a pilot project. Parents informally compare growth, sleep, feeding problems and fears they may have with other parents and a nurse trained in child development.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Should She Wed Hot-Tempered Guy In Hope He'll Cool Down?

HELEN AND SUE:

I'm promised to a very possessive, hot-tempered guy of 18. I'm 17. He flies off the handle at the slightest thing. My brother-in-law says he will probably outgrow this as he matures, but my father is the same and he hasn't outgrown his temper, jealousy and bossiness in 45 years.

Problem No. 2: My mother can't stand my boyfriend because of his tantrums, she says. But she'd be that way if I had the calmest man on earth. She even cried at my graduation. See, I'm the youngest child, and she doesn't want me to grow up, I guess.

I do love this guy, but —what do you two think? — PROBLEMS, PROBLEMS

P.P.:

You're promised to this guy in only words, and words can change, with feelings. Since you "do love him," give him a chance to mature before you commit yourself to marriage.

In other words, in your case, I believe in a long pre-engagement. — SUE

(P.S. On the other hand, if your feelings weren't already changing, would you have written to us?)

DEAR P.:

Your letter points up again a strange quirk in human nature: what a girl dislikes most in a dominant father is all too often a major characteristic of the mate she chooses. It's as if, subconsciously, she'd continue the battles of childhood; or perhaps she needs that overbearing dominance because she depends on it; or maybe she just doesn't realize there are different kinds of men. Whatever, she gravitates to the traits she's accustomed to, even while resenting them.

(It can happen with boys also: they often move from bossy mothers to bossy wives, and end up either cowed, resigned, battle-weary or divorced.)

Think about this, "P." and ask yourself, "Do I really want a marriage like my mother's?" She may see — more clearly than you realize — just what you're facing, and she may understand — better than you or your brother-in-law do — that basic personalities seldom change. — HELEN

RAP:

My girlfriend, Becky, is pretty, but she always puts herself down. I try to bring her back, but she just finds more fault with herself.

She's always saying she looks ugly, and she's "too fat," and when we're with other people this gets embarrassing and boring because somebody has to reassure her, and it's usually me.

SOT:

Tell your friend just what you told us: that so much can go so far, and then it gets plain monotonous!

I don't want to sound cruel, but many times people get in the habit of "fishing." Let her know you can't be her "reassuring angel" forever, and besides, compliments do no good, unless she learns to think well of herself. — SUE

DEAR SICK OF THEM:

Sometimes you can catch a "fisher" up short by agreeing with her. When the shock wears off, explain that this is exactly what her self-criticisms inspire: if a girl puts herself down, others will start looking for the faults she describes.

Then — ask her to knock off the boring slams for a week, see only the positive side when she looks in her mirror, and maybe she'll learn a big beauty secret: when you think pretty, you are pretty, but when you think ugly, nothing much can help you. — HELEN

A Modeling Class Will Be Offered

The College of Marin will offer a class in fashion modeling this spring with special emphasis on the individual's goals and personal ideas of self-improvement.

The course will be taught by retailing instructor Marilyn Schwartz on Saturdays, beginning Feb. 9, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Students will draw up a contract at the beginning of the course stating what they want to get out of the course, the grade expected and what they should accomplish to earn that grade, said Miss Schwartz.

The course will cover poise, colors, styles, make-up, exercise, modeling techniques and skin care.

Each student's exercise program will be tailored to her own body and specific problems such as weight loss will be dealt with on an individual basis.

Miss Schwartz will also provide the student with information on modeling and merchandising work. Students will have the opportunity to coordinate and stage a fashion show at the end of the semester.

Miss Schwartz has appeared in films, modeled in fashion shows, taught at a private self-improvement school and managed a modeling school. She has taught at the College for seven years.

Top 10 Coiffured Women Of 1973

Convenience and adaptability to their roles and lifestyles are the hair style requirements for the "Ten Best Coiffured Women for 1973" chosen for the 17th year by the Helene Curtis Guild of Professional Beauticians.

Hair styles selected by the women reflect tastes as individual as today's fashions with no singular trend. Hair is softly feminine and shaped for versatility, whether short or long.

Mary Tyler Moore's soft page boy is chin length and can be easily adapted to various looks. For evening she often pulls it back or up for a smooth, sophisticated effect.

Valerie Harper's shoulder length hair is sleekly turned under with a side part. The versatile, blunt cut can be worn smooth and straight, very curly or topped off with hairpieces.

Karen Valentine relies on shaping to maintain her fine hair in a casual long shag. The layered length can be worn off the face or with hairpieces.

Denise Nicholas' flexible blunt cut, almost to the shoulders, can be dressed up or down, and she often wears wigs and hairpieces for television.

The carefully layered coif worn by Betsy Bloomingdale is very short with airy curls that sweep off the face and tumble across her head.

Janet Langhart prefers the versatility of shoulder length hair. Lines are directed simply back off the face with ends lightly curled and demi bangs to frame her eyes. A hairpiece may be added for more fullness and body on her fine, straightened hair.

MR. AND MRS. DENNIS BREGANTE
Pauline Silva becomes bride

Newlyweds On Hawaiian Wedding Trip

After an Hawaiian wedding trip, newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Bregante will live in Larkspur.

Bregante and the former Pauline Silva of Larkspur exchanged vows at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael Dec. 15 and greeted guests afterward at a reception at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax.

Pauline's sister, Mrs. Robert Hollifield of Novato was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mmes. Jay Irving of San Rafael, Neal Mentjox of Novato and Adolph Kopf of San Rafael.

Mario Bregante of San Rafael served as best man. The guests were seated by the bridegroom's brother, Joseph Bregante of Marinwood and by Max Handley of Novato.

Pauline is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Silva of San Rafael. She is a graduate of San Rafael High School and is employed by the College of Marin.

Dennis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bregante of Kentfield. He is a graduate of 3R High School in San Rafael and attended the College of Marin, where he is employed.

Policy On Yule Gifts

The state Department of Consumer Affairs urges consumers to be aware of the individual store's policies when trying to return Christmas gifts.

A store is not always obligated to accept returned merchandise, and most display their return policies in open view or on their receipts, though they are not required to do so.

After opening a gift inspect it for any damage. Leave all tags or labeling attached to an item if you plan to return it. If a garment is the wrong size or color do not wear it and then try to return it. Some stores will accept used merchandise and garments but many cannot be re-sold. Returning used goods raises prices.

Be sure to take receipts, checks or paid invoices to verify purchasing an item from that store. Major chain stores will accept merchandise from any of their stores but smaller stores may not, the department cautioned.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Should She Wed Hot-Tempered Guy In Hope He'll Cool Down?

HELEN AND SUE:

I'm promised to a very possessive, hot-tempered guy of 18. I'm 17. He flies off the handle at the slightest thing. My brother-in-law says he will probably outgrow this as he matures, but my father is the same and he hasn't outgrown his temper, jealousy and bossiness in 45 years.

Problem No. 2: My mother can't stand my boyfriend because of his tantrums, she says. But she'd be that way if I had the calmest man on earth. She even cried at my graduation. See, I'm the youngest child, and she doesn't want me to grow up, I guess.

I do love this guy, but —what do you two think? — PROBLEMS, PROBLEMS

P.P.:

You're promised to this guy in only words, and words can change, with feelings. Since you "do love him," give him a chance to mature before you commit yourself to marriage.

In other words, in your case, I believe in a long pre-engagement. — SUE

(P.S. On the other hand, if your feelings weren't already changing, would you have written to us?)

DEAR P.:

Your letter points up again a strange quirk in human nature: what a girl dislikes most in a dominant father is all too often a major characteristic of the mate she chooses. It's as if, subconsciously, she'd continue the battles of childhood; or perhaps she needs that overbearing dominance because she depends on it; or maybe she just doesn't realize there are different kinds of men. Whatever, she gravitates to the traits she's accustomed to, even while resenting them.

(It can happen with boys also: they often move from bossy mothers to bossy wives, and end up either cowed, resigned, battle-weary or divorced.)

Think about this, "P." and ask yourself, "Do I really want a marriage like my mother's?" She may see — more clearly than you realize — just what you're facing, and she may understand — better than you or your brother-in-law do — that basic personalities seldom change. — HELEN

RAP:

My girlfriend, Becky, is pretty, but she always puts herself down. I try to bring her back, but she just finds more fault with herself.

She's always saying she looks ugly, and she's "too fat," and when we're with other people this gets embarrassing and boring because somebody has to reassure her, and it's usually me.

SOT:

Tell your friend just what you told us: that so much can go so far, and then it gets plain monotonous!

I don't want to sound cruel, but many times people get in the habit of "fishing." Let her know you can't be her "reassuring angel" forever, and besides, compliments do no good, unless she learns to think well of herself. — SUE

DEAR SICK OF THEM:

Sometimes you can catch a "fisher" up short by agreeing with her. When the shock wears off, explain that this is exactly what her self-criticisms inspire: if a girl puts herself down, others will start looking for the faults she describes.

Then — ask her to knock off the boring slams for a week, see only the positive side when she looks in her mirror, and maybe she'll learn a big beauty secret: when you think pretty, you are pretty, but when you think ugly, nothing much can help you. — HELEN

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

A Modeling Class Will Be Offered

The College of Marin will offer a class in fashion modeling this spring with special emphasis on the individual's goals and personal ideas of self-improvement.

The course will be taught by retailing instructor Marilyn Schwartz on Saturdays, beginning Feb. 9, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Students will draw up a contract at the beginning of the course stating what they want to get out of the course, the grade expected and what they should accomplish to earn that grade, said Miss Schwartz.

The course will cover poise, colors, styles, make-up, exercise, modeling techniques and skin care.

Each student's exercise program will be tailored to her own body and specific problems such as weight loss will be dealt with on an individual basis.

Miss Schwartz will also provide the student with information on modeling and merchandising work. Students will have the opportunity to coordinate and stage a fashion show at the end of the semester.

Miss Schwartz has appeared in films, modeled in fashion shows, taught at a private self-improvement school and managed a modeling school. She has taught at the College for seven years.

Top 10 Coiffured Women Of 1973

Convenience and adaptability to their roles and lifestyles are the hair style requirements for the "Ten Best Coiffured Women for 1973" chosen for the 17th year by the Helene Curtis Guild of Professional Beauticians.

Hair styles selected by the women reflect tastes as individual as today's fashions with no singular trend. Hair is softly feminine and shaped for versatility, whether short or long.

Mary Tyler Moore's soft page boy is chin length and can be easily adapted to various looks. For evening she often pulls it back or up for a smooth, sophisticated effect.

Valerie Harper's shoulder length hair is sleekly turned under with a side part. The versatile, blunt cut can be worn smooth and straight, very curly or topped off with hairpieces.

Karen Valentine relies on shaping to maintain her fine hair in a casual long shag. The layered length can be worn off the face or with hairpieces.

Denise Nicholas' flexible blunt cut, almost to the shoulders, can be dressed up or down, and she often wears wigs and hairpieces for television.

The carefully layered coif worn by Betsy Bloomingdale is very short with airy curls that sweep off the face and tumble across her head.

Janet Langhart prefers the versatility of shoulder length hair. Lines are directed simply back off the face with ends lightly curled and demi bangs to frame her eyes. A hairpiece may be added for more fullness and body on her fine, straightened hair.

PARENT AND CHILD

Price May Be Just Too High

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

If your college alma mater pays students to perform in athletics (in cash or in kind), and you don't believe in making mercenaries of young adults, then you ought to do something tangible about the problem.

Every few years, generally due to the investigative reporting of a sportswriter, there is a "scandal" involving the paying of students to perform in extra-mural athletic events.

The problem, though, does not start at the college level. It starts in high school. And it's serious. Because it is a corruption of everything good sportsmanship is supposed to stand for. Generally the leading culprit is the high school principal.

These school officials are generally caught up in the problem. They connect success for themselves and their schools with success by their athletes.

A GREAT deal of pampering of high school coaches is done by college scouts. Then, too, there are those former college "greats" who want so much to relive the old "glory" that they scout for their alma maters.

They attend high school games in the area where they live. They take the coaches and/or principals out to dinner. They flatter them. They get them to begin working on the athletes involved.

In some cases, this means arranging preferential treatment in academic classes; in others, the satisfying of some material desire like clothes or a car or a potential job.

We have learned of one traveling salesman who is paid by his alma mater to locate potential enrollees who are outstanding athletes and to spend what he needs to influence the school and the athlete's parents in his college's favor.

This traveling salesman works on the "you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours" theory and combines high-pressure salesmanship with high-reward athletics. He has a good time in every town he visits. But at each high school involved he leaves the bitter taste of buying and selling talented young people.

DOES THIS go on at your high school? Does it go on at your college alma mater?

One way to cut down on the buying and selling of young athletes might be to have some women as principals of high schools and as directors of athletics. Coaches, of course, should be both male and female, teaching the skills they excel in, but if more administrators of the programs were women — or men who do not come out of the mercenary athletic market — the practice might be ended.

Making even a losing coach the principal of a high school is one sure way to perpetuate this system of using and abusing young athletes.

Is the principal of your high school a former athletic coach? If so, how well do you know him? Is he participating in the athletic mercenary system?

What about the director of athletics at your high school? Is he as interested in developing good intramural sports as he is outside competition? If not, do you know if he is accepting some form of indirect or direct bribe to steer his athletes to one college over another?

One way you can find out is to ask for public disclosure of the past 10 years' scholarships for your high school's athletes. What colleges did they attend? How many received sports scholarships? How many were recruited, in part, by a member of the high-school staff?

Chill Will Not Cause Common Cold

NEW YORK (UPI) — Studies have shown that getting chilled definitely will not cause the common cold. And that's good. The reason there are more colds in winter — when it is cold — than in summer is that people are indoors far more in winter than summer, clustering together and spreading cold germs.

One way to cut down on the buying and selling of young athletes might be to have some women as principals of high schools and as directors of athletics. Coaches, of course, should be both male and female, teaching the skills they excel in, but if more administrators of the programs were women — or men who do not come out of the mercenary athletic market — the practice might be ended.

Making even a losing coach the principal of a high school is one sure way to perpetuate this system of using and abusing young athletes.

Is the principal of your high school a former athletic coach? If so, how well do you know him? Is he participating in the athletic mercenary system?

What about the director of athletics at your high school? Is he as interested in developing good intramural sports as he is outside competition? If not, do you know if he is accepting some form of indirect or direct bribe to steer his athletes to one college over another?

One way you can find out is to ask for public disclosure of the past 10 years' scholarships for your high school's athletes. What colleges did they attend? How many received sports scholarships? How many were recruited, in part, by a member of the high-school staff?

Chill Will Not Cause Common Cold

NEW YORK (UPI) — Studies have shown that getting chilled definitely will not cause the common cold. And that's good. The reason there are more colds in winter — when it is cold — than in summer is that people are indoors far more in winter than summer, clustering together and spreading cold germs.

Whistler Trial Doesn't Make Much Of A Play

by KAY KSANDA

SAN FRANCISCO — A new play opened last night at the New Broadway Theatre in San Francisco and the turnout was very good for "The Trial of James McNeil Whistler," but neither the outstanding cast nor the paintings themselves could turn an interesting trial into a theatrical event.

The plot consists of the libel suit in 19th Century England against an art critic and self-appointed guardian of Victorian morals, the aged and ailing John Ruskin, who had accused the famous painter Whistler of his immorality.

Whistler proceeded to sue for 1,000 pounds for being called a "coxcomb, conceited cad, a blackguard, pretender, and ill-educated artist who flung a pot of paint in the face of the public." Such language was pretty hot at that time, and resulted in a financial threat to the painter's career.

The question was whether an artist's personal life should have any place in a critic's judgment of his work. The play is the trial and the focus is upon the personality and wit of the painter of the now famous "Whistler's Mother."

At one point in the play, Rudy Solari, playing Whistler, declares that he made the discovery early in life that he was charming, and here is where the play's trouble begins. The play's Whistler has none of the vivacity, wildness, sauciness, intensity, or fey charm that won the nickname "butterfly" from his close friend, Oscar Wilde. The play's Whistler seems more a naughty egocentric than a brilliant man of letters as well as art.

Perhaps the greatest disappointment is seeing such an outstanding cast and talented production crew in a vehicle where they cannot grow in character or enthrall in action.

In all plays, both author and audience are particularly concerned with the ending, the resolution of such questions as life or death, who will it be, blindness or sight, will she or won't she? The audience knows what happened to Whistler, so what matters is not the trial's outcome but the antagonists themselves.

Rudy Solari (Whistler) was a familiar face from both TV and the theater, and played the hero with virility and swagger. Drew Eshman (Ruskin) was a sensitive and ailing adversary. Jack Aranson, as Ruskin's attorney, underplayed his scenes, for with more of his customary power he could have engendered much of the lacking tension. There was no malice or threat, no real contending.

That the action was so muted in politeness may be due either to the direction of Dan Caldwell, or the intent of the young author Jon Phillip Palmer.

James Doohan, as Whistler's attorney, had little to work with until his last brief farewell to his client. Probably best known for his part as "Scotty" in television's Star Trek, it was a switch to see him as a conventional man who only dreams of adventure.

The rest of the cast had character parts: a rather stupid judge, Francis Ingall; an attractive mistress, Kate Harper; a hypocritical witness, Will Marchetti; a good fellow, Dean Goodman; a loyal friend, Robert Feero; an artist, Logan Houston; a droll and funny man, Morgan Upton; and a lisping critic, Zale Kessler. They were excellent!

The set by Ronald E. Krempetz was a simple yet richly done courtroom, staying the same through the two acts.

It was a first performance and anything can happen. It may become more dramatic, a farce, or rounded. Performances are Tuesdays through Fridays at 8:30 p.m.; Saturdays at 7 and 10 p.m.; Sundays 7:30 p.m.

There was no malice or threat, no real contending.

That the action was so muted in politeness may be due either to the direction of Dan Caldwell, or the intent of the young author Jon Phillip Palmer.

James Doohan, as Whistler's attorney, had little to work with until his last brief farewell to his client. Probably best known for his part as "Scotty" in television's Star Trek, it was a switch to see him as a conventional man who only dreams of adventure.

The rest of the cast had character parts: a rather stupid judge, Francis Ingall; an attractive mistress, Kate Harper; a hypocritical witness, Will Marchetti; a good fellow, Dean Goodman; a loyal friend, Robert Feero; an artist, Logan Houston; a droll and funny man, Morgan Upton; and a lisping critic, Zale Kessler. They were excellent!

The set by Ronald E. Krempetz was a simple yet richly done courtroom, staying the same through the two acts.

It was a first performance and anything can happen. It may become more dramatic, a farce, or rounded. Performances are Tuesdays through Fridays at 8:30 p.m.; Saturdays at 7 and 10 p.m.; Sundays 7:30 p.m.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS — Shopping carts are piled high with presents, but they're not leaving the store. Yesterday was the day after Christmas and these were gifts being returned for exchange or credit. This scene at Payless in Northgate Shopping Center was repeated through Marin, throughout the Bay Area, throughout the nation.

Dec. 26 Day To Return Gift You Always Wanted

By PAUL LIBERATORE

"Oh, it's just what I've always wanted," comes the stock Christmas morning reaction when unwrapping the present from Uncle Harry. "What is it?"

And while Dec. 25 is the day for giving and receiving, Dec. 26 is traditionally the day for returning that unwanted Christmas gift to the place it came from, like that funny present from Uncle Harry, which isn't exactly what one always wanted.

At Payless Drug and department store at Northgate in San Rafael, returned merchandise overflowed a half dozen shopping carts.

There were electric hair dryers, slot car sets, Barbie doll accessories, tennis balls, a catalytic heater, a chord organ and even several copies of the "Jesus Christ, Superstar" album, among other things.

"They don't like it," was the most common reason given for returning an item, said clerk Susan Chase. "They just don't want it."

And sure enough, along came Helen Hoog of Novato with a pair of skates she had bought for her 9-year-old son. "It wasn't the right thing," she explained. "They've got their minds set, you know, and they're so disappointed when it's not the same as on TV."

Payless manager Leon Cramer estimated that the store would take back between 175 and 250 separate items by closing time yesterday, even though "this hasn't been a particularly big year for returns."

Standing behind a hill of returns, Cramer said there usually is "a mountain of toys" and other goods taken back by noon the day after Christmas.

Other stores also reported a decline in the number of persons bringing things back compared to last Dec. 26, which was blamed primarily on the wet weather. It was predicted that the bulk of unwanted presents would be returned within 10 days.

Some items are defective, some are duplicate gifts, but most are exchanged for something more wanted or needed, even by the man or woman who has everything.

Mrs. Hoog has her own solution for the latter problem. She simply busy the gifts herself that she truly wants most, "and then I present my family with the bill," she laughed.

Paint Cost For Bridge Is Doubled

The cost of material to keep the Golden Gate Bridge healthy almost doubled yesterday with the opening of new bids for the base coating that goes on under its famous international orange paint.

Bridge Engineer Harry Reilich, gasping audibly at the afternoon bid opening, said he expected a cost hike because of the rising price of oil — used to make both the base and the orange vinyl topcoat — and a shortage of zinc for the inorganic zinc silicate undercoat. "But I never expected that much of an increase," he added.

The new price was "the first real evidence we'll be hit hard," Reilich said.

The only two bidders, both Orange County firms, were Ameron of Brea, and Engard Coatings Corp. of Huntington Beach. Ameron, which has supplied the district with all of its base material since it was developed 10 years ago, bid $22.61 a gallon, up from $11.72 only six months ago.

Engard bid $17, but district officials said they never had heard of the firm and were uncertain its product would meet district specifications.

The bid called for supplying 1,000 gallons, roughly half the amount used each year by painters on the span. The new coating is expected to last 20 years, compared to about eight years of life for the old red lead paint.

SAILING SAGA

Bay Boat Trip Ends In Arrest

Steven James Hunter, 27, of Spokane was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge that he stole a Sausalito-based sailboat. Hunter, being held in jail in lieu of $1,500 bail, was to enter a plea in court today.

The sailboat saga, which included a Coast Guard rescue of the family from the floundering sailboat, began at dawn Christmas Day.

Police said Hunter, a writer, told his wife, Marlene, and three children that he had rented a 41-foot sailboat berthed in the Sausalito Yacht Harbor.

The family and two dogs set out in the craft about 5:30 a.m. and sailed out to San Quentin Point. Problems began when Hunter, who is not an experienced sailor, discovered that the craft's engine would not start.

From then on, Mrs. Hunter told the Independent-Journal today, the sailboat drifted around the bay, buffeted by strong winds. It was a rough trip and the boat hit a buoy and almost struck the lighthouse near Fort Point on the San Francisco side of the Bay, she said.

"We came within 10 feet of that lighthouse and almost hit an abutment on the (Golden Gate) bridge," Mrs. Hunter said. "We were out of control all of the time." She and two of the children were seasick for most of the voyage.

The Coast Guard rescued the family and towed the craft to shore after it was discovered foundering in the surf along Ocean Beach in San Francisco about 4:30 p.m.

San Francisco police, meanwhile, had been notified by Herbert Madden, Jr., owner of the Sausalito Yacht Harbor, that the $36,000 vessel, owned by Neil D. Parker of Lakeport, had been stolen. When Hunter could produce no rental receipt for the sailboat, police arrested him.

Mrs. Hunter said the family was in San Francisco to seek a publisher for two of her husband's manuscripts, both treatises on the philosophy and meaning of life.

Her problems were compounded yesterday when she lost her wallet. "We didn't have enough money to post bail for my husband and now we don't have any money at all," she said. Mrs. Hunter and the children have been sleeping in their car, she said, awaiting the disposition of Hunter's case.

Open Space Land Offer Accepted

The Fairfax Town Council last night accepted Donald Raggio's offer to dedicate a parcel of land to the city as open space.

The parcel off Bolinas Avenue is less than an acre in size, according to the town administration.

Raggio gave the sloping property to the town after the council declined an offer to buy it, said Town Administrator Robert E. Crowe.

Cost Estimate Zooms For New Corte Madera Creek Bridge

A new railroad bridge over Corte Madera Creek, needed to widen road access to the Larkspur ferry terminal, will cost more than double the $248,000 estimated less than three months ago.

Larkspur City Engineer Roy H. Hoffman said his earlier estimate was made before he learned that construction will have to be halted frequently because trains will continue rolling over the creek on their regular schedule.

He noted the rail line serves only one customer, the Handi-Kup Co. in Corte Madera. There have been rumors the manufacturer would relocate to Sonoma County, Hoffman added, but such a move apparently would come too late to save the cost of building a new bridge.

Hoffman reported his new estimate yesterday at a meeting with the staff of the Golden Gate Bridge District. The good news, he stressed, was Public Utilities Commission funds probably will cover $400,000 of the cost for the bridge.

Purpose of the meeting was to discuss plans to form an assessment district to finance utility and roadway improvements along East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to serve the ferry terminal and private properties on the peninsula.

Hoffman conceded that unless Lincoln Properties goes along with the district, "this whole thing will fall apart."

Lincoln owns most of the vacant land in the proposed district, and presumably will go along with the district only if it gets some assurance from the City of Larkspur that its plans for a major residential and commercial development will be approved.

The engineer said the district should be formed by April so work can begin by June. Construction of the terminal also is supposed to start in June.

Hoffman and the bridge staff noted the Marin Municipal Water District's moratorium may stymie water supply to the peninsula, and briefly discussed the uncertainty of relocating Ross Valley Sanitary District treatment plant to San Quentin Prison. "I've never seen so many variables floating about," Bridge Engineer Harry Reilich said with a note of frustration.

Hoffman offered the assurance that "there's someone above us who understands this better than we."

He suggested the costly new bridge could be used some day for rapid transit, but the district's staff noted it would be too narrow to accommodate two lanes of transit.

Total cost of the assessment district, based on Hoffman's figures, would be $1,441,560, including 23 per cent on top of construction costs for engineering, financing and legal fees. State, federal and city funds may cover up to $450,000, he said.

If a sewage pumping station were needed, it would add about $100,000, Hoffman estimated.

He also included no cost for rights-of-way, hoping they would be donated by the property owners to save the cost of financing their purchase through the assessment district.

With the bridge district's share of the cost roughly two-ninths of the total, its cost would range from about $198,000 to $320,000, depending on how much state, federal and city money was added to the pot.

Hoffman said "all of this stuff will come into final focus in April."

Fund Switch Doctor Is Out On Bail

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Thomas Matthew, who gained national fame as a strong supporter of President Nixon and as head of a self-help program for black Americans, was free on $25,000 bail today after being sentenced to up to three years in jail for misuse of Medicaid funds.

Matthew, 49, a neurosurgeon, was convicted by a jury last Nov. 7 on 71 counts of grand larceny. He had been charged with diverting $200,000 in Medicaid funds from one NEGRO (National Economic Growth and Reconstructtion Organization) project, Interfaith Hospital in New York City, to other NEGRO enterprises, many of which failed. He also was accused of spending hospital money for trips to the Soviet Union.

Matthew was also was convicted and sentenced to six months in jail for failing to file a federal income tax return for 1963. He served less than two months of the sentence at the federal penitentiary in Danbury, Conn., before Nixon commuted his jail term.

Four Wheel Drive Truck Ordered

The Novato Fire Protection District board last night agreed to purchase a four-wheel drive truck for fighting brush and grass fires for $6,700.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS — Shopping carts are piled high with presents, but they're not leaving the store. Yesterday was the day after Christmas and these were gifts being returned for exchange or credit. This scene at Payless in Northgate Shopping Center was repeated through Marin, throughout the Bay Area, throughout the nation.

Dec. 26 Day To Return Gift You Always Wanted

By PAUL LIBERATORE

"Oh, it's just what I've always wanted," comes the stock Christmas morning reaction when unwrapping the present from Uncle Harry. "What is it?"

And while Dec. 25 is the day for giving and receiving, Dec. 26 is traditionally the day for returning that unwanted Christmas gift to the place it came from, like that funny present from Uncle Harry, which isn't exactly what one always wanted.

Thousands of Marinites, despite yesterday's chilling rain, headed for stores with sales slip in hand to return the broken toy, or the sweater three sizes too large, or the handpainted tie with a picture of a hula girl that glows in the dark — good old Uncle Harry.

At Payless Drug and department store at Northgate in San Rafael, returned merchandise overflowed a half dozen shopping carts.

There were electric hair dryers, slot car sets, Barbie doll accessories, tennis balls, a catalytic heater, a chord organ and even several copies of the "Jesus Christ, Superstar" album, among other things.

"They don't like it," was the most common reason given for returning an item, said clerk Susan Chase. "They just don't want it."

And sure enough, along came Helen Hoog of Novato with a pair of skates she had bought for her 9-year-old son. "It wasn't the right thing," she explained. "They've got their minds set, you know, and they're so disappointed when it's not the same as on TV."

Payless manager Leon Cramer estimated that the store would take back between 175 and 250 separate items by closing time yesterday, even though "this hasn't been a particularly big year for returns."

Standing behind a hill of returns, Cramer said there usually is "a mountain of toys" and other goods taken back by noon the day after Christmas.

Other stores also reported a decline in the number of persons bringing things back compared to last Dec. 26, which was blamed primarily on the wet weather. It was predicted that the bulk of unwanted presents would be returned within 10 days.

Some items are defective, some are duplicate gifts, but most are exchanged for something more wanted or needed, even by the man or woman who has everything.

Mrs. Hoog has her own solution for the latter problem. She simply busy the gifts herself that she truly wants most, "and then I present my family with the bill," she laughed.

Paint Cost For Bridge Is Doubled

The cost of material to keep the Golden Gate Bridge healthy almost doubled yesterday with the opening of new bids for the base coating that goes on under its famous international orange paint.

Bridge Engineer Harry Reilich, gasping audibly at the afternoon bid opening, said he expected a cost hike because of the rising price of oil — used to make both the base and the orange vinyl topcoat — and a shortage of zinc for the inorganic zinc silicate undercoat. "But I never expected that much of an increase," he added.

The new price was "the first real evidence we'll be hit hard," Reilich said.

The only two bidders, both Orange County firms, were Ameron of Brea, and Engard Coatings Corp. of Huntington Beach. Ameron, which has supplied the district with all of its base material since it was developed 10 years ago, bid $22.61 a gallon, up from $11.72 only six months ago.

Tepid Measure Of Postal 'Reform'

A few days before Christmas, President Nixon signed a bill which was advertised as reforming congressional free-mailing privileges.

It is a reform, in a way. It prohibits a member of Congress from using his free franking privilege to send out mass mailings within 28 days of an election in which he is a candidate.

There is, however, a little quid pro quo. In case the senator or representative loses the election, or retires, he keeps his free mailing privilege until the following April 1. Also, the bill extends to widows of former presidents the right to send mail postage-free.

Nothing in the bill does anything about the vast quantities of handouts mailed with only the Congress member's signature as "postage" except during the four weeks before an election. Nor does it do anything about the still vaster quantities of stuff mailed by hundreds of government agencies, franked "Official Government Use Only."

THE VERY CAUTIOUS nature of this "reform bill" rubbed us a little wrong, for several reasons. Not the least of the reasons was its timing.

It came just as we had shelled out quite a few dollars for 8-cent stamps to mail Christmas cards. Until a few years ago, Christmas greetings went as printed matter — which at least 90 per cent of them are, except for the signature. But the Post Office Department, plagued by deficits to which Congress kept objecting, issued a rule in the '60s that all Christmas cards must go as letter mail, thus increasing the cost by a third.

It came also as the U. S. Postal Service — the Post Office Department's successor — prepared to hike rates for all classes of mail right after the start of the new year. Letter mail will then go to 10 cents, airmail letters to 13 cents.

Of course, free franking by congressmen will remain free. And mailing by government agencies will continue under the fiction that they pay (at reduced rates) for all of it through an accounting procedure.

IN MANY COUNTRIES, legislators and government agencies are required to use special stamps, usually plainly printed "Official." Each legislator, department or agency must buy these stamps and affix them to letters. Of course, they are paid for with the people's funds, but the amount that can be purchased is limited by available appropriations, and the postal service receives revenues which it is denied under our special privilege system.

This was the practice in the United States in the early days. But along in the 1890s, official stamps were abolished. It probably is not mere coincidence that postal deficits then began to mount.

Instead of sticking us taxpayers for higher postage rates, how about removing the free mailers — with a real postal reform bill, not such a tepid measure as that signed this month by the president?

Don't Eat Your Christmas Tree

It might seem to some Marinites that the admonition, "Don't eat your Christmas tree," would be as axiomatic as the old saw about not drinking your bath water. However, the living-off-the-land buffs have discovered that some previously scored plants are quite edible. And Euall Gibbons tells TV audiences that some pines are good for snacking. But our Christmas trees are mostly firs and spruces and inedible trees. Chew on a needle, if you are so inclined. But do your overworked holiday stomach a favor and forget the rest.

Lawyers Run For Office As Way Of Advertising

By EARL G. WATERS

Ever wonder why so many candidates for public office are lawyers? Read Rule 2 of the California Bar Association's "Rules for Professional Conduct."

That is the tenet that members "shall not solicit ... by advertising or otherwise."

As the Hastings Law Journal reports, opinions issued by the bar have circumscribed the manner in which members may participate in radio and television and public appearances as lecturers and panelists. Efforts have also been made to limit news and feature stories about lawyers. It has also been deemed improper for lawyers to publish books about their professional experiences, and members have been admonished about articles in newspapers and other non-legal publications.

Although most of the activities frowned upon are nothing more than would be expected from active persons in any other endeavor, the bar has taken the position that such conduct is a covert manner of self-advertising "potentially injurious to the dignity of the profession."

THE ONE AREA which has not been ruled out where a young and enterprising lawyer can gain notice is campaigning for public office. As a result, many file for political posts with no intention of winning. Often they get fooled by the voters and get elected. Lawyers usually outnumber by far all other occupations in office. The present California Senate numbers 25 lawyers out of 40 members, and in the Assembly 30 of the 80 are attorneys.

The Hastings review traces the inception of restrictions on advertising to the crimes of champerty, maintenance and barratry. In plain language, this means promotion of litigation for profit, meddling in suits in which the lawyer has no interest, and inciting of lawsuits.

The modern justification against advertising is that it tends to commercialize the profession and lessen its dignity.

It is contended that the consequences of advertising are the obstruction of justice by increased litigation and court congestion, overreaching and thus breaching of duty to clients, overcharging and underrepresentation, assertion of fraudulent claims, corruption of public officials, and subornation of perjury.

This host of evils conjured up as potential results of advertising not only is far-fetched but ignores the fact there is adequate remedy for most of those offenses. As an exercise in logic it is about as valid as being against motherhood because many babies will grow up to be mental deficients, ne'er-do-wells or criminals.

WHAT SHOULD BE looked at are the adverse effects of the advertising prohibition. The report suggests that the pervasive nature of the rules, along with inconsistent opinions, inhibit lawyers from taking part in community affairs.

It may also contribute to the cluttering up of the ballots with non-serious candidates merely using this method as a permitted form of advertising.

Today it isn't enough just being a lawyer. The multitude of statutes and case decisions has made it a profession of specialists. And the average person seeking legal advice has no way of knowing which lawyer is appropriate for his problem. So it would seem proper to permit attorneys to advertise their fields of practice.

"Says in just weeks we may not have it so good anymore."

What's Fair For Synanon Is Fair For Others

I was astonished to read in tonight's I-J (Dec. 24) that the head of the Synanon Foundation had indicated to Sheriff Mountanos his intention to arm every adult male in the Tomales Bay facility as a result of a theft of some tapes.

Since a friend in a nearby community recently told me that someone had stolen a television set from his home. I have advised him to indicate to Sheriff Mountanos that his community requires to be issued with submachine guns due to the "spread of crime and lawlessness."

'Shooting From Hip' Solutions Dangerous

It is refreshing and encouraging to read a letter like that of Lee Stephen Windheim in the Independent-Journal of Dec. 21, for two reasons. First, that his letter is so straightforward, so simply and clearly written, so calmly authoritative. And secondly, because the I-J shows that it's willing to "take its licks" if and when its own views are refuted or opposed, and fearlessly publish both sides of public questions.

I happen to be aligned with Mr. Windheim in the current controversy over further development and building of nuclear power plants, and agree that "shoot-from-the-hip" solutions often "reported in most of our media" are of little help in making the issues factual and clean, especially for those who may inherit the proliferation of hundreds of nuclear plants, the problems of whose effects upon the environment are still not scientifically resolved ...

It isn't "shooting from the hip" to state (since it can be strictly verified) that the Atomic Energy Commission, which now presses for more nuclear plants, has a very poor record in the area of environmental pollution, which began when they underplayed the seriousness of fallout from nuclear weapons tests in the 1950s. The AEC has not shown since that it has profited from its early mistakes. The reluctance of private insurance companies to supply nuclear power plants with liability insurance is based in part on the "near misses" in the reactor field, such as the accident in 1966 at the Fermi plant outside Detroit, which potentially could have killed millions of people and rendered a substantial part of the U.S. uninhabitable ...

Since it is the public that may suffer, it is the public that must be soundly and rightly informed for making the decisions about present and future energy sources. It is the news media that has become the principal public forum for information and decisions of such environmental importance, and unbiased, open discussion must be encouraged and exchanged by, in Mr. Windheim's words "comprehensive systematic analysis" ... Now, of all times, there is reason for patience and calm, and no "shooting-from-the-hip."

Happy Holiday For Congressmen Visiting Their Constituents

WASHINGTON — One of the reasons for having a holiday season is to give congressmen and senators a chance to go home and find out what the American voter is thinking. In the past, our lawmakers have gone through the motions of talking to their constituents, but this year they've traveled home with a certain amount of trepidation.

"Hi there, Mr. Coleslaw. I'm Congressman Upchuck and I'd like to have a few words with you."

"Don't want any."

"I'M NOT SELLING anything, Mr. Coleslaw. I just want to find out how you feel about the great issues of the day so I can do my job better in Washington. Now, how's everything been working for you?"

"Ain't been working."

"Well, we'll have to do something about that, won't we?"

"What can you do about me not working?"

"Congress can do a lot of things. Pass a law, offer a resolution, filibuster if we have to. Do you mind if I ask why you're not working?"

"Place I worked at made shoelaces for shoes made in another place. Other place couldn't make shoes because they couldn't get leather from the leather company. The leather company couldn't get leather because there was no diesel fuel to get the cows to market. Truck drivers wouldn't deliver diesel fuel to diesel filling stations because they was losing money driving 55 miles an hour. That's why I ain't making shoe laces."

"BY GOD, MR. COLESLAW, you're a victim of the energy crisis! Do you know I warned the country about the energy crisis three years ago? Here is a speech I made on the floor of the House in 1970. I said unless we tightened our belts and put our shoulders to the wheel that sometime in the next 50 years we might have gas rationing. Well, how do you like that for on-the-nose predicting?"

"What did you do about energy besides predict?"

"Well, I introduced a bill a year ago giving the oil companies a special tax discount as an incentive for finding us more oil."

"Heard the oil companies have done pretty good since the crisis."

"That's what makes America great. Give us a shortage and we'll make money on it."

"UPCHUCK, WILL YOU get the hell out of here?"

"Now, wait a minute, Mr. Coleslaw. I want to know everything that's bothering you. I would not be serving my district if I didn't know your doubts, your fears, your hopes. Tell me, Coleslaw, besides being out of work and having no money, what else irritates you?"

"Too many crooks in Washington, starting with that guy who keeps saying he ain't one."

"I'm glad you brought that up, Coleslaw. Would you be for or against impeachment?"

"I'd settle if he just paid his income tax."

"I would like for you to see a speech I made on that very subject, printed, of course, in the Congressional Record."

"Didn't I see you in the last election with his arm around your shoulders?"

"That was before Watergate. Coleslaw, I wasn't the only one who had his picture taken with you-know-who."

"Only congressman in my district who did."

"WELL, I HAVE to be going now. I hope in the next election you'll remember that I did come to see you about your problems."

"Yup. Say, you got any other speeches I can have?"

"I certainly do. Here, help yourself. I'm very flattered you want to read them."

Americans Show Tremendous Resistance During Traumatic '73

There has never been such a year as 1973 in the history of the United States. A political crisis has penetrated to the roots the system of presidential government. An economic crisis strongly suggests that the people of the nation must change their way of life. A vice president has resigned in disgrace. The year ends inconclusively, with the crises unresolved.

The nation has survived its various shocks much better than might have been expected. Public opinion is divided and uncertain, but it is not driven by emotion. The supporters and the critics of President Nixon are on speaking terms. Both sides, in a way, are not clear in their own minds just what ought to be done.

The fact that the nation has been able to sustain its traumatic experiences is a tribute to its inherent stability. That a president as badly wounded as Richard Nixon still is able to govern is itself remarkable. That with the aid of Secy. of State Kissinger he can come up with important and hopeful plans to cope with such threats as the Middle East War is an extraordinary achievement.

The administration's record of action in the energy crisis is much less impressive. But somehow disintegration of national policy has been avoided in the face of what may be truly devastating dislocation. And conceivably the energy situation may be turned into an opportunity to reorder priorities and restrengthen morale. It could happen.

THE COMPLEX of national issues comes back to the problem of the presidency. Grave charges arising out of the Watergate affair surfaced in the early months of 1973. They grew steadily worse.

The president's closest political friends and cabinet advisers came under indictment and face criminal charges. His most trusted staff assistants were forced to resign and also have problems in the courts. The whole framework of personnel in the executive office fell apart, with the president's own White House counsel testifying against him.

Meantime, in mid-year, the Agnew tragedy came to light and swiftly moved to denouement. That any president's twice-chosen running mate had to plead no contest to criminal charges and bargain his way out of worse punishment is as sensational and distressing an event as has ever happened before at this level of United States government.

That the president himself should have been forced to make publish his personal financial affairs, including a number of highly controversial elements, is another unprecedented and deplorable event. The end is not yet.

BUT THE NATION goes on. It survives 1973. It looks forward to 1974, in which some of the unresolved riddles may beclarified. Surely in the new year the heavy burdens now hanging over the national government must be lifted in some way.

The capacity of American society to bear such experiences is rather like the capacity of civilian populations to survive intensive bombing from the air.

Before World War II, it was freely predicted by wise men that a war could not last long, since civilian populations were bound to collapse under the bombs. To the contrary, people — of Britain, of Germany, even of Japan — were able to sustain inconceivable punishment and keep going. More recently, the people of Hanoi have proved the same point.

The human race and its society are enormously tough. They have deep resources of the spirit. They can make shift with physical resources. They are really magnificent.

It may be stretching the point to suggest that this is how Americans have withstood the constitutional crisis, and will withstand the energy crisis.

But there has been no "revolution." The people are patient. They are devoted to their institutions. They will not tear them down. They are unhappy but they keep going. They shrink from dramatic solutions: hence the resistance to the impeachment process.

Now the crisis moves from public to private lives, from the White House to our house, our thermostat, our automobile, our job. I believe the same resilience and strengths will continue to be shown, come what may.

Nixon Indicates Preference For Reagan As Successor

SAN FRANCISCO — On each side of the continent, an eager-beaver Republican governor is running for the presidential nomination nearly a year and a half ahead of the first primaries. Ronald Reagan of California has the edge in the polls over Nelson Rockefeller of New York; also, judging from exterior evidence, he stands in greater favor with President Nixon.

The president gave Reagan a junket paid for by the taxpayers to Australia, Indonesia and Singapore. The Reagan party, including Mrs. Reagan and her personal hairdresser, Julius Bengtsson, flew in an Air Force K-135 jet. The plane consumed 65,500 gallons of fuel in 42 hours of flying time on the round trip.

The present of the junket did not come out of the blue. Reagan had made a commitment to go to Victoria state in Australia to campaign for the Red Cross there. He suggested to the president that he might possibly perform some service and, sure enough, he was designated a promoter for American exports, with the whole trip laid on for the governor and 12 of his staff. He left Nov. 25 and returned Dec. 6, with speeches along the way in Sydney, Melbourne, Djakarta and Singapore.

IN CONTRAST, Rockefeller, trying to enlist the president's backing for federal support to save New York City's 35-cent subway fare, could not get an appointment at the White House. He was turned over to Secy. of Transportation Claude S. Brinegar, who told the governor he would look into the possibility of rescuing mass-transit funds from the clutches of the highway users.

For whatever it means, Rockefeller has been unable to enlist Vice President Gerald R. Ford and two cabinet members to serve on his Commission for Critical Choices for America. The commission is being financed by tax-exempt contributions, with hope for some government help and grants from foundations. Reagan Republicans regard it as a gimmick to help Rockefeller marshall opinion for the nomination in 1976.

In the campaign thus far, traditionally coy and undeclared at this stage, Reagan does have a formidable advantage. If the trend in the Republican party is to increasing conservatism, he is the ready-made article. Speaking in the South since his return, he was received with acclaim at Republican gatherings.

Again in contrast, Rockefeller is hard at work changing his image from liberal to conservative. He has told Republican audiences in Arizona and the South that he is against welfare chiselers and for the kind of sterm laws against drug pushers now on the books in his state. This transformation has been received with applause but also with some skepticism.

REAGAN HAD A SERIOUS setback last month when the amendment to freeze taxes and state expenditures at permanent levels was defeated by a 300,000-vote margin. He had sponsored Proposition No. 1 and stumped the state for it. This has increased Republican pessimism about the 1974 election when Reagan, despite strong pressures, will not be running for a third term.

The governor had his own tax problem when it was disclosed that, thanks to a cattle feed lot shelter program, he had paid no state income tax for one year and possibly not for two years. President Nixon's failure to pay California state taxes, although he votes here, came up before the State Franchise Tax Board, with State Controller Hugh Flournoy insisting the inquiry be private over the indignant demand of the only Democrat, William M. Bennett, that it be public.

ORIGINALLY REAGAN was said to have been grooming his 32-year-old natural resurources commissioner, Earl Brian, to run next year against Sen. Alan Cranston. But after a look at the polls, showing at the present reading Cranston all but unbeatable, and following the defeat of the tax amendment, the governor seems to have changed his mind.

While the big Texan, John Connally, at one time President Nixon's anointed favorite, may still have a look-in, the Republican convention is likely to have to choose between New York and California. And each governor is going about it in his own way to be sure the choice falls on him.

Tepid Measure Of Postal 'Reform'

It is a reform, in a way. It prohibits a member of Congress from using his free franking privilege to send out mass mailings within 28 days of an election in which he is a candidate.

There is, however, a little quid pro quo. In case the senator or representative loses the election, or retires, he keeps his free mailing privilege until the following April 1. Also, the bill extends to widows of former presidents the right to send mail postage-free.

Nothing in the bill does anything about the vast quantities of handouts mailed with only the Congress member's signature as "postage" except during the four weeks before an election. Nor does it do anything about the still vaster quantities of stuff mailed by hundreds of government agencies, franked "Official Government Use Only."

THE VERY CAUTIOUS nature of this "reform bill" rubbed us a little wrong, for several reasons. Not the least of the reasons was its timing.

It came just as we had shelled out quite a few dollars for 8-cent stamps to mail Christmas cards. Until a few years ago, Christmas greetings went as printed matter — which at least 90 per cent of them are, except for the signature. But the Post Office Department, plagued by deficits to which Congress kept objecting, issued a rule in the '60s that all Christmas cards must go as letter mail, thus increasing the cost by a third.

It came also as the U. S. Postal Service — the Post Office Department's successor — prepared to hike rates for all classes of mail right after the start of the new year. Letter mail will then go to 10 cents, airmail letters to 13 cents.

Of course, free franking by congressmen will remain free. And mailing by government agencies will continue under the fiction that they pay (at reduced rates) for all of it through an accounting procedure.

IN MANY COUNTRIES, legislators and government agencies are required to use special stamps, usually plainly printed "Official." Each legislator, department or agency must buy these stamps and affix them to letters. Of course, they are paid for with the people's funds, but the amount that can be purchased is limited by available appropriations, and the postal service receives revenues which it is denied under our special privilege system.

This was the practice in the United States in the early days. But along in the 1890s, official stamps were abolished. It probably is not mere coincidence that postal deficits then began to mount.

Instead of sticking us taxpayers for higher postage rates, how about removing the free mailers — with a real postal reform bill, not such a tepid measure as that signed this month by the president?

Don't Eat Your Christmas Tree

It might seem to some Marinites that the admonition, "Don't eat your Christmas tree," would be as axiomatic as the old saw about not drinking your bath water. However, the living-off-the-land buffs have discovered that some previously scored plants are quite edible. And Euall Gibbons tells TV audiences that some pines are good for snacking. But our Christmas trees are mostly firs and spruces and inedible trees. Chew on a needle, if you are so inclined. But do your overworked holiday stomach a favor and forget the rest.

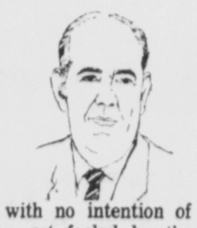
Lawyers Run For Office As Way Of Advertising



By EARL G. WATERS

Ever wonder why so many candidates for public office are lawyers? Read Rule 2 of the California Bar Association's "Rules for Professional Conduct."

That is the tenet that members "shall not solicit . . . by advertising or otherwise."

As the Hastings Law Journal reports, opinions issued by the bar have circumscribed the manner in which members may participate in radio and television and public appearances as lecturers and panelists. Efforts have also been made to limit news and feature stories about lawyers. It has also been deemed improper for lawyers to publish books about their professional experiences, and members have been admonished about articles in newspapers and other non-legal publications.

Although most of the activities frowned upon are nothing more than would be expected from active persons in any other endeavor, the bar has taken the position that such conduct is a covert manner of self-advertising "potentially injurious to the dignity of the profession."

THE ONE AREA which has not been ruled out where a young and enterprising lawyer can gain notice is campaigning for public office. As a result, many file for political posts with no intention of winning. Often they get fooled by the voters and get elected. Lawyers usually outnumber by far all other occupations in office. The present California Senate numbers 25 lawyers out of 40 members, and in the Assembly 30 of the 80 are attorneys.

The Hastings review traces the inception of restrictions on advertising to the crimes of champerty, maintenance and barratry. In plain language, this means promotion of litigation for profit, meddling in suits in which the lawyer has no interest, and inciting of lawsuits.

The modern justification against advertising is that it tends to commercialize the profession and lessen its dignity.

It is contended that the consequences of advertising are the obstruction of justice by increased litigation and court congestion, overreaching and thus breaching of duty to clients, overcharging and underrepresentation, assertion of fraudulent claims, corruption of public officials, and subornation of perjury.

This host of evils conjured up as potential results of advertising not only is far-fetched but ignores the fact there is adequate remedy for most of those offenses. As an exercise in logic it is about as valid as being against motherhood because many babies will grow up to be mental deficients, ne'er-do-wells or criminals.

WHAT SHOULD BE looked at are the adverse effects of the advertising prohibition. The report suggests that the pervasive nature of the rules, along with inconsistent opinions, inhibit lawyers from taking part in community affairs.

It may also contribute to the cluttering up of the ballots with non-serious candidates merely using this method as a permitted form of advertising.

Today it isn't enough just being a lawyer. The multitude of statutes and case decisions has made it a profession of specialists. And the average person seeking legal advice has no way of knowing which lawyer is appropriate for his problem. So it would seem proper to permit attorneys to advertise their fields of practice.

"Says in just weeks we may not have it so good anymore."

What's Fair For Synanon Is Fair For Others

I was astonished to read in tonight's I-J (Dec. 24) that the head of the Synanon Foundation had indicated to Sheriff Mountanos his intention to arm every adult male in the Tomales Bay facility as a result of a theft of some tapes.

Since a friend in a nearby community recently told me that someone had stolen a television set from his home. I have advised him to indicate to Sheriff Mountanos that his community requires to be issued with submachine guns due to the "spread of crime and lawlessness."

'Shooting From Hip' Solutions Dangerous

It is refreshing and encouraging to read a letter like that of Lee Stephen Windheim in the Independent-Journal of Dec. 21, for two reasons. First, that his letter is so straightforward, so simply and clearly written, so calmly authoritative. And secondly, because the I-J shows that it's willing to "take its licks" if and when its own views are refuted or opposed, and fearlessly publish both sides of public questions.

I happen to be aligned with Mr. Windheim in the current controversy over further development and building of nuclear power plants, and agree that "shoot-from-the-hip" solutions often "reported in most of our media" are of little help in making the issues factual and clean, especially for those who may inherit the proliferation of hundreds of nuclear plants, the problems of whose effects upon the environment are still not scientifically resolved . . .

It isn't "shooting from the hip" to state (since it can be strictly verified) that the Atomic Energy Commission, which now presses for more nuclear plants, has a very poor record in the area of environmental pollution, which began when they underplayed the seriousness of fallout from nuclear weapons tests in the 1950s. The AEC has not shown since that it has profited from its early mistakes. The reluctance of private insurance companies to supply nuclear power plants with liability insurance is based in part on the "near misses" in the reactor field, such as the accident in 1966 at the Fermi plant outside Detroit, which potentially could have killed millions of people and rendered a substantial part of the U.S. uninhabitable . . .

Since it is the public that may suffer, it is the public that must be soundly and rightly informed for making the decisions about present and future energy sources. It is the news media that has become the principal public forum for information and decisions of such environmental importance, and unbiased, open discussion must be encouraged and exchanged by, in Mr. Windheim's words "comprehensive systematic analysis" . . . Now, of all times, there is reason for patience and calm, and no "shooting-from-the-hip."

Happy Holiday For Congressmen Visiting Their Constituents

WASHINGTON — One of the reasons for having a holiday season is to give congressmen and senators a chance to go home and find out what the American voter is thinking. In the past, our lawmakers have gone through the motions of talking to their constituents, but this year they've traveled home with a certain amount of trepidation.

"Hi there, Mr. Coleslaw. I'm Congressman Upchuck and I'd like to have a few words with you."

"Don't want any."

"I'M NOT SELLING anything, Mr. Coleslaw. I just want to find out how you feel about the great issues of the day so I can do my job better in Washington. Now, how's everything been working for you?"

"Ain't been working."

"Well, we'll have to do something about that, won't we?"

"What can you do about me not working?"

"Congress can do a lot of things. Pass a law, offer a resolution, filibuster if we have to. Do you mind if I ask why you're not working?"

"Place I worked at made shoelaces for shoes made in another place. Other place couldn't make shoes because they couldn't get leather from the leather company. The leather company couldn't get leather because there was no diesel fuel to get the cows to market. Truck drivers wouldn't deliver diesel fuel to diesel filling stations because they was losing money driving 55 miles an hour. That's why I ain't making shoe laces."

"BY GOD, MR. COLESLAW, you're a victim of the energy crisis! Do you know I warned the country about the energy crisis three years ago? Here is a speech I made on the floor of the House in 1970. I said unless we tightened our belts and put our shoulders to the wheel that sometime in the next 50 years we might have gas rationing. Well, how do you like that for on-the-nose predicting?"

"What did you do about energy besides predict?"

"Well, I introduced a bill a year ago giving the oil companies a special tax discount as an incentive for finding us more oil."

"Heard the oil companies have done pretty good since the crisis."

"That's what makes America great. Give us a shortage and we'll make money on it."

"UPCHUCK, WILL YOU get the hell out of here?"

"Now, wait a minute, Mr. Coleslaw. I want to know everything that's bothering you. I would not be serving my district if I didn't know your doubts, your fears, your hopes. Tell me, Coleslaw, besides being out of work and having no money, what else irritates you?"

"Too many crooks in Washington, starting with that guy who keeps saying he ain't one."

"I'm glad you brought that up, Coleslaw. Would you be for or against impeachment?"

"I'd settle if he just paid his income tax."

"I would like for you to see a speech I made on that very subject, printed, of course, in the Congressional Record."

FUEL — Robert C. Jennings, owner of the Yellow Cab Co. of San Rafael, fills up one of the firm's taxis with compressed natural gas, a more economical and clean-burning fuel than gasoline. Jennings estimates that use of the fuel in especially adapted cab engines will result in a savings of $15,000 annually.

San Rafael Cabs Are Converted To Natural Gas Fuel Operation

By NELS JOHNSON

When Richard L. Jennings returned home from college several years ago and proposed that his family convert its San Rafael cab fleet from gasoline to natural gas, he received an icy reception.

Robert C. Jennings, owner of the city's Yellow Cab Co., thought his son's idea was a lot of hot air.

But the 56-year-old Jennings changed his view in the wake of the ecology craze and the energy crisis, and last month ushered his firm into a new era as 16 of the company's 20 taxis were converted from standard gasoline to compressed natural gas.

And the remainder of the fleet is due for conversion in the near future.

"We can't lose with this," he beamed yesterday as he pointed to the modified fuel system in one of the firm's bright yellow cabs. "The ecologists will let us alone, and we've beat the fuel crisis," he said.

Jennings said he expects to recoup a $30,000 investment in the new fuel system within two years, through fuel and maintenance savings estimated at $15,000 annually.

Gasoline costs about 40 cents per gallon, while compressed natural gas costs about 12 cents per gallon, he said. Both fuels yield about 12 miles per gallon, he added.

In addition, the cleaner-burning compressed gas results in lower maintenance costs, Jennings said. "With gasoline, you change the oil every 3,000 miles or so, but you can go 60,000 miles on compressed natural gas and still have clean oil," according to Jennings.

Moreover, compressed gas is virtually pollution free, he said.

"We're the first cab company, and in fact, the first commercial user, of compressed gas in Northern California," Jennings said. "And the big fuel companies have fields and fields of natural gas" that have gone unused, he said.

(A spokesman for Pacific Gas and Electric in San Francisco said, however, that there is a "growing short supply" of natural gas, and that while "fields and fields" of the natural fuel abound, the price of natural gas is so low that it often is not profitable to exploit it.)

Conversion of a standard fuel system to compressed gas takes about 12 man hours and $675 worth of equipment, according to Jennings. Compressed gas cylinders are placed inside the trunk, while new fuel lines, pressure regulators and adapters are hooked up to the engine, he said.

"It's really very easy," he said.

The economics of the new system, Jennings said, will allow the company to maintain its current cab fare rates.

Book Tells Of Air Force Methods In Confessions

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (UPI) — The methods used to extract confessions from cadets during a 1972 cheating scandal at the Air Force Academy included midnight awakenings and lengthy interrogations in which cadets were denied sleep, according to a military lawyer.

The resulting confessions, which led to the resignations of 39 cadets, probably would be tossed out of any civilian court because of unethical and possibly illegal coercion, he said.

The comments were made in a book written by Capt. Michael R. Rose, a staff lawyer at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., and a 1969 graduate of the academy.

The book, soon to be published by the New York University school of law, drew immediate criticism from Lt. Col. James J. Jones, information director at the academy.

Jones called Rose an "ill-informed and ill-advised young graduate" and said his book was a "very shallow and non-substantive document."

"A thorough evaluation was made following the incident," Jones said. "The evaluation revealed no instances such as those related by Captain Rose in his report."

The 26-year-old lawyer said the scandal first broke in January, 1972, with a cadet who "broke down" and revealed widespread cheating after five and one half hours of questioning by 10 cadet honor committee members and an officer.

During the next 48 hours, Rose said, cadets implicated in the scandal were awakened in the middle of the night, from 75 to 125 suspects were placed in guarded rooms and ordered not to talk, and each cadet was interrogated, some for as long as six hours, while being ordered to stand at attention.

Rose said some cadets were threatened with various reprisals and were told untruthfully they had been implicated in written confessions by fellow cadets.

Rose said he believed such lengthy periods were unconstitutional. He said the cadets were not told they had the right to remain silent.

"A cadet questioned in the honor investigation by an upperclass cadet may not recognize his right to remain silent and, even if he should, may not dare assert it?" Rose said.

Jones pointed out that Rose was not at the academy at the time of the incident and denied that cadet rights were violated.

He said the 39 cadets who eventually dropped out of school were given the option of remaining to fight charges against them and were told they would have all the legal rights and safeguards under law, including cross examination of witnesses.

Desk Fire Keeps Firemen Ducking

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The $1,200 electronically equipped desk of the chief of police in suburban Florissant caught fire yesterday, and the blaze sent firemen ducking for cover as it ignited bullets in the desk.

Chief Milton Vogel kept ammunition for two pistols in a drawer of the desk, and the bullets exploded sporadically during the fire.

The desk, which had been installed last month, contained elaborate electronic equipment, including a remote-control television to monitor the jail, a tape recorder, a radio, a console to operate all of the equipment and a typewriter.

Floating Dome Is Being Built

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A $1 million floating dome is being constructed at San Francisco's famed Fisherman's Wharf for the exhibition of marine life.

The glass-oriented structure, expected to be completed next spring for Sea Habitat Corp., will hold an estimated 400 visitors an hour.

Soviet Hockey

Although ice hockey as an organized sport was not introduced in the Soviet Union until 1946, the Soviets have become a world power in amateur hockey. They have won the world amateur title every year since 1963, with the exception of 1972. Today, thousands of Soviet boys are getting specialized training. Some Westerners charge that the degree of government support leaves the Soviet team's amateur standing questionable. Americans will get to see the Soviets in action at the 6-day World Invitational Hockey Tournament beginning today in Colorado Springs.

DO YOU KNOW — Which medal did the Soviet hockey team win at the 1972 Olympics?

Willis Brock Enters Rohnert Park Race

Willis E. Brock, a 42-year-old marine supply specialist, yesterday became the fifth candidate for election March 5 to one of two open seats on the Rohnert Park City Council.

"I live in a brand new part of the city, Holiday Park. There doesn't seem to be any representation on the city council from this area," Brock said. "It's partly in Cotati and partly in Rohnert Park. When you talk to people they seem to thing we belong to Cotati."

A proponent of controlled growth, he said the city's expansion "must be according to the available resources — natural resources like water and open space and considerations such as your schools and your money."

After a 21-year career in the Army and Air Force, including tours in Korea and Vietnam, Brock retired in April as a technical sergeant and brought his family to Rohnert Park. He is employed by the MacKay Marine Division of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. in Berkeley, where he buys parts for communications and navigation systems of ships using San Francisco Bay. He is the cubmaster for Cub Pack No. 4, sponsored by the Cotati Lions Club.

Brock lives at 534 Lassen Court with his wife, Kiyoko, and three children.

Woman Is Given Check Sentence

A woman who pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor bad check charge has been fined $190 and ordered to make good on four checks totaling $136.

Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court also placed Frances Lucille Troche, 47, of no known address, on a year's probation.

San Anselmo Man Found Dead

A 24-year-old San Anselmo man was found dead at home last night, San Anselmo police said today.

Thomas S. Willis Jr. of 47 Cedar Street apparently took his own life, according to the county coroners office.

Police said a roommate returned home about 7:14 p.m. and found Willis in a broom closet with a water hose leading to a gas pipe.

The roommate, Diane L. Smith, told officers Willis had been depressed recently, according to police. No note was found.

He was a native of California and worked as a clerk at the University of California Medical Center.

Death Toll Least Ever For Four-Day Weekend

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The 518 traffic deaths during the 102-hour Christmas holiday period were the fewest ever recorded during a four-day weekend, the National Safety Council said yesterday.

"It is hard to put a name on the exact cause because of various weather and road conditions," a NSC spokesman said. "We surmise that the energy crisis, resulting in less miles traveled and lower speeds, played a primary role in this reduction."

The NSC said the 518 toll was the lowest for a four-day Christmas weekend since it began keeping records in 1947. The previous low was 535 in 1951 over a four-day period.

The council had earlier estimated that between 550 and 650 persons would die in traffic accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Tuesday.

FUEL — Robert C. Jennings, owner of the Yellow Cab Co. of San Rafael, fills up one of the firm's taxis with compressed natural gas, a more economical and clean-burning fuel than gasoline. Jennings estimates that use of the fuel in especially adapted cab engines will result in a savings of $15,000 annually.

San Rafael Cabs Are Converted To Natural Gas Fuel Operation

By NELS JOHNSON

When Richard L. Jennings returned home from college several years ago and proposed that his family convert its San Rafael cab fleet from gasoline to natural gas, he received an icy reception.

Robert C. Jennings, owner of the city's Yellow Cab Co., thought his son's idea was a lot of hot air.

But the 56-year-old Jennings changed his view in the wake of the ecology craze and the energy crisis, and last month ushered his firm into a new era as 16 of the company's 20 taxis were converted from standard gasoline to compressed natural gas.

And the remainder of the fleet is due for conversion in the near future.

"We can't lose with this," he beamed yesterday as he pointed to the modified fuel system in one of the firm's bright yellow cabs. "The ecologists will let us alone, and we've beat the fuel crisis," he said.

Jennings said he expects to recoup a $30,000 investment in the new fuel system within two years, through fuel and maintenance savings estimated at $15,000 annually.

Gasoline costs about 40 cents per gallon, while compressed natural gas costs about 12 cents per gallon, he said. Both fuels yield about 12 miles per gallon, he added.

In addition, the cleaner-burning compressed gas results in lower maintenance costs, Jennings said. "With gasoline, you change the oil every 3,000 miles or so, but you can go 60,000 miles on compressed natural gas and still have clean oil," according to Jennings.

Moreover, compressed gas is virtually pollution free, he said.

"We're the first cab company, and in fact, the first commercial user, of compressed gas in Northern California," Jennings said. "And the big fuel companies have fields and fields of natural gas" that have gone unused, he said.

(A spokesman for Pacific Gas and Electric in San Francisco said, however, that there is a "growing short supply" of natural gas, and that while "fields and fields" of the natural fuel abound, the price of natural gas is so low that it often is not profitable to exploit it.)

Conversion of a standard fuel system to compressed gas takes about 12 man hours and $675 worth of equipment, according to Jennings. Compressed gas cylinders are placed inside the trunk, while new fuel lines, pressure regulators and adapters are hooked up to the engine, he said.

"It's really very easy," he said.

The economics of the new system, Jennings said, will allow the company to maintain its current cab fare rates.

Book Tells Of Air Force Methods In Confessions

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (UPI) — The methods used to extract confessions from cadets during a 1972 cheating scandal at the Air Force Academy included midnight awakenings and lengthy interrogations in which cadets were denied sleep, according to a military lawyer.

The resulting confessions, which led to the resignations of 39 cadets, probably would be tossed out of any civilian court because of unethical and possibly illegal coercion, he said.

The comments were made in a book written by Capt. Michael R. Rose, a staff lawyer at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., and a 1969 graduate of the academy.

The book, soon to be published by the New York University school of law, drew immediate criticism from Lt. Col. James J. Jones, information director at the academy.

Jones called Rose an "ill-informed and ill-advised young graduate" and said his book was a "very shallow and nonsubstantive document."

"A thorough evaluation was made following the incident," Jones said. "The evaluation revealed no instances such as those related by Captain Rose in his report."

The 26-year-old lawyer said the scandal first broke in January, 1972, with a cadet who "broke down" and revealed widespread cheating after five and one half hours of questioning by 10 cadet honor committee members and an officer.

During the next 48 hours, Rose said, cadets implicated in the scandal were awakened in the middle of the night, from 75 to 125 suspects were placed in guarded rooms and ordered not to talk, and each cadet was interrogated, some for as long as six hours, while being ordered to stand at attention.

Rose said some cadets were threatened with various reprisals and were told untruthfully they had been implicated in written confessions by fellow cadets.

Rose said he believed such lengthy periods were unconstitutional. He said the cadets were not told they had the right to remain silent.

"A cadet questioned in the honor investigation by an upperclass cadet may not recognize his right to remain silent and, even if he should, may not dare assert it?" Rose said.

Jones pointed out that Rose was not at the academy at the time of the incident and denied that cadet rights were violated.

He said the 39 cadets who eventually dropped out of school were given the option of remaining to fight charges against them and were told they would have all the legal rights and safeguards under law, including cross examination of witnesses.

AIRPORT SEARCH IN BOMB CASE

Police search passengers waiting to board a charter flight from Ciampino Airport in Rome. The search followed a tip from security agents that Arab guerrillas were planning to strike just a week after five Arabs blew up a Pan American jetliner at Rome's main Guimicino Airport, killing 32 persons in the bloodiest Arab attack to date.

Heat Is Applied To Blue Shield

NEW YORK (UPI) — United Medical Service, Inc. — Blue Shield of Greater New York — has been ordered to show cause why its directors should not be fired for unfair practices in the settlement of claims.

A spokesman for the State Insurance Department said yesterday that the directors must appear at an "administrative hearing" on the matter Jan. 11.

The spokesman said that Blue Shield has 23 directors, 11 of whom are medical doctors. He said that with approximately 6 million policyholders and $150 million in annual premiums, Blue Shield is the largest insurer of doctor bills in Greater New York.

"The show cause order essentially relates to consumer relations, specifically with claims settlements," the spokesman said. "We charge that Blue Shield was in violation of insurance laws having to do with the speed and expedition with which they settle claims."

The spokesman said the department studied Blue Shield claims operations for several months and discovered that:

Insurance Department personnel making 237 telephone calls to Blue Shield's claims department between Nov. 5 and Nov. 16, 1973 had to wait an average of five minutes for someone to answer the phone. The shortest interval was two seconds, the longest, 24 minutes;

Of 2,300 inquiries made by the department on behalf of Blue Shield policyholders complaining of poor service between Feb. 1 and Nov. 10, 1973, Blue Shield failed to respond to "more than 1,000" of them within the 15 working days required by law.

Of 300 policyholders who went to court seeking claims against Blue Shield during the first nine months of 1973, "approximately half" of a sample of 183 cases analyzed by the department were brought because Blue Shield failed to make payment, and the other half were brought because of allegedly inadequate payment. Most of the plaintiffs won more money.

Major Flooding Seen In Southern States

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Dozens of families in Mississippi were out of their homes today, and many more families in Alabama and Georgia prepared for major flooding after torrential rains pounded the area from the Mississippi Valley to West Virginia.

More than 100 flood weary evacuees moved back into their muddy homes around Vicksburg, Miss., early today, but about 75 families in Laurel and Hattiesburg were still evacuated. In Granby, Miss., one woman was killed when she, her husband and infant daughter tried to flee their trailer home during a heavy thunderstorm yesterday.

The flood waters in Forrest County, Miss., today forced the closing of one lane of busy U.S. 49.

The U.S. Weather Service predicted an end to the rain today, but said several more days of flooding could be expected.

In West Virginia, the office of Emergency Service said between 15 and 20 persons were forced to leave their homes along low-lying areas of the Greenbrier River Valley where the river had reached flood stages. National Guardsmen were called out to help place sandbags between the river and the business district at Hinton, W.Va.

Rain, snow and swift winds, including a peak of 81 miles per hour, knocked out power lines and tore shingles from rooftops yesterday in Louisville, Ky. One man was injured and flash flood and tornado warnings were in effect.

About 50 persons, including 30 children, were evacuated from homes yesterday along the Rock River in Moline, Ill., when an ice jam formed downstream and backed up the river three feet above floodstage.

Twisters ripped homes and house trailers in Sylacauga and Mobile, Ala., injuring one mobile resident.

From eight to 11 inches of rain fell at Laurel and Meridian, Miss., and 10 ½ inches of rain fell at Smith Lake, Ala.

Berserk Deer Mangles, Almost Kills, Owner And Police Officer

FORT SMITH, Ark. (UPI) — Louis S. Hope and his wife noticed the gate right away. It had stood eight feet tall, but was kicked and torn open, almost ripped from its hinges. So began a Christmas horror tale.

They had been visiting relatives when they pulled into the driveway of their home in Kay Rogers Park where Hope is a caretaker.

Next to their home was the deer pen, and gone were his four-point buck and two does. Hope, 69, followed tracks back into the woods. He glanced up at the sound of the snort and saw the wild, mad eyes of the buck as it charged into him, pitching him up and crashing him into the ground.

"What do you think when you see your husband fighting for his life," Mrs. Hope said yesterday. "I guess I was yelling, and calling for help, but no one heard me, so I ran into the house and called the police."

Stunned, Hope turned over and groggily saw the buck charging again. Like a cowboy bulldogging a steer Hope grabbed its horns on the second charge. He was bleeding from where the horns had hit him in the arms and legs and where the hoofs had trampled him on the first charge. That was what patrolman Johnny Rollins of the Fort Smith police department first saw when his car skidded to a halt in the driveway.

The deer forced Hope back onto the ground, and although Hope held on tightly, the deer's horns pressed against his chest and side as the buck struggled for solid ground that would give him leverage.

Rollins ran over and kicked the deer over and over and then grabbed him around the neck, jerking and pulling him away from the older man. The deer turned away from Hope, shook off Rollins and charged.

"I played three years of high school football and never got hit that hard," said Rollins. Wildly the buck crashed into Rollins and Hope staggered to his feet and tried to run away.

The buck pawed and struck Rollins and then backed off for a second, seemingly undecided as to whether to pursue his new foe or finish off the old man. Rollins, flat on his back and bleeding, unsnapped his service revolver and fired three times, each shot striking the buck. The deer took a step toward his pen, buckled and fell dead.

Rollins and Hope were treated for dozens of cuts, bruises and abrasions at a Fort Smith hospital and released.

Hope, a retired lineman for Oklahoma Gas & Electric Co., was recovering in his bed at home.

"He's sore and stiff and can't come to the phone," his wife said yesterday as she retold the story. "He hopes to be up and around in a few days though.

The game warden had given them the deer to keep and they'd come across some other animals and were thinking about starting a small zoo.

"But we're through with deer now, I'll tell you for sure," she said. "We had him for three years. You never know."

Grand Ole Opry Star Opens Tour

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Suspended Grand Ole Opry star Skeeter Davis begins a three-state tour today with some of the street evangelists she defended during an Opry broadcast.

Miss Davis' suspension was triggered by her criticism of the arrest of 16 members of the "Christ is the Answer Crusade." She will make the tour seeking converts for the group that has operated out of a tent here for about six weeks, Miss Davis said.

Peking Seeking Domination Of Southeast Asia

MOSCOW (UPI) — Peking is trying to establish its domination over Southeast Asia with the help of Chinese emigrants living in those countries, the weekly New Times magazine said today.

It said Maoist agents are carrying out subversive activities in Burma, Malaysia, the Philippines and Singapore.

New Times said that "bourgeois" publications call these Chinese "Communists." But it said the left-wing Chinese forces supported by Peking "have nothing in common either with Marxist-Leninist outlook or with truly revolutionary organizations."

Cuts Postponed

TOKYO (UPI) — New Year's day oil and power cutbacks to Japanese homes and industry have been postponed for at least 10 days in the hope a relaxed Arab embargo will make them unnecessary, the government said today.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Sinus Infections Often Blamed For All Sorts Of Pain Misery

Sinus infections are miserable ailments but make wonderful conversation pieces at the office and across the bridge table. They are blamed for almost every type of pain from the neck up and are suspected whenever the nose is congested or there is a postnasal drip. Nine times out of 10, careful examination exonerates these structures. The nose is infected, but the sinuses are clear.

Sinus cavities are in the bones of the face. They have the same lining as does the nose and connect with the nasal passageways through small openings. Swelling of the tissues within the nasal passageways blocks the openings to the sinuses and prevents drainage. This is serious when the sinuses also are infected and filled with purulent secretions.

THE VICTIM develops a throbbing headache in the region of the involved sinus, the top of the head, or in the neck. Relief is obtained with antibiotics and by inserting drugs that reduce congestion and promote draingae. Once the sinuses are open, drainage may continue for days thereafter as a persistent discharge from the nose or into the back of the throat.

Sinusitis in children is associated frequently with mouth breathing, repeated colds, chronic cough, hoarseness, poor appetite, and inability to gain weight. The younsters with a chronic discharge from one nostril often has ethmoiditis. Unless treated, draining persists all winter and subsides finally with the onset of warmer weatehr, sunshine, and out of door activity.

MODERN TREATMENT of sinusitis includes the use of decongestants, nose drops, and antibiotics that kill the causative bacteria. This means a more rapid cure and no complications.

All respiratory diseases are common during inclement weather, and since colds often precede sinus infections, we expect more nasal trouble during the winter months. Resistance is down, sunshine is at a minimum, and there is constant exposure to chill. These situations reduce the resistance of the nasal membranes and enhance the growth of microorganisms in the nose and sinuses.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

FRUIT PAINS

N. M. writes: My 5-month-old son who is a twin can't eat any fruit except bananas without developing gas pains and vomiting. His brother has no such difficulty. Can you tell me why?

REPLY

This may be an idiosyncrasy or the child's digestive tract may not be ready for foods of these types. Continue with the bananas. Every two or three weeks, try small amounts of a different fruit.

SHOES, GOUT

W. R. writes: Is it possible to get gout from earing shoes belonging to a gouty man?

REPLY

No, gout is not an infection. Nor is it contagious. It is caused by an internal disturbance involving the metabolism of certain proteins and the accumulation of urates in the blood and tissues, especially of the joints.

STILLBIRTHS, AGE

J. K. writes: Are stillbirths more common in older women?

REPLY

Yes. Young mothers stand the best chance of having a live baby.

Quakers To Ask Nixon To Resign

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The clerk of the Stamford-Greenwich Religious Society of Friends yesterday said the group has decided to call on President Nixon's Quaker background and urge him to resign.

Carl Hollander of Old Greenwich, spokesman for the group, said its 19-member executive committee voted at its monthly meeting Dec. 16 to ask Nixon to resign "as one who shared their beliefs." He said notice of the decision was delayed because of a catastrophic ice storm that played havoc with communications in Connecticut for a week.

Hollander said the President was addressed in a letter simply as Richard Nixon, not out of disrespect, but according to the Quaker tradition "that all men are equal in the sight of God."

Heat Is Applied To Blue Shield

NEW YORK (UPI) — United Medical Service, Inc. — Blue Shield of Greater New York — has been ordered to show cause why its directors should not be fired for unfair practices in the settlement of claims.

A spokesman for the State Insurance Department said yesterday that the directors must appear at an "administrative hearing" on the matter Jan. 11.

The spokesman said that Blue Shield has 23 directors, 11 of whom are medical doctors. He said that with approximately 6 million policyholders and $150 million in annual premiums, Blue Shield is the largest insurer of doctor bills in Greater New York.

"The show cause order essentially relates to consumer relations, specifically with claims settlements," the spokesman said. "We charge that Blue Shield was in violation of insurance laws having to do with the speed and expedition with which they settle claims."

The spokesman said the department studied Blue Shield claims operations for several months and discovered that:

Insurance Department personnel making 237 telephone calls to Blue Shield's claims department between Nov. 5 and Nov. 16, 1973 had to wait an average of five minutes for someone to answer the phone. The shortest interval was two seconds, the longest, 24 minutes;

Of 2,300 inquiries made by the department on behalf of Blue Shield policyholders complaining of poor service between Feb. 1 and Nov. 10, 1973, Blue Shield failed to respond to "more than 1,000" of them within the 15 working days required by law.

Of 300 policyholders who went to court seeking claims against Blue Shield during the first nine months of 1973, "approximately half" of a sample of 183 cases analyzed by the department were brought because Blue Shield failed to make payment, and the other half were brought because of allegedly inadequate payment. Most of the plaintiffs won more money.

Major Flooding Seen In Southern States

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Dozens of families in Mississippi were out of their homes today, and many more families in Alabama and Georgia prepared for major flooding after torrential rains pounded the area from the Mississippi Valley to West Virginia.

More than 100 flood weary evacuees moved back into their muddy homes around Vicksburg, Miss., early today, but about 75 families in Laurel and Hattiesburg were still evacuated. In Granby, Miss., one woman was killed when she, her husband and infant daughter tried to flee their trailer home during a heavy thunderstorm yesterday.

The flood waters in Forrest County, Miss., today forced the closing of one lane of busy U.S. 49.

The U.S. Weather Service predicted an end to the rain today, but said several more days of flooding could be expected.

In West Virginia, the office of Emergency Service said between 15 and 20 persons were forced to leave their homes along low-lying areas of the Greenbrier River Valley where the river had reached flood stages. National Guardsmen were called out to help place sandbags between the river and the business district at Hinton, W.Va.

Rain, snow and swift winds, including a peak of 81 miles per hour, knocked out power lines and tore shingles from rooftops yesterday in Louisville, Ky. One man was injured and flash flood and tornado warnings were in effect.

About 50 persons, including 30 children, were evacuated from homes yesterday along the Rock River in Moline, Ill., when an ice jam formed downstream and backed up the river three feet above floodstage.

Twisters ripped homes and house trailers in Sylacauga and Mobile, Ala., injuring one mobile resident.

From eight to 11 inches of rain fell at Laurel and Meridian, Miss., and 10 ½ inches of rain fell at Smith Lake, Ala.

Berserk Deer Mangles, Almost Kills, Owner And Police Officer

FORT SMITH, Ark. (UPI) — Louis S. Hope and his wife noticed the gate right away. It had stood eight feet tall, but was kicked and torn open, almost ripped from its hinges. So began a Christmas horror tale.

They had been visiting relatives when they pulled into the driveway of their home in Kay Rogers Park where Hope is a caretaker.

Next to their home was the deer pen, and gone were his four-point buck and two does. Hope, 69, followed tracks back into the woods. He glanced up at the sound of the snort and saw the wild, mad eyes of the buck as it charged into him, pitching him up and crashing him into the ground.

"What do you think when you see your husband fighting for his life," Mrs. Hope said yesterday. "I guess I was yelling, and calling for help, but no one heard me, so I ran into the house and called the police."

Stunned, Hope turned over and groggily saw the buck charging again. Like a cowboy bulldogging a steer Hope grabbed its horns on the second charge. He was bleeding from where the horns had hit him in the arms and legs and where the hoofs had trampled him on the first charge. That was what patrolman Johnny Rollins of the Fort Smith police department first saw when his car skidded to a halt in the driveway.

The deer forced Hope back onto the ground, and although Hope held on tightly, the deer's horns pressed against his chest and side as the buck struggled for solid ground that would give him leverage.

Rollins ran over and kicked the deer over and over and then grabbed him around the neck, jerking and pulling him away from the older man. The deer turned away from Hope, shook off Rollins and charged.

"I played three years of high school football and never got hit that hard," said Rollins. Wildly the buck crashed into Rollins and Hope staggered to his feet and tried to run away.

The buck pawed and struck Rollins and then backed off for a second, seemingly undecided as to whether to pursue his new foe or finish off the old man. Rollins, flat on his back and bleeding, unsnapped his service revolver and fired three times, each shot striking the buck. The deer took a step toward his pen, buckled and fell dead.

Rollins and Hope were treated for dozens of cuts, bruises and abrasions at a Fort Smith hospital and released.

Hope, a retired lineman for Oklahoma Gas & Electric Co., was recovering in his bed at home.

"He's sore and stiff and can't come to the phone," his wife said yesterday as she retold the story. "He hopes to be up and around in a few days though.

The game warden had given them the deer to keep and they'd come across some other animals and were thinking about starting a small zoo.

"But we're through with deer now, I'll tell you for sure," she said. "We had him for three years. You never know."

Grand Ole Opry Star Opens Tour

Miss Davis' suspension was triggered by her criticism of the arrest of 16 members of the "Christ is the Answer Crusade." She will make the tour seeking converts for the group that has operated out of a tent here for about six weeks, Miss Davis said.

Peking Seeking Domination Of Southeast Asia

MOSCOW (UPI) — Peking is trying to establish its domination over Southeast Asia with the help of Chinese emigrants living in those countries, the weekly New Times magazine said today.

It said Maoist agents are carrying out subversive activities in Burma, Malaysia, the Philippines and Singapore.

New Times said that "bourgeois" publications call these Chinese "Communists." But it said the left-wing Chinese forces supported by Peking "have nothing in common either with Marxist-Leninist outlook or with truly revolutionary organizations."

Cuts Postponed

TOKYO (UPI) — New Year's day oil and power cutbacks to Japanese homes and industry have been postponed for at least 10 days in the hope a relaxed Arab embargo will make them unnecessary, the government said today.

ON THE WALL FOR HIS HONOR

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Sinus infections are miserable ailments but make wonderful conversation pieces at the office and across the bridge table. They are blamed for almost every type of pain from the neck up and are suspected whenever the nose is congested or there is a postnasal drip. Nine times out of 10, careful examination exonerates these structures. The nose is infected, but the sinuses are clear.

Sinus cavities are in the bones of the face. They have the same lining as does the nose and connect with the nasal passageways through small openings. Swelling of the tissues within the nasal passageways blocks the openings to the sinuses and prevents drainage. This is serious when the sinuses also are infected and filled with purulent secretions.

THE VICTIM develops a throbbing headache in the region of the involved sinus, the top of the head, or in the neck. Relief is obtained with antibiotics and by inserting drugs that reduce congestion and promote draingae. Once the sinuses are open, drainage may continue for days thereafter as a persistent discharge from the nose or into the back of the throat.

Sinusitis in children is associated frequently with mouth breathing, repeated colds, chronic cough, hoarseness, poor appetite, and inability to gain weight. The younsters with a chronic discharge from one nostril often has ethmoiditis. Unless treated, draining persists all winter and subsides finally with the onset of warmer weatehr, sunshine, and out of door activity.

MODERN TREATMENT of sinusitis includes the use of decongestants, nose drops, and antibiotics that kill the causative bacteria. This means a more rapid cure and no complications.

All respiratory diseases are common during inclement weather, and since colds often precede sinus infections, we expect more nasal trouble during the winter months. Resistance is down, sunshine is at a minimum, and there is constant exposure to chill. These situations reduce the resistance of the nasal membranes and enhance the growth of microorganisms in the nose and sinuses.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

FRUIT PAINS

N. M. writes: My 5-month-old son who is a twin can't eat any fruit except bananas without developing gas pains and vomiting. His brother has no such difficulty. Can you tell me why?

REPLY

This may be an idiosyncrasy or the child's digestive tract may not be ready for foods of these types. Continue with the bananas. Every two or three weeks, try small amounts of a different fruit.

SHOES, GOUT

W. R. writes: Is it possible to get gout from earing shoes belonging to a gouty man?

REPLY

No, gout is not an infection. Nor is it contagious. It is caused by an internal disturbance involving the metabolism of certain proteins and the accumulation of urates in the blood and tissues, especially of the joints.

STILLBIRTHS, AGE

J. K. writes: Are stillbirths more common in older women?

REPLY

Yes. Young mothers stand the best chance of having a live baby.

Quakers To Ask Nixon To Resign

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The clerk of the Stamford-Greenwich Religious Society of Friends yesterday said the group has decided to call on President Nixon's Quaker background and urge him to resign.

Carl Hollander of Old Greenwich, spokesman for the group, said its 19-member executive committee voted at its monthly meeting Dec. 16 to ask Nixon to resign "as one who shared their beliefs." He said notice of the decision was delayed because of a catastrophic ice storm that played havoc with communications in Connecticut for a week.

Hollander said the President was addressed in a letter simply as Richard Nixon, not out of disrespect, but according to the Quaker tradition "that all men are equal in the sight of God."

Aliens Must Register Addresses Next Month

All aliens in the United States must report their addresses to the U.S. attorney general next month.

The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service said aliens can obtain forms for making the report at any post office or immigration and naturalization service office.

The alien reports his address, the date and place of entry into this country, date and place of birth, country of citizenship and alien registration number.

All aliens must report but the parent or legal guardian should submit the report for an alien under the age of 14.

The completed form is then mailed to the immigration service.

Aliens who fail to make the report can be taken into custody and deported. They are also subject to fine or imprisonment before deportation.

Painting Stolen In Venice Found

VENICE, Italz (UPI) — Police said today they had recovered a stolen masterpiece by 18th century painter Giovanni Battista Tiepolo and were looking for the thieves.

The altarpiece, depicting a miracle of St. Anthony of Padua, described by art experts as priceless, was found last night in a farmhouse a few miles from the mainland village of Mirano, where it was stolen five days ago.

No Fanfare As Mao Turns 80

TOKYO (AP) — The 80th birthday of Chinese Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung passed yesterday with no mention by the official Chinese news agency. But as usual Mao's teachings were very much in evidence.

Reporting on China's expanded foreign trade, the official Hsinhua news agency quoted Mao as saying: "The Chinese people wish to have friendly cooperation with the people of all countries and to resume and expand international trade in order to develop production and promote economic prosperity."

The absence of public celebration on his birthday is Mao's own wish. Japanese correspondents in Peking reported that the chairman was in apparent good health after eight decades, including more than 50 years of frequent personal privation, political struggle and arduous work.

Associates say Mao now spends much of his time reading and has made some halting attempts to learn the rudiments of English, a language used by many of the chiefs of state he receives at his home.

Mao has met a number of international leaders at his home in Peking's Forbidden City recently, but has not been seen at any large public event since he presided at the 10th Communist party congress in August.

Northwest Has Plenty Of Energy

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — In an era of energy crunch, the Pacific Northwest is wallowing in surplus electrical power after heavy rains that have caused some reservoirs to spill over.

The Bonneville Power Administration said yesterday it cannot market electricity fast enough to keep up with the heavy flow through hydroelectric dams.

Even the shutdown of the 860-megawatt nuclear reactor at the Hanford Nuclear Reservation last Friday failed to curb the excess supply of electricity, the BPA said.

Electricity is being sold to California utilities at the capacity of lines to unload it, the BPA said, and is also going to utilities in British Columbia and Arizona.

Surplus water has been spilling over the John Day, McNary and The Dalles dams, the BPA said.

A LITTLE CAMERA SHY

Four of five cheetah cubs, one with his back to the camera, are the latest edition to San Diego Zoo's wild animal park. They were born to Miss Cutie on Monday. They are the third of four litters born at the park since the start of a special cheetah breeding program in 1970. (UPI Telephoto)

Sterile Bollworm Drop Is Made In Cotton Fields

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today that it released 90 million sterile pink bollworm moths over California cotton fields this year.

The department report said controlling the bollworm pest through use of sterile moths as an alternative to pesticides has proven effective.

The sterile moths were relased form low-flying aircraft at the rate of about one million a day throughout the cotton season.

Leo G. Iverson, of the department, said sterile bollworms, when they mate with native worms, produce eggs which hatch only 3 per cent of the time. And when they do hatch, only 4 per cent of the worms survive to adulthood.

Now save money on gas, meat, vegetables.
"Sorry no gas," slim pickins in the meat cases and the high cost of vegetables, all point to a time of shortages. Here's a 3-part article that details practical ways you can cope with these cutbacks and still save money. One of 44 articles and features.

Aliens Must Register Addresses Next Month

All aliens in the United States must report their addresses to the U.S. attorney general next month.

The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service said aliens can obtain forms for making the report at any post office or immigration and naturalization service office.

The alien reports his address, the date and place of entry into this country, date and place of birth, country of citizenship and alien registration number.

All aliens must report but the parent or legal guardian should submit the report for an alien under the age of 14.

The completed form is then mailed to the immigration service.

Aliens who fail to make the report can be taken into custody and deported. They are also subject to fine or imprisonment before deportation.

Painting Stolen In Venice Found

VENICE, Italz (UPI) — Police said today they had recovered a stolen masterpiece by 18th century painter Giovanni Battista Tiepolo and were looking for the thieves.

The altarpiece, depicting a miracle of St. Anthony of Padua, described by art experts as priceless, was found last night in a farmhouse a few miles from the mainland village of Mirano, where it was stolen five days ago.

No Fanfare As Mao Turns 80

TOKYO (AP) — The 80th birthday of Chinese Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung passed yesterday with no mention by the official Chinese news agency. But as usual Mao's teachings were very much in evidence.

Reporting on China's expanded foreign trade, the official Hsinhua news agency quoted Mao as saying: "The Chinese people wish to have friendly cooperation with the people of all countries and to resume and expand international trade in order to develop production and promote economic prosperity."

The absence of public celebration on his birthday is Mao's own wish. Japanese correspondents in Peking reported that the chairman was in apparent good health after eight decades, including more than 50 years of frequent personal privation, political struggle and arduous work.

Associates say Mao now spends much of his time reading and has made some halting attempts to learn the rudiments of English, a language used by many of the chiefs of state he receives at his home.

Mao has met a number of international leaders at his home in Peking's Forbidden City recently, but has not been seen at any large public event since he presided at the 10th Communist party congress in August.

Northwest Has Plenty Of Energy

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — In an era of energy crunch, the Pacific Northwest is wallowing in surplus electrical power after heavy rains that have caused some reservoirs to spill over.

The Bonneville Power Administration said yesterday it cannot market electricity fast enough to keep up with the heavy flow through hydroelectric dams.

Even the shutdown of the 860-megawatt nuclear reactor at the Hanford Nuclear Reservation last Friday failed to curb the excess supply of electricity, the BPA said.

Electricity is being sold to California utilities at the capacity of lines to unload it, the BPA said, and is also going to utilities in British Columbia and Arizona.

Surplus water has been spilling over the John Day, McNary and The Dalles dams, the BPA said.

Four of five cheetah cubs, one with his back to the camera, are the latest edition to San Diego Zoo's wild animal park. They were born to Miss Cutie on Monday. They are the third of four litters born at the park since the start of a special cheetah breeding program in 1970.

Sterile Bollworm Drop Is Made In Cotton Fields

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today that it released 90 million sterile pink bollworm moths over California cotton fields this year.

The department report said controlling the bollworm pest through use of sterile moths as an alternative to pesticides has proven effective.

The sterile moths were relased form low-flying aircraft at the rate of about one million a day throughout the cotton season.

Leo G. Iverson, of the department, said sterile bollworms, when they mate with native worms, produce eggs which hatch only 3 per cent of the time. And when they do hatch, only 4 per cent of the worms survive to adulthood.

Now save money on gas, meat, vegetables.

"Sorry no gas," slim pickins in the meat cases and the high cost of vegetables, all point to a time of shortages. Here's a 3-part article that details practical ways you can cope with these cutbacks and still save money. One of 44 articles and features.

A Fine Film About Football

Chet Patterson of Greenbrae and Tom Hall, a Marin County native now living in San Francisco, partners in Patterson and Hall Graphics in S.F., have come up with a wonderful television film on three stars of the National Football League.

The film was produced and directed by Mike Cerre, 26-year-old member of the P & H staff, and zeros in on John Brodie, now retired quarterback of the 49ers; Franco Harris, Pittsburgh Steeler running back, and Nick Buoniconti, Miami Dolphin middle linebacker.

MIKE CERRE

The half-hour film is scheduled to be shown at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 8 on KRON, Channel 4, and also at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 11 on Sacramento's KCRA, Channel 3. I was able to see a sneak preview of it the other day in one of the Patterson and Hall studios.

I was quite impressed with the film which was titled, "A Closer Look at Football." That's just what it is. Cerre and the camera crew wanted to go deeper into what pro football is to a player. They wanted to let these three members of the NFL tell their reasons for playing the game, what it was like to them.

The film was purchased from Patterson and Hall by the Ford Motor Company which is getting involved in the sport through its Punt, Pass and Kick program for youngsters. Where I saw blank frames during my private screening, you'll be getting messages from the Ford people.

IT HAS ALREADY been shown at some eastern parts of the U.S., and according to Patterson, has drawn quite a few compliments. I believe him. Some of the effects captured by Cerre were outstanding. Although the films were supplied by NFL Films, Cerre put in all the musical background and edited the thing around interview films of the three NFL stars.

The interview shots were purposely taken away from the field, away from all the shoulder pads and helmets. The Brodie interview was done in his Los Altos home, Harris' was shot while he was strolling along the banks of one of the rivers near Three Rivers Stadium, and Buoniconti's appearance in front of the camera was after a practice session, in the Dolphins' dressing room.

WHILE THEY WERE TALKING, the film would switch to actual combat on the football field. There was the crunch of bodies and the background music, cellos and flutes. The speed of action was cut down and football was made to look like a graceful ballet, Harris dancing past the grasping hands of would-be enemy tacklers, Brodie throwing touchdown passes to his receivers.

The film makers needed some good sound of bodies smacking into each other, pads hitting pads and players grunting out their physical exertion. For that they got some help from seniors at Berkeley High to provide the sound effects. They edited it into the NFL Films and it makes quite a finished product.

CERRE DIDN'T HAVE the expensive equipment of a Darryl F. Zanuck so he had to improvise at times. To get shots of Harris walking toward the camera while he was talking, the cameraman was on the back end of a Volkswagen, the vehicle going very slowly, all air out of the tires. "We found this made the ride very smooth, with no bounce to the cameras," said Cerre.

If the television response to the Patterson and Hall initial try at sports filming is favorable, they might try doing the same type film with pro hockey, and maybe the Kentucky Derby.

Wet, Muddy Practices For Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) — Practicing in the rain and mud isn't exactly the way to get ready to play football on a synthetic turf but that's what the Oakland Raiders are contending themselves with today, and they aren't all that worried about it.

The Raiders, who meet the Miami Dolphins in the Orange Bowl on Sunday for the AFC title and the Super Bowl berth that goes with it, sloshed through the mud and rain during a long workout yesterday and the prospects are for more of the same today.

"All we're concerned with is getting in the necessary work to stay sharp," said Raiders' Coach John Madden. "Sure, it would be better if we practiced on solid ground, but really it's not all that bad."

What has the Raiders a bit miffed, though, is a prediction by Miami All Pro offensive guard Larry Little that this time "it will be different."

Little, in the form of a guarantee which appeared in the Miami News the other day, was referring to the first meeting between the Dolphins and Raiders—in an early season game which the Raiders won 12-7 to end Miami's 16- game regular season winning streak carrying back through last year.

"The only guarantees I can get are on refrigerators," growled Gene Upshaw, "and sometimes they break down."

The Dolphins saw their streak snapped while playing the Raiders in nearby Berkeley. At home they have won 24 in a row, which is probably why Little is making "guarantees."

"We'd like to play here in Oakland but I feel we can play any team in any place if we keep producing the type of ball we have the last five weeks," said linebacker Gerald Irons.

"We know there'll be 80,000 people screaming for the Dolphins and signs everywhere down there. We know that going in and it's not going to beat us. It'll take more than that."

Warriors Trying To Stop Skid

OAKLAND (UPI) — Ordinarily, a six-game losing streak could be disastrous in the National Basketball Association.

But in the not-so-strong Pacific Division, where there hasn't been a take-charge team thus far, dropping six in a row, as the Warriors have done, hasn't hurt all that much.

So tonight, when the Warriors host the Portland Trail Blazers in the Oakland arena, they have a chance to climb to within a half-game of the equally stumbling Los Angeles Lakers, who lead the division.

That may be easier said than done the way the Warriors have been playing the last two weeks. Their tumble from the top began against the same Trail Blazers exactly two weeks ago. In that one, the Warriors raced off to a 17-point first quarter lead and then fell from grace, losing the lead and the ball game.

"It's a good time to come out of it," said center Nate Thurmond, who recalls a 17- game losing streak nine years ago. "What we have to do is go out and play, and when everyone comes back to the locker room he has to be able to say I did the best I could. If we each go out and do that, we'll start winning again."

After the Trail Blazers the Warriors have games with the Lakers and Sonics. A three-game winning streak now could turn the division around in a hurry. The Sonics defeated the Lakers Wednesday night, 129-105, as Los Angeles played without Jerry West.

It's Another Loss For Hapless Seals

They went on the road yesterday to Vancouver and suffered their 19th loss away from home in 20 starts this year.

Against the Canucks, a team they never have beaten in Vancouver, the young Seals made a game of it for two periods but then Bobby Schmautz, the Canucks' highest scorer, Dennis Ververgaert and Paulin Bordeleau notched third period goals for a 6-4 victory.

Morris Mott and Joey Johnston scored in the second period for the Seals to leave them only a goal behind going into the final period.

Schmautz scored his 17th goal of the season on a breakaway to give Vancouver a 4-2 edge but Walt McKechnie got it back — also on an unassisted tally—less than three minutes later.

However, with Vancouver enjoying a wide territorial edge throughout, Ververgaert and Bordeleau followed with goals in the next seven minutes and the Seals were finished, even though Ted McAneeley blinked the red light at the 11:15 mark.

The Seals now are 7-23-4 overall and buried in the National Hockey League's West Division cellar.

PLANNING HIS 'BREAK'

Famous escape artist Roosevelt Leaks, who eluded manhunts all year as the fullback for the University of Texas, wore an Alcatraz T-shirt and a look of determination yesterday as he exercised his way back into shape on a stationary bicycle in Austin, Tex. He hopes to recover from an injured knee in time to make a breakaway run or two in the Cotton Bowl against Nebraska on New Year's Day.

FINLEY NEVER QUITS

A Phone Call To Sparky

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Charlie Finley never quits.

Acutely aware that no power on earth can force Dick Williams to come back and manage for him regardless of how Joe Cronin or anyone else rules, Finley figures it wouldn't be a bad idea at all to have someone in reserve.

So, playing strictly by the rules, Charlie picked up the phone one day not long ago, got in touch with Cincinnati boss Bob Howsam and asked his permission to talk to Sparky Anderson about the Oakland job.

Bob Howsam has a rare employer-employee relationship with Sparky Anderson. He was pretty sure what Anderson's answer would be so he told Finley to go ahead and call him.

Finley did, and when he reached Anderson, he didn't beat around the bush. How would he like to manage the world champion Oakland Athletics?

Always the gentleman, Sparky Anderson expressed his appreciation for the call and then told Charlie Finley thanks, but no thanks. . .

The Yankees' first offer was $100,000 a year for three years along with the condition Williams would have to pay any legal expense possibly incurred by signing the contract, meaning whatever it might cost him to defend against a suit by Finley.

Williams, however, said he'd prefer $90,000 a year for three years and having the Yankees take care of any legal expense which might arise. The Yankees thought that one over awhile and finally said okay. . .

BEAR BRYANT, rounding out 30 years as a head coach, with more than half of them at Alabama, says his biggest kick coaching didn't come from any one particular victory but from a letter he received from one of his former players.

"The boy's name was Bob Gain, and maybe you remember him. He was a great tackle for the Cleveland Browns," says Bryant. "Anyway, he was over in Korea fighting when he wrote me this letter, and in it, he said, 'I used to hate your guts when I played football for you, but tonight I love you for the very things I used to hate you for.' " . . .

THE FIRST THING most coaches tell their quarterbacks when they go against the Dallas Cowboys is stay away from Mel Renfro and work the other corner. I'm curious to see whether unbridled Fran Tarkenton follows that line of least resistance when the Minnesota Vikings meet the Cowboys in Dallas Sunday. . .

REMEMBER WHEN kids used to idolize their sports heroes? Times change. Walt Frazier of the Knicks can't keep the license tags on his Rolls-Royce because the kids steal them, and some others made off with Muhammad Ali's hubcaps. The kids went all the way with Charlie Finley though. They copped license plates, hubcaps, and his entire car.

Miami Coach Looks To 'Butch Cassidy'

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins' injury situation is looking better and, with "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" showing new life, Coach Don Shula is hopeful of a strong offensive showing against Oakland Sunday.

The "Sundance" half of the Miami running tandem — fullback Larry Csonka — has been going strong all season. But Jim "Butch Cassidy" Kiick had taken a back seat to Mercury Morris until the last two games.

Despite the sensational play of Morris, Kiick feels he will get more playing time after his performance against Detroit in the regular season finale and against Cincinnati in last Sunday's playoff game.

Kiick rushed for 51 yards and caught three passes in last week's victory, which moved the Dolphins into Sunday's American Football Conference championship game.

"It felt good to be in there," said Kiick. "I'd been losing a little confidence. I feel I get stronger the more I run."

Csonka has been working on his timing on delayed draw plays this week.

"My problem is I have no patience," said the big fullback. "On that play, I'm supposed to hesitate, wait for a block and come inside on a delay. But I can't wait. I get edgy just standing there."

A hard practice was scheduled today and, by the time the Raiders arrive here Friday, Shula should have a pretty good picture of just which of his bruised veterans will be playing Sunday.

Also listed as possible starters are tight end Marv Fleming, recovering from a badly bruised thigh, and cornerback Tim Foley, who has been out since Thanksgiving with a shoulder separation.

Louisiana State Team Arrives In Miami

MIAMI (UPI) — Louisiana State arrived here last night — a day after Penn State — and today will begin serious preparations for the Orange Bowl game New Year's night.

McClendon was told Paterno has promised "a fun trip with few rules."

"That won't be the case with us," McClendon said. "We're going to work hard, real hard to win this game. We'll have fun after the game."

Power On Both Sides

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There will be a lot of driving power on both sides Saturday in the annual East-West Shrine football Classic at Candlestick Park.

For the East, it will be 6-2, 238-pound Barty Smith of Richmond and 6-1, 212 pound Charles Young of North Carolina State at running back with 6-2, 210-pound Mark Van Eeghen of Colgate in reserve.

For the West, it will be 5-11, 200-pound Charles Davis of Colorado and 6-1, 202-pound James McAlister of UCLA with 6-0, 195-pound Ken Grandberry of Washington State in reserve.

Both head coaches — Paul Dietzel for the East and Jim Sweeney for the West — named their starting lineups Wednesday with the exception of quarterback.

Dietzel will pick from Gary Marangi of Boston College and Norris Weese of Mississippi while Sweeney will pick from All America David Jaynes of Kansas and Mike Boryla of Stanford. Sweeney also has Danny White of Arizona State, who will handle the kicking chores and see some action at quarterback.

The teams practiced in the rain yesterday but thanks to the synthetic turf, no mud.

Practice sessions are on tap both today and tomorrow with kickoff set for 1 p.m. Saturday.

There was the usual gang of pro scouts in the stands at Candlestick Park yesterday with most of them watching little Rod Garcia of Stanford. Garcia is the man who booted the winning field goal in the final minute of play in Stanford's 1972 Rose Bowl victory over Michigan.

Garcia has been kicking the ball 60 yards off the ground and 70 yards off the tee in practice for the East-West game. The colleges permit tees but the pros don't. Garcia has been kicking off the ground mostly for the benefit of the pro scouts.

The starting lineups:

EAST DEFENSE: Ends — Dave Gallagher, Michigan and Edward Jones, Tennessee State; tackles — James McCollum, Kentucky, and Carl Barziliauskas, Indiana; linebackers — Mark Gefert, Purdue, Waymond Bryant, Tennessee State (middle), and Octavus Morgan, Illinois; cornerbacks — Terry Schmidt, Ball State, and Bill Simpson, Michigan State; Safeties — Carl Capria, Purdue, and Paul Hayner, Michigan State.

A Fine Film About Football

Chet Patterson of Greenbrae and Tom Hall, a Marin County native now living in San Francisco, partners in Patterson and Hall Graphics in S.F., have come up with a wonderful television film on three stars of the National Football League.

The film was produced and directed by Mike Cerre, 26-year-old member of the P & H staff, and zeros in on John Brodie, now retired quarterback of the 49ers; Franco Harris, Pittsburgh Steeler running back, and Nick Buoniconti, Miami Dolphin middle linebacker.

MIKE CERRE

The half-hour film is scheduled to be shown at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 8 on KRON, Channel 4, and also at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 11 on Sacramento's KCRA, Channel 3. I was able to see a sneak preview of it the other day in one of the Patterson and Hall studios.

I was quite impressed with the film which was titled, "A Closer Look at Football." That's just what it is. Cerre and the camera crew wanted to go deeper into what pro football is to a player. They wanted to let these three members of the NFL tell their reasons for playing the game, what it was like to them.

The film was purchased from Patterson and Hall by the Ford Motor Company which is getting involved in the sport through its Punt, Pass and Kick program for youngsters. Where I saw blank frames during my private screening, you'll be getting messages from the Ford people.

IT HAS ALREADY been shown at some eastern parts of the U.S., and according to Patterson, has drawn quite a few compliments. I believe him. Some of the effects captured by Cerre were outstanding. Although the films were supplied by NFL Films, Cerre put in all the musical background and edited the thing around interview films of the three NFL stars.

The interview shots were purposely taken away from the field, away from all the shoulder pads and helmets. The Brodie interview was done in his Los Altos home, Harris' was shot while he was strolling along the banks of one of the rivers near Three Rivers Stadium, and Buoniconti's appearance in front of the camera was after a practice session, in the Dolphins' dressing room.

WHILE THEY WERE TALKING, the film would switch to actual combat on the football field. There was the crunch of bodies and the background music, cellos and flutes. The speed of action was cut down and football was made to look like a graceful ballet, Harris dancing past the grasping hands of would-be enemy tacklers, Brodie throwing touchdown passes to his receivers.

The film makers needed some good sound of bodies smacking into each other, pads hitting pads and players grunting out their physical exertion. For that they got some help from seniors at Berkeley High to provide the sound effects. They edited it into the NFL Films and it makes quite a finished product.

CERRE DIDN'T HAVE the expensive equipment of a Darryl F. Zanuck so he had to improvise at times. To get shots of Harris walking toward the camera while he was talking, the cameraman was on the back end of a Volkswagen, the vehicle going very slowly, all air out of the tires. "We found this made the ride very smooth, with no bounce to the cameras," said Cerre.

If the television response to the Patterson and Hall initial try at sports filming is favorable, they might try doing the same type film with pro hockey, and maybe the Kentucky Derby.

Wet, Muddy Practices For Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) — Practicing in the rain and mud isn't exactly the way to get ready to play football on a synthetic turf but that's what the Oakland Raiders are contending themselves with today, and they aren't all that worried about it.

The Raiders, who meet the Miami Dolphins in the Orange Bowl on Sunday for the AFC title and the Super Bowl berth that goes with it, sloshed through the mud and rain during a long workout yesterday and the prospects are for more of the same today.

"All we're concerned with is getting in the necessary work to stay sharp," said Raiders' Coach John Madden. "Sure, it would be better if we practiced on solid ground, but really it's not all that bad."

What has the Raiders a bit miffed, though, is a prediction by Miami All Pro offensive guard Larry Little that this time "it will be different."

Little, in the form of a guarantee which appeared in the Miami News the other day, was referring to the first meeting between the Dolphins and Raiders—in an early season game which the Raiders won 12-7 to end Miami's 16- game regular season winning streak carrying back through last year.

"The only guarantees I can get are on refrigerators," growled Gene Upshaw, "and sometimes they break down."

The Dolphins saw their streak snapped while playing the Raiders in nearby Berkeley. At home they have won 24 in a row, which is probably why Little is making "guarantees."

"We'd like to play here in Oakland but I feel we can play any team in any place if we keep producing the type of ball we have the last five weeks," said linebacker Gerald Irons.

"We know there'll be 80,000 people screaming for the Dolphins and signs everywhere down there. We know that going in and it's not going to beat us. It'll take more than that."

Warriors Trying To Stop Skid

OAKLAND (UPI) — Ordinarily, a six-game losing streak could be disastrous in the National Basketball Association.

But in the not-so-strong Pacific Division, where there hasn't been a take-charge team thus far, dropping six in a row, as the Warriors have done, hasn't hurt all that much.

So tonight, when the Warriors host the Portland Trail Blazers in the Oakland arena, they have a chance to climb to within a half-game of the equally stumbling Los Angeles Lakers, who lead the division.

That may be easier said than done the way the Warriors have been playing the last two weeks. Their tumble from the top began against the same Trail Blazers exactly two weeks ago. In that one, the Warriors raced off to a 17-point first quarter lead and then fell from grace, losing the lead and the ball game.

"It's a good time to come out of it," said center Nate Thurmond, who recalls a 17- game losing streak nine years ago. "What we have to do is go out and play, and when everyone comes back to the locker room he has to be able to say I did the best I could. If we each go out and do that, we'll start winning again."

After the Trail Blazers the Warriors have games with the Lakers and Sonics. A three-game winning streak now could turn the division around in a hurry. The Sonics defeated the Lakers Wednesday night, 129-105, as Los Angeles played without Jerry West.

NBA ROUNDUP

Big, Little Men Pace Victories

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The long and the short of it had the best of it in the National Basketball Association last night.

Seven-foot-two Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 38 points to lead the Milwaukee Bucks over the Cleveland Cavaliers 123-110 while 5-foot-9 Calvin Murphy tallied 33 points to help the Houston Rockets beat the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 110-95.

Milwaukee's win was the 300th career coaching victory for Larry Costello and it was also the 300th victory of the Bucks franchise.

Milwaukee led only 58-55 at the half, but Bob Dandridge scored 11 third quarter points to give the Bucks a 94-83 lead going into the final period. The Cavaliers trailed by 102-94 with eight minutes left before Abdul-Jabbar scored six quick points and Cleveland only got one basket as the Bucks opened a 108-96 advantage.

Houston's victory snapped its eight game losing streak and was only the Rockets' fifth home court win of the year. Murphy hit a free throw to break an 8-8 tie with 8:15 to play in the first period and the Rockets led the rest of the game. He hit 14 of his points in the third period and also handed out 10 assists.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Atlanta overwhelmed Philadelphia 145-118, Boston edged Buffalo 125-123, New York topped Detroit 96-91, Capital edged Chicago 82-81 and Seattle romped over Los Angeles 129-105.

Atlanta got 35 points from Lou Hudson and 30 from Pete Maravich in its rout of Philadelphia.

Jo Jo White's 20-foot jumper with two seconds left to play boosted Boston to its comeback victory over Buffalo and gave the Celtics their 21st triumph in as many games against the Braves over a four year period. A desperation shot from the right corner by Buffalo's Garfield Heard, who had a career high 36 points and grabbed 17 rebounds, bounced off the rim at the final buzzer. John Havlicek paced Boston with 27 points while Bob McAdoo had 27 for the Braves and became the first player in the NBA this season to reach the 1,000 point plateau.

Dave DeBusschere and Walt Frazier combined to score 45 points, including 10 of New York's 12 points in the final six minutes, to lead the Knicks past Detroit.

straight and seventh of the last 10 games, came from nine points behind in the final quarter on the scoring of Mike Riordan and Elvin Hayes to beat Chicago. Riordan, held scoreless in the first half, threw in 22 points in the final two quarters including 12 in the final period. He scored 10 straight points midway through the final period to bring the Bullets to within three points, 73-70.

Center Jim Fox hauled down a team record 30 rebounds and tallied 25 points to lead Seattle over Los Angeles. Fox hit on 11 of 14 from the field, had nine assists and also blocked three shots.

Connors, Evert Reach 3rd Round

Combined AP & UPI

MELBOURNE, Australia — Jimmy Connors and his fiance, Chris Evert, advanced to the third round and two seeded players were eliminated in the second day's play of the $75,000 Australian Tennis Championships yesterday.

West German Karl Meiler, the No. 5 seed, was beaten by Czech Vladimir Zednik, 6-7, 7-5, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1. The other seeded casualty was the American Bonne Bell Cup squad player and seventh seed here, Pam Teeguarden, who was defeated by Australian Karen Krantzcke, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Chris Evert beat Hungarian Katerleen Szman, 6-0, 6-0. Connors beat Sydney player Graham Thomson, 6-4, 6-2, 7-6, in a handy workout on an outside court.

More Tennis

NEW YORK — Tom Gorman and Erik Van Dillen, members of the 1973 Davis Cup Challenge Round team, were named to the initial 1974 squad yesterday, but the nation's two top tennis players, Stan Smith and Jimmy Connors, were notably absent from the list compiled by team captain Dennis Ralston.

Ralston, non-playing captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team for the third straight year, also named Charles Pasarell, Harold Solomon and Roscoe Tanner to the squad yesterday.

Smith was not on last year's initial roster, either, but joined the team for later rounds. Connors was invited this year, but declined. They are co-ranked No. 1 by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

Baseball

CHICAGO — Veteran pitcher Milt Pappas yesterday signed his 1974 contract. Pappas, 34, will begin his 19th major league season, seeking to join Jim Bunning as the only modern day pitchers to win 100 games in each league. He has 99 National League victories and 110 in the American League.

Basketball

NEW YORK — New York Knicks' backcourt star Earl Monroe, apparently still suffering the after-effects of bone spur surgery, will not play again until at least Jan. 1, the National Basketball Association club revealed yesterday.

PORTLAND, Ore. — Guard Bob Verga, a five-year veteran of the American Basketball Association, has been signed by the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association.

Hockey

PHOENIX — Boris Mikhailov and Vladimir Shadrin scored power play goals in the third period to give the Russian national team a 3-1 victory over defending Western Hockey League champion Phoenix last night.

BOSTON — The New England Whalers have called up defenseman Ric Jordan from the Jacksonville Barons of the American Hockey League to replace injured Rick Ley.

Toronto Clobbers Montreal

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Toronto Maple Leafs spread around the goals last night while the Montreal Canadiens spread around the blame.

The Maple Leafs soundly snapped the Canadiens' 10-game unbeaten streak with eight different Toronto players scoring in the 9-2 rout of Montreal.

"Our letdown all came in the same game I guess," said Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman. "Everything they touched just went in. In the last period our guys didn't even want to play."

Goalie Michel Plasse, the victim of Toronto's nine goals, said he couldn't put all the blame for the Canadiens' performance on his defensemen.

"Our forwards never came back to check," said Plasse, who suffered his first loss of the season in his seventh game. "Every time I looked up the Leafs had three-on-one or three-on-two breakaways.

"This wasn't my worst game, however. On the same night six years ago I was playing for Jacksonville of the Eastern Hockey League and Greensboro beat us 13-2."

"It was a super team effort," said Lanny McDonald, the only Toronto player to score two goals in the Leafs' rout. "All the guys were working hard and it's not hard to win that way."

Forwards Paul Henderson, Dave Keon, Inge Hammarstrom, Rick Kehoe and Darryl Sittler also scored for Toronto as did defensemen Bob Neely and Jim McKenney. The Leafs got two big breaks when the goals credited to Sittler and Henderson went into the net off Montreal defensemen.

Montreal's goals were scored by Murray Wilson and Yvan Cournoyer, who registered his 20th tally of the season.

In other National Hockey League games, the New York Rangers edged Philadelphia 2-1 on power play goals by Ted Irvine and Rod Gilbert, Minnesota nipped the New York Islanders 1-0 behind Lou Nanne's goal and the shutout netminding of Cesare Maniago, Vancouver got by California 6-4, Los Angeles tied Chicago 3-3 and Pittsburgh tied Detroit 2-2.

Ohio State Fans Flying To Coast

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — More than half of some 3,000 Rose Bowl-bound Ohio State fans departed Port Columbus International Airport yesterday for the West Coast and the long-awaited game against Southern California Jan. 1.

The rest of 17 chartered flights were scheduled to leave Columbus today, tomorrow and Saturday, airport officials said.

Airport superintendent Dan Ginty said there were 24 Rose Bowl charters out of Columbus last year, but the number of airline seats open to fans this year has been limited by fuel cutbacks and flight schedule reductions because of the energy crisis.

Convincing Win For USC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Yes sir, there is another college basketball team in Los Angeles besides UCLA.

The team, of course, is Southern California, which showed how much muscle it really has in a convincing 98-76 victory over Southwestern Texas last night in the opening round of the All-College Tournament at Okalhoma City.

The victory was the Trojans' seventh in eight starts and it was achieved with the kind of consistency good teams have. USC hit on 57 per cent of its shots from the floor, dropping 46 of 79.

California, another team playing far away from home, fought for its life before pulling out a 64-63 victory over Pennsylvania in the opening round of the Quaker City tourney in Philadelphia.

Carl Meier converted a free throw with two seconds left to pull it out for the Golden Bears, now 4-4 on the year. Cal seems to thrive on tournaments. Earlier this month, the Bears lost by only two points to West Virginia in the Mountaineer Classic, then bounced back to beat Seton Hall for the consolation prize.

They played the first round of the Far West Classic at Portland last night and Oregon State and Indiana were winners. The Beavers whipped Army, 82-52, while the Hoosiers routed Brigham Young, 96-52. Paul Miller had 21 points, 19 of them in the second half, to pace Oregon State's victory.

In the opening round of the Rainbow Classic at Honolulu, Hawaii ran down Santa Clara, 91-81. In an earlier game, St. Joseph's (Pa.) defeated Washington State, 72-65. The winners meet in Friday's semi-final.

While the Pac 8 schools are trying to gain glory on the road, UCLA sits resting at home for the start of its own tourney Friday. It's the Bruin Classic, appropriately enough, with UCLA in with San Francisco, Michigan and Wyoming.

Action continues tonight in the Far West and Rainbow Classics, the Quaker City and All College tourneys, Stanford plays in the Holiday Festival at New York.

Whalers In Narrow Win Over Aeros

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

As befitting a meeting between two division leaders, it took an overtime period to separate New England and Houston last night.

Brad Selwood's sixth goal of the season after 2:23 of the extra session gave the Whalers a 3-2 victory over the Aeros, boosting New England's first place lead in the East Division of the World Hockey Association to six points over Toronto. Houston remained tied with Edmonton for first place in the West.

The Aeros raced off to a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Larry Lund and Andre Hinse, but New England drew even on a goal by Bob Williams in the second period and another by Tim Sheehy early in the final period.

In the only other WHA action, the Winnipeg Jets beat the Chicago Cougars 4-2 and the Vancouver Blazers beat the Cleveland Crusaders 5-3.

Carolina Regains ABA Division Lead

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Carolina Cougars, counted out when Billy Cunningham checked into a hospital for kidney surgery two weeks ago, are laying down for no one. And now they're on top in the ABA East again.

"We needed this one," said Carolina's Ted McClain after he contributed 19 points and an ABA record 12 steals to the Cougars' 105-95 victory over the New York Nets last night.

"We want the league to know we're no pushovers without Billy Cunningham," McClain said. "Look at Supersub (Ed Manning). Off the bench with 18 points. He really made up for Billy's absence."

Cunningham, who underwent successful surgery to remove a kidney blockage, is expected to be sidelined until March 1. The Cougars began to slide as soon as last year's league MVP went out, losing three of four games and dropping behind the streaking Nets.

Certainly, without their best player the Cougars must be considered underdogs in the division race but if they can continue to play opportunistic basketball as they did against New York, they may just be able to hang together until Cunningham returns.

McClain seemed to be everywhere against the Nets, making his own opportunities.

"It was just one of those things," said the 6-1 third-year man out of Tennessee State. "I happened to be in the right place all night."

In other ABA action, Kentucky routed Indiana 106-78, Virginia beat Denver 118-113, Memphis edged San Antonio 96-95 and Utah defeated San Diego 102-98.

Number Of Bears Killed On Increase

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The number of bears killed by California hunters this year should be greater than a year ago, state Department of Fish and Game officials reported today.

The bear season closes Tuesday.

The bear kill through Dec. 10 was 685 compared to 558 on the same date a year ago. Through November of this year, 19,456 tags had been sold, compared to 15,283 issued in 1972.

Confident Vikings Get Ready

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — "We would be ready," said Minnesota Vikings' quarterback Fran Tarkenton, "even if the game was played on asphalt."

Exuding that kind of confidence, the Vikings set practice sessions here today and Friday prior to heading for Dallas and the National Football Conference championship game with the Cowboys.

Tarkenton was asked before the Vikings left Minnesota how he feels about meeting the Cowboys on the artificial turf at Texas Stadium. The Vikings have not played as much on the fake grass as Dallas and some other teams.

"It won't affect our game against the Cowboys," Tarkenton said. "Sure it's their home field but we'll be ready. To me their artificial turf is like the energy crisis. It's here, it's with us, and it's just something we'll have to contend with."

Skelly Field at Tulsa University, where the Vikings practice here, has Tartan Turf the same as Texas Stadium, where Sunday's winner will gain a berth in the Super Bowl.

Big, Little Men Pace Victories

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The long and the short of it had the best of it in the National Basketball Association last night.

Seven-foot-two Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 38 points to lead the Milwaukee Bucks over the Cleveland Cavaliers 123-110 while 5-foot-9 Calvin Murphy tallied 33 points to help the Houston Rockets beat the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 110-95.

Milwaukee's win was the 300th career coaching victory for Larry Costello and it was also the 300th victory of the Bucks franchise.

Milwaukee led only 58-55 at the half, but Bob Dandridge scored 11 third quarter points to give the Bucks a 94-83 lead going into the final period. The Cavaliers trailed by 102-94 with eight minutes left before Abdul-Jabbar scored six quick points and Cleveland only got one basket as the Bucks opened a 108-96 advantage.

Houston's victory snapped its eight game losing streak and was only the Rockets' fifth home court win of the year. Murphy hit a free throw to break an 8-8 tie with 8:15 to play in the first period and the Rockets led the rest of the game. He hit 14 of his points in the third period and also handed out 10 assists.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Atlanta overwhelmed Philadelphia 145-118, Boston edged Buffalo 125-123, New York topped Detroit 96-91, Capital edged Chicago 82-81 and Seattle romped over Los Angeles 129-105.

Atlanta got 35 points from Lou Hudson and 30 from Pete Maravich in its rout of Philadelphia.

Jo Jo White's 20-foot jumper with two seconds left to play boosted Boston to its comeback victory over Buffalo and gave the Celtics their 21st triumph in as many games against the Braves over a four year period. A desperation shot from the right corner by Buffalo's Garfield Heard, who had a career high 36 points and grabbed 17 rebounds, bounced off the rim at the final buzzer. John Havlicek paced Boston with 27 points while Bob McAdoo had 27 for the Braves and became the first player in the NBA this season to reach the 1,000 point plateau.

Dave DeBusschere and Walt Frazier combined to score 45 points, including 10 of New York's 12 points in the final six minutes, to lead the Knicks past Detroit.

straight and seventh of the last 10 games, came from nine points behind in the final quarter on the scoring of Mike Riordan and Elvin Hayes to beat Chicago. Riordan, held scoreless in the first half, threw in 22 points in the final two quarters including 12 in the final period. He scored 10 straight points midway through the final period to bring the Bullets to within three points, 73-70.

Center Jim Fox hauled down a team record 30 rebounds and tallied 25 points to lead Seattle over Los Angeles. Fox hit on 11 of 14 from the field, had nine assists and also blocked three shots.

MELBOURNE, Australia — Jimmy Connors and his fiance, Chris Evert, advanced to the third round and two seeded players were eliminated in the second day's play of the $75,000 Australian Tennis Championships yesterday.

West German Karl Meiler, the No. 5 seed, was beaten by Czech Vladimir Zednik, 6-7, 7-5, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1. The other seeded casualty was the American Bonne Bell Cup squad player and seventh seed here, Pam Teeguarden, who was defeated by Australian Karen Krantzcke, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Chris Evert beat Hungarian Katerleen Szman, 6-0, 6-0. Connors beat Sydney player Graham Thomson, 6-4, 6-2, 7-6, in a handy workout on an outside court.

More Tennis

NEW YORK — Tom Gorman and Erik Van Dillen, members of the 1973 Davis Cup Challenge Round team, were named to the initial 1974 squad yesterday, but the nation's two top tennis players, Stan Smith and Jimmy Connors, were notably absent from the list compiled by team captain Dennis Ralston.

Ralston, non-playing captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team for the third straight year, also named Charles Pasarell, Harold Solomon and Roscoe Tanner to the squad yesterday.

Smith was not on last year's initial roster, either, but joined the team for later rounds. Connors was invited this year, but declined. They are co-ranked No. 1 by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

Baseball

CHICAGO — Veteran pitcher Milt Pappas yesterday signed his 1974 contract. Pappas, 34, will begin his 19th major league season, seeking to join Jim Bunning as the only modern day pitchers to win 100 games in each league. He has 99 National League victories and 110 in the American League.

Basketball

NEW YORK — New York Knicks' backcourt star Earl Monroe, apparently still suffering the after-effects of bone spur surgery, will not play again until at least Jan. 1, the National Basketball Association club revealed yesterday.

PORTLAND, Ore. — Guard Bob Verga, a five-year veteran of the American Basketball Association, has been signed by the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association.

Hockey

PHOENIX — Boris Mikhailov and Vladimir Shadrin scored power play goals in the third period to give the Russian national team a 3-1 victory over defending Western Hockey League champion Phoenix last night.

BOSTON — The New England Whalers have called up defenseman Ric Jordan from the Jacksonville Barons of the American Hockey League to replace injured Rick Ley.

Soccer

BOSTON — John C. Sterge, a Boston oil company president, has been awarded a franchise in the North American Soccer League.

Ohio State Fans Flying To Coast

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — More than half of some 3,000 Rose Bowl-bound Ohio State fans departed Port Columbus International Airport yesterday for the West Coast and the long-awaited game against Southern California Jan. 1.

The rest of 17 chartered flights were scheduled to leave Columbus today, tomorrow and Saturday, airport officials said.

Airport superintendent Dan Ginty said there were 24 Rose Bowl charters out of Columbus last year, but the number of airline seats open to fans this year has been limited by fuel cutbacks and flight schedule reductions because of the energy crisis.

Run Of The Grain

By LEE TREVINO

When you're putting, you'll flirt with the hole more if you know which way the grain of the grass runs. The sun can help you get a line on it.

It's against the rules to check the grain by dragging your club or hand across the green. Some sharpies are pretty slick about this.

On Bermuda greens the grain lies toward the setting sun almost every time. If you don't know which way is west, you're in big trouble.

When a putt rolls to the west on Bermuda grass, it takes a careful touch. That baby will take off on you. The grain naturally affects the way a putt breaks, too.

On bent greens, which are nearly everywhere except the southeast, take a good look as you walk up to putt. Bent greens grow in the direction of the water drainage, and that depends on the slope of the putting surface. So check the general terrain.

The color of the grass indicates where water gathers. If it's greener, that tells you it's the low side of the green. That's the direction the grain runs.

CAGE PROSPECTS

Small Terra Linda 'A Scrappy Team'

By LEW CODDINGTON

(First in a series on Marin County Athletic League basketball prospects.)

If sheer force of will is an important factor, then Terra Linda High School is likely to have a successful basketball season, despite its lack of experience or height.

"We're a scrappy team, and we never give up," says coach Fred Arnold. "We've been down in a lot of games — and I mean way down in a hole, 10 or 12 points in the second half — and we've come back. Just when others think they've got us, we come back strong."

One thing the Trojans should know how to do by now is cope with pressure. Of their first nine games (they are 4-5), seven were decided by five points or less. They won three, lost four.

The one which moved Arnold to superlatives was the 62-60 victory over Concord last Friday in which Terra Linda rallied from 12 points back in the final four minutes.

Arnold, a former College of Marin star, is the only first-year coach in the Marin County Athletic League this season.

His team is equally inexperienced. No starters return from last year's aggregation, which went 11-17 overall and tied for last in the MCAL at 5-9, despite a season-opening upset of eventual champion Drake.

Gone from that team are 6-foot-4 forward Mark Lowey, who led the league in scoring with a 20.3 average, forward Scott Logan and guard Nick Mattos, among others.

In fact, only guard Lindsey Ferguson, guard Rob Buckley and center Brian Morey are back from that team. The other members of the 16-man roster are new, largely up from the outstanding junior varsity team of last year.

The Trojans play a three-guard offense and just try not to worry about their lack of height. Their leading scorer so far is Doug Carlisle, a 6-foot-2 junior guard. Jim Cronin (6-2) and Matt Flynn (5-10) are also junior guards who have shown the scoring touch on occasion.

A little more height can be added with 6-3 forward senior Buck McCusker, 6-3 junior forward Dan Kiernan, or 6-4 junior center Jeff Brusati, but only the 6-6 Morey can look some of the league's bigger players in the eye.

Though they're one of the league's smaller teams, they're probably also the only one to start off a game (Concord) with a technical foul for stuffing during practice. Arnold hopes they'll do a few other improbable things, too — such as ignoring their lack of height or experience and winning basketball games.

Terra Linda's remaining schedule:

Reinstate Cook, Coaches Tell Nevada Board

RENO, Nevada (UPI) — Coaches at Tahoe-Truckee High School have demanded the reinstatement of wrestling coach Wayne Cook, suspended after seven student wrestlers visited a Nevada house of prostitution.

Cook said the district board of education meets Jan. 9 to take final action on the case.

School principal Robert Doyle suspended Cook and the students. However, Doyle said later that Cook didn't know that the team members made the unauthorized stop at the brothel.

The team was returning from a meet and one car stopped at the house, about 30 miles east of Reno.

Varsity Cagers Defeat Alumni

Drake's varsity triumphed, 63-49, as Eddie Joe Chavez scored 18 points and Steve Harnsberger 10. Marin Catholic's varsity won, 82-50, behind 14 points by Len Kristensen and Gary Johnson, 13 by Mike Mahoney and 10 by Terry Ahern.

Some other members of Drake's varsity won a preliminary game, 67-55, with Harnsberger, who played in both games, scoring 16.

A Lucky Seven For Giants' Tittle

Confidence Open Golf In Monterey

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI) — For more than a dozen PGA tour regulars the 1974 season starts today in the 72-hole $50,000 Confidence Open.

Topped by U.S. Open champ John Miller and former Open champ Orville Moody, 60 pros playing with 180 amateurs begin play over two local courses—the par 71 Laguna Seca and the par 72 Corral de Tierra layouts—only a few miles down the road from Pebble Beach, site next week of the $215,000 Crosby National Pro-Am.

The Confidence Open field includes besides Miller and Moody such tour regulars as Forrest Fezler, Jerry Heard, Rod Funseth, Buddy Allin, Rod Curl and Dick Lotz. The winner gets $10,000.

The amateurs will play in teams of three with each group having a different pro partner each day.

Miller got off poorly last year but by mid-summer was at the top of his game and came from nowhere in the final round to win the Open title.

"I don't want a start like last year's," said Miller, while tuning up for the Confidence. "Most of the these courses down here are alike. That's why I want to play this week. Heck, last year I didn't even make the cut in the Crosby."

"I want to start out right and go down the street with $10,000 in my pocket," said Moody, who staged a comeback of sorts in 1973 when he placed 36th on the money list with $74,286.

Miller was ninth in money with $127,833, while Fezler was 13th, Heard 20th, Funseth 29th, Wiechers 32nd and Allin 33rd.

This will result in the creation of a $20,000 Len Dawson college scholarship fund in the Kansas City area. In addition, $1,000 college scholarships will be established in the names of the top votegetters from each of the other 25 NFL teams.

Run Of The Grain

By LEE TREVINO

When you're putting, you'll flirt with the hole more if you know which way the grain of the grass runs. The sun can help you get a line on it.

It's against the rules to check the grain by dragging your club or hand across the green. Some sharpies are pretty slick about this.

On Bermuda greens the grain lies toward the setting sun almost every time. If you don't know which way is west, you're in big trouble.

When a putt rolls to the west on Bermuda grass, it takes a careful touch. That baby will take off on you. The grain naturally affects the way a putt breaks, too.

On bent greens, which are nearly everywhere except the southeast, take a good look as you walk up to putt. Bent greens grow in the direction of the water drainage, and that depends on the slope of the putting surface. So check the general terrain.

The color of the grass indicates where water gathers. If it's greener, that tells you it's the low side of the green. That's the direction the grain runs.

Confidence Open Golf In Monterey

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI) — For more than a dozen PGA tour regulars the 1974 season starts today in the 72-hole $50,000 Confidence Open.

Topped by U.S. Open champ John Miller and former Open champ Orville Moody, 60 pros playing with 180 amateurs begin play over two local courses—the par 71 Laguna Seca and the par 72 Corral de Tierra layouts—only a few miles down the road from Pebble Beach, site next week of the $215,000 Crosby National Pro-Am.

The Confidence Open field includes besides Miller and Moody such tour regulars as Forrest Fezler, Jerry Heard, Rod Funseth, Buddy Allin, Rod Curl and Dick Lotz. The winner gets $10,000.

The amateurs will play in teams of three with each group having a different pro partner each day.

Miller got off poorly last year but by mid-summer was at the top of his game and came from nowhere in the final round to win the Open title.

"I don't want a start like last year's," said Miller, while tuning up for the Confidence. "Most of the these courses down here are alike. That's why I want to play this week. Heck, last year I didn't even make the cut in the Crosby."

"I want to start out right and go down the street with $10,000 in my pocket," said Moody, who staged a comeback of sorts in 1973 when he placed 36th on the money list with $74,286.

Miller was ninth in money with $127,833, while Fezler was 13th, Heard 20th, Funseth 29th, Wiechers 32nd and Allin 33rd.

POLL OF FANS

NFL's Man Of Year: Dawson

CANTON, Ohio (UPI) — Kansas City Chiefs' veteran quarterback Len Dawson, the top career passer in history based on the new passing rating system, was voted yesterday the 1973 NFL Man of the Year Award by a nationwide poll of fans.

Dawson, chosen in the voting coordinated by the Pro Football Hall of Fame, was honored for his civic contributions as well as his athletic ability. He will receive a bronze gladiator trophy and will be formally honored Sunday at ceremonies at the AFC championship game in Miami.

This will result in the creation of a $20,000 Len Dawson college scholarship fund in the Kansas City area. In addition, $1,000 college scholarships will be established in the names of the top votegetters from each of the other 25 NFL teams.

CAGE PROSPECTS

Small Terra Linda 'A Scrappy Team'

By LEW CODDINGTON

(First in a series on Marin County Athletic League basketball prospects.)

If sheer force of will is an important factor, then Terra Linda High School is likely to have a successful basketball season, despite its lack of experience or height.

"We're a scrappy team, and we never give up," says coach Fred Arnold. "We've been down in a lot of games — and I mean way down in a hole, 10 or 12 points in the second half — and we've come back. Just when others think they've got us, we come back strong."

One thing the Trojans should know how to do by now is cope with pressure. Of their first nine games (they are 4-5), seven were decided by five points or less. They won three, lost four.

The one which moved Arnold to superlatives was the 62-60 victory over Concord last Friday in which Terra Linda rallied from 12 points back in the final four minutes.

Arnold, a former College of Marin star, is the only first-year coach in the Marin County Athletic League this season.

His team is equally inexperienced. No starters return from last year's aggregation, which went 11-17 overall and tied for last in the MCAL at 5-9, despite a season-opening upset of eventual champion Drake.

Gone from that team are 6-foot-4 forward Mark Lowey, who led the league in scoring with a 20.3 average, forward Scott Logan and guard Nick Mattos, among others.

In fact, only guard Lindsey Ferguson, guard Rob Buckley and center Brian Morey are back from that team. The other members of the 16-man roster are new, largely up from the outstanding junior varsity team of last year.

The Trojans play a three-guard offense and just try not to worry about their lack of height. Their leading scorer so far is Doug Carlisle, a 6-foot-2 junior guard. Jim Cronin (6-2) and Matt Flynn (5-10) are also junior guards who have shown the scoring touch on occasion.

A little more height can be added with 6-3 forward senior Buck McCusker, 6-3 junior forward Dan Kiernan, or 6-4 junior center Jeff Brusati, but only the 6-6 Morey can look some of the league's bigger players in the eye.

Though they're one of the league's smaller teams, they're probably also the only one to start off a game (Concord) with a technical foul for stuffing during practice. Arnold hopes they'll do a few other improbable things, too — such as ignoring their lack of height or experience and winning basketball games.

Reinstate Cook, Coaches Tell Nevada Board

RENO, Nevada (UPI) — Coaches at Tahoe-Truckee High School have demanded the reinstatement of wrestling coach Wayne Cook, suspended after seven student wrestlers visited a Nevada house of prostitution.

Cook said the district board of education meets Jan. 9 to take final action on the case.

School principal Robert Doyle suspended Cook and the students. However, Doyle said later that Cook didn't know that the team members made the unauthorized stop at the brothel.

The team was returning from a meet and one car stopped at the house, about 30 miles east of Reno.

Varsity Cagers Defeat Alumni

Drake and Marin Catholic high schools welcomed their alumni back to campus last night with open arms — open enough to block shots, deflect passes and achieve basketball victories.

Drake's varsity triumphed, 63-49, as Eddie Joe Chavez scored 18 points and Steve Harnsberger 10. Marin Catholic's varsity won, 82-50, behind 14 points by Len Kristensen and Gary Johnson, 13 by Mike Mahoney and 10 by Terry Ahern.

Some other members of Drake's varsity won a preliminary game, 67-55, with Harnsberger, who played in both games, scoring 16.

A Lucky Seven For Giants' Tittle

NEW HOME FOR SMITTY

Welfare Benefits Switch To Have Minimum Effect

A nationwide switch in the administration of welfare benefits to blind, elderly and disabled persons will result in little or no inconvenience to local recipients, Marin officials have predicted.

The change comes next Tuesday when the federal Social Security Administration takes over responsibility for 2,100 such recipients in Marin and hundreds of thousands nationwide.

It's all part of HR-1, a federal welfare reform measure which seeks to consolidate federally-funded welfare programs under a single agency.

Currently, some 1,500 state and local agencies — like the Marin County Department of Public Social Services — handle the programs but will bow out New Year's Day.

For the 2,100 Marin residents involved, "the only difference will be that the checks will be yellow instead of green." according to Edwin H. Leuin, district manager of the Social Security Administration in San Rafael.

He said the county's 1,080 persons on old age security, 972 on aid to the totally disabled and 49 on aid to the blind, need not reapply with his agency to continue getting their monthly checks. All records have been shifted from the county to his agency.

After Jan. 1, however, persons seeking financial assistance from any of the three categories must apply directly with his office and not the county social services department.

Luein and county welfare chief Annie Jamison said no recipient on the program as of Dec. 31 will suffer a cut in aid as a result of the bureaucratic switch. Some may receive more, Miss Jamison said.

However, she cautioned, there may be some "slip ups" causing delays in receipt of checks or errors in the dollar amount.

She urged recipients who do not receive their January checks on Jan. 2 — the first work day of the month — to give the post office several days before notifying the San Rafael Social Security Office.

Leuin said several toll-free numbers have been set up to handle questions and complaints — from the Mill Valley, San Rafael and Novato areas the number is 479-5030; from the Belvedere, Tiburon, Sausalito and Marin City areas the number is 956-3000; and from West Marin, ask the operator for Enterprise 1-3455.

He said recipients who also are receiving regular Social Security checks will continue to receive those checks on the third of each month, as usual.

Con Man's Jewel Haul $60,000

PARIS (UPI) — The man who telephoned the Ritz, Paris' top hotel, was cultured and authoritative.

"I am the sales director of Aldebert jewelers," he said. "We want to change the pieces in our showcase in the hotel for the New Year. May I come by this afternoon?".

A well-dressed man in his 30s duly appeared, placed the jewels in a briefcase and replaced them with new ones.

Police said today the replacements were paste. The man's haul was estimated at $60,000.

South Fails To Accomplish What Is Expected With Trumps

The science of getting the most out of your trumps is an important branch of declarer's play. In some hands the defenders can show how much they know of this part of the game, especially if declarer has delusions of adequacy.

HOPELESS CONTRACT

West opened the king of spades, and South won with the ace. It was a hopeless contract, but South found an amusing way to lose the maximum.

Declarer led a diamond, and East took the ace. East returned a spade, and West cashed the queen and jack. Now West cashed the ace of clubs and led another club.

WINS IN DUMMY

Declarer won in dummy with the king of clubs and gratefully cashed the king of diamonds in order to get rid of his last spade. South had visions of getting out with a whole skin, since he had already taken three side tricks and hoped for five trump tricks.

LEADS DIAMOND

In an effort to get his own hand, declarer led a diamond from dummy and ruffed with the seven of hearts. West overruffed with the eight and returned a low club.

East ruffed with the nine, and South overruffed with the jack. Declarer next led the king of hearts to force out the ace. East returned the last space.

RUFFING ROUND

South ruffed with the five of hearts, and West overruffed with the six. Now West led his last club, and East ruffed with the ten. South had to overruff with the queen of hearts, and West took the last trick with the lowly four of hearts.

"I would have doubled," West announced, "if I had known that I was going to take three trump tricks."

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning star is Mercury. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

Louis Pasteur, noted French bacteriologist, was born Dec. 27, 1822.

On this day in history:

In 1963, the U.S. Commerce Department authorized the sale of surplus wheat to Russia.

In 1968, the Apollo 8 astronauts returned to Earth after orbiting around the moon 10 times, paving the way for later moon-landing missions.

In 1972, Lester Pearson, former Canadian prime minister and Nobel Peace Prize winner, died at the age of 75.

A thought for the day: British physicist John Tyndall said, "It is as fatal as it is cowardly to blink facts because they are not to our taste."

Corte Madera Council Favors Councilmen Title For Women

The Corte Madera Town Council came to grips with a semantic problem last night as it unanimously passed a resolution recognizing recently elected Jana G. Haehl as a councilman.

"Should said lady member addressed by the legal but not descriptive title of 'Councilman,' the legally nonexistent title of 'councilwoman' or the more fitting but less widely used title of 'council lady'," was the question posed in the resolution.

The council resolved that:

"In consistency and harmony with the law she shall hereafter bear the title of councilman; and

"She shall be accorded at all times, the privileges and deference due her ladyship as well as the rights and prerequisites of her councilmanship.

"This resolution is an emergency resolution," it concluded. "The nature of the emergency being that the council is beset by too many pressing problems to be any longer perplexed by this problem of protocol and nomenclature which, unresolved, might threaten the peace, safety, health, welfare and tranquility of the Town."

It was received with much laughter from an audience of about 35 persons.

Mrs. Haehl blushed as Town Clerk Betty S. Behel read the resolution and accepted its terms with a polite nod to her fellow councilmen.

Hearing On Fill Permit Is Set In Corte Madera

Reopening the question of a fill permit for the proposed Hahn regional shopping center, the Corte Madera Town Council last night set a public hearing on the permit Jan. 21.

The council's unanimous action paves the way for possible revocation of the permit granted last year.

Councilman Robert J. Flahive requested the public hearing and said it is his intention to have the permit revoked at least until the town adopts its general plan and updates its zoning to match.

Town Atty. Albert Bianchi advised the council it may revoke the permit or modify it since Hahn has not done work at the site and has not established a "vested right."

"I just don't want anymore lawsuits against the town of Corte Madera," warned new councilman Albert A. Kostelic.

Allan Leppert, project coordinator for Ernest W. Hahn Inc., said he learned of possible reconsideration of the permit only through reading the Independent-Journal and asked that the council take no action last night.

Flahive assured Leppert that the only action last night was to set a public hearing and Leppert agreed that the Jan. 21 date would give his firm enough time to be represented before the council.

Flahive, long an opponent of the center, asked that the permit be reviewed when he found after a special election last week that he leads a majority of councilmen opposed to the center.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

COUNCILMEN — Seated new councilmen Jana G. Haehl, Kostelic and Joel A. Shawn, elected last week.

MAYOR — Renamed Herber C. Leney mayor and Flahive vice mayor.

COMMITTEES — Named Flahive and Kostelic to the council's police and fire committee, Haehl and Shawn to the public works committee, Leney and Kostelic to the finance committee and Haehl to the Northridge committee.

POLICY — Directed Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels to draft a policy for filling vacancies in town boards and commissions and delayed filling seats which expire Monday until the new policy is written. Those whose terms expire will serve until the policy is set.

GIFT — Received two $50 checks from the Corte Madera Center Merchants Council for the Corte Madera Volunteer Firemen's Association and Corte Madera Police Association.

FERRY — Directed Bartels to report to the council Jan. 7 on how soon it must prepare a comment on the environmental impact report on the Larkspur Ferry Terminal. A date for meeting with Golden Gate Bridge District officials on the report will then be determined.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Jan. 5 at 9 a.m. in town hall for a tour of town departments and facilities.

Ransomed Getty Has Bodyguard

IGLS, Austria (UPI) — Described as "very down, almost crying," J. Paul Getty III, ransomed grandson of the American oil billionaire, now skis with a new companion—a huge bodyguard.

Getty, his mother, Gail Harris, two girls, another youngster and the bodyguard went skiing yesterday after arriving at a hotel in Igls, five miles south of Innsbruck, Monday night.

"He was very down, almost crying," a television cameraman, who pursued the youth on the slopes, said later.

NEW HOME FOR SMITTY

Welfare Benefits Switch To Have Minimum Effect

A nationwide switch in the administration of welfare benefits to blind, elderly and disabled persons will result in little or no inconvenience to local recipients, Marin officials have predicted.

The change comes next Tuesday when the federal Social Security Administration takes over responsibility for 2,100 such recipients in Marin and hundreds of thousands nationwide.

It's all part of HR-1, a federal welfare reform measure which seeks to consolidate federally-funded welfare programs under a single agency.

Currently, some 1,500 state and local agencies — like the Marin County Department of Public Social Services — handle the programs but will bow out New Year's Day.

For the 2,100 Marin residents involved, "the only difference will be that the checks will be yellow instead of green." according to Edwin H. Leuin, district manager of the Social Security Administration in San Rafael.

He said the county's 1,080 persons on old age security, 972 on aid to the totally disabled and 49 on aid to the blind, need not reapply with his agency to continue getting their monthly checks. All records have been shifted from the county to his agency.

After Jan. 1, however, persons seeking financial assistance from any of the three categories must apply directly with his office and not the county social services department.

Luein and county welfare chief Annie Jamison said no recipient on the program as of Dec. 31 will suffer a cut in aid as a result of the bureaucratic switch. Some may receive more, Miss Jamison said.

However, she cautioned, there may be some "slip ups" causing delays in receipt of checks or errors in the dollar amount.

She urged recipients who do not receive their January checks on Jan. 2 — the first work day of the month — to give the post office several days before notifying the San Rafael Social Security Office.

Leuin said several toll-free numbers have been set up to handle questions and complaints — from the Mill Valley, San Rafael and Novato areas the number is 479-5030; from the Belvedere, Tiburon, Sausalito and Marin City areas the number is 956-3000; and from West Marin, ask the operator for Enterprise 1-3455.

He said recipients who also are receiving regular Social Security checks will continue to receive those checks on the third of each month, as usual.

Con Man's Jewel Haul $60,000

PARIS (UPI) — The man who telephoned the Ritz, Paris' top hotel, was cultured and authoritative.

"I am the sales director of Aldebert jewelers," he said. "We want to change the pieces in our showcase in the hotel for the New Year. May I come by this afternoon?".

A well-dressed man in his 30s duly appeared, placed the jewels in a briefcase and replaced them with new ones.

Police said today the replacements were paste. The man's haul was estimated at $60,000.

South Fails To Accomplish What Is Expected With Trumps

The science of getting the most out of your trumps is an important branch of declarer's play. In some hands the defenders can show how much they know of this part of the game, especially if declarer has delusions of adequacy.

HOPELESS CONTRACT

West opened the king of spades, and South won with the ace. It was a hopeless contract, but South found an amusing way to lose the maximum.

Declarer led a diamond, and East took the ace. East returned a spade, and West cashed the queen and jack. Now West cashed the ace of clubs and led another club.

WINS IN DUMMY

Declarer won in dummy with the king of clubs and gratefully cashed the king of diamonds in order to get rid of his last spade. South had visions of getting out with a whole skin, since he had already taken three side tricks and hoped for five trump tricks.

LEADS DIAMOND

In an effort to get his own hand, declarer led a diamond from dummy and ruffed with the seven of hearts. West overruffed with the eight and returned a low club.

East ruffed with the nine, and South overruffed with the jack. Declarer next led the king of hearts to force out the ace. East returned the last space.

RUFFING ROUND

South ruffed with the five of hearts, and West overruffed with the six. Now West led his last club, and East ruffed with the ten. South had to overruff with the queen of hearts, and West took the last trick with the lowly four of hearts.

"I would have doubled," West announced, "if I had known that I was going to take three trump tricks."

Today is Thursday, Dec. 27, the 361st day of 1973 with four to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning star is Mercury. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

Louis Pasteur, noted French bacteriologist, was born Dec. 27, 1822.

On this day in history:

In 1941, Japanese war planes bombed Manila in the Philippines, despite its having been declared an open city.

In 1963, the U.S. Commerce Department authorized the sale of surplus wheat to Russia.

In 1968, the Apollo 8 astronauts returned to Earth after orbiting around the moon 10 times, paving the way for later moon-landing missions.

In 1972, Lester Pearson, former Canadian prime minister and Nobel Peace Prize winner, died at the age of 75.

A thought for the day: British physicist John Tyndall said, "It is as fatal as it is cowardly to blink facts because they are not to our taste."

Reinforced tire chains on the rear wheels reduce braking distance on ice by 50 per cent as compared with regular tires, according to the National Safety Council.

Corte Madera Council Favors Councilmen Title For Women

The Corte Madera Town Council came to grips with a semantic problem last night as it unanimously passed a resolution recognizing recently elected Jana G. Haehl as a councilman.

"Should said lady member addressed by the legal but not descriptive title of 'Councilman,' the legally nonexistent title of 'councilwoman' or the more fitting but less widely used title of 'council lady'," was the question posed in the resolution.

The council resolved that:

"Jana Haehl is indeed recognized as a lady;

"In consistency and harmony with the law she shall hereafter bear the title of councilman; and

"She shall be accorded at all times, the privileges and deference due her ladyship as well as the rights and prerequisites of her councilmanship.

"This resolution is an emergency resolution," it concluded. "The nature of the emergency being that the council is beset by too many pressing problems to be any longer perplexed by this problem of protocol and nomenclature which, unresolved, might threaten the peace, safety, health, welfare and tranquility of the Town."

It was received with much laughter from an audience of about 35 persons.

Mrs. Haehl blushed as Town Clerk Betty S. Behel read the resolution and accepted its terms with a polite nod to her fellow councilmen.

Hearing On Fill Permit Is Set In Corte Madera

Reopening the question of a fill permit for the proposed Hahn regional shopping center, the Corte Madera Town Council last night set a public hearing on the permit Jan. 21.

The council's unanimous action paves the way for possible revocation of the permit granted last year.

Councilman Robert J. Flahive requested the public hearing and said it is his intention to have the permit revoked at least until the town adopts its general plan and updates its zoning to match.

Town Atty. Albert Bianchi advised the council it may revoke the permit or modify it since Hahn has not done work at the site and has not established a "vested right."

"I just don't want anymore lawsuits against the town of Corte Madera," warned new councilman Albert A. Kostelic.

Allan Leppert, project coordinator for Ernest W. Hahn Inc., said he learned of possible reconsideration of the permit only through reading the Independent-Journal and asked that the council take no action last night.

Flahive assured Leppert that the only action last night was to set a public hearing and Leppert agreed that the Jan. 21 date would give his firm enough time to be represented before the council.

Flahive, long an opponent of the center, asked that the permit be reviewed when he found after a special election last week that he leads a majority of councilmen opposed to the center.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

COUNCILMEN — Seated new councilmen Jana G. Haehl, Kostelic and Joel A. Shawn, elected last week.

MAYOR — Renamed Herber C. Leney mayor and Flahive vice mayor.

COMMITTEES — Named Flahive and Kostelic to the council's police and fire committee, Haehl and Shawn to the public works committee, Leney and Kostelic to the finance committee and Haehl to the Northridge committee.

POLICY — Directed Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels to draft a policy for filling vacancies in town boards and commissions and delayed filling seats which expire Monday until the new policy is written. Those whose terms expire will serve until the policy is set.

GIFT — Received two $50 checks from the Corte Madera Center Merchants Council for the Corte Madera Volunteer Firemen's Association and Corte Madera Police Association.

FERRY — Directed Bartels to report to the council Jan. 7 on how soon it must prepare a comment on the environmental impact report on the Larkspur Ferry Terminal. A date for meeting with Golden Gate Bridge District officials on the report will then be determined.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Jan. 5 at 9 a.m. in town hall for a tour of town departments and facilities.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Return On Dart Shares Is Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We own 314 shares of Dart Industries (NYSE), originally we bought 100 shares in 1958 at $2,570 and received the rest in splits and stock dividends. Your analysis of this stock and advice on what action to take would be appreciated. — F.P.

A. Third quarter ended September marked the tenth consecutive quarter of rising earnings and twelfth of higher year-to-year sales. Management anticipates record results in the final 1973 period. Yet the company is not without problems, particularly in its land development operations. However, this division contributed only 3 per cent to 1972 sales. Prospects for 1974 are clouded by shortages of raw materials which would hamper the company's plastics and glass manufacturing businesses.

The shares' current low multiple of earnings, the lowest in a decade, amply discounts the reduced level of economic activity anticipated for 1974. Share performance should at least match that of the market in the next six months. Thus, retention is suggested on the basis of the above-average return available from cash and stock dividends

Q. Could you discuss the automatic investment plan described in the enclosed brochure. I am able to invest $40 per month and would appreciate your opinion on using this investment method. — T.J.

A. These bank-sponsored plans, which are similar in concept to the NYSE Monthly Investment Plan, enable the average wage earner to invest painlessly on a regular basis as little as $20 per month toward retirement. You are, however, restricted to a list of 25 Big Board-listed issues, although these are among the most widely held NYSE securities. In addition to your pro-rata share of the commission, which is less than the rate usually would be on a small commitment, you do have to pay a small fee for bookkeeping and custodial services. You, nonetheless, derive the advantages of dollar-cost averaging, assuming you stick with one stock for a reasonable period. By all means this type of investment plan is a worthwhile method for building an estate.

Outhouse Maker Is Crisis Victim

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI) — Effects of the nation's energy crisis have reached the portable fiberglass outhouse industry.

The Industrial Plastics Co., one of the few makers of the portable "Johnny houses" for construction sites, has stopped production, company president George Mackie Jr. said yesterday.

Mackie said the firm can no longer maintain production in the face of increasing prices and the scarcity of petroleum-based materials needed to make resin used in the structures.

PBW Exchange Challenging All Comers In Market Arena

By JIM CLARK
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Like an old-time circus wrestler, the PBW Stock Exchange is taking on all comers. If it's not the New York Stock Exchange, then it's the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Each year it grows, spewing out ideas designed to carve out a bigger share of the market, and maybe to embarrass the bigger exchanges on Wall Street.

While the New York Stock Exchange was talking about raising brokerage fees, the PBW came up with a plan to lower fees to attract smaller investors.

In January PBW will open an office in Miami, and is looking at Atlanta and Dallas as possible locations. And for some time it has been pushing a plan to get the regional stock exchanges to merge.

For all of its ambition, however, the PBW still does only as much trading in a year as the NYSE does in a week. And despite winning a number of battles, the PBW may be about to lose the war.

The idea was that an insurance company which traded tens of thousands of shares a year could avoid paying brokerage fees if it held its own seat on a stock exchange.

Since a seat on the PBW cost only $4,000 and the institutions could save hundreds of thousands of commission dollars a year, the lure was obvious.

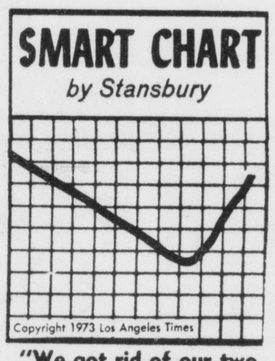
But early this year the plan hit a snag. The Securities and Exchange Commission adopted a rule forbidding the entry of institutions into the stock exchanges unless a certain amount of their business was public.

Since then, PBW has been in court, trying to appeal the SEC order. It is now preparing to appeal to the Supreme Court, and at the same time trying to convince the institutions to do some public business.

The PBW is the nation's oldest exchange. It was originally called the Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Stock Exchange, but changed its name and its staid image after Elkins Wetherill took over as president in 1965.

Today, the exchange has 444 members and lists 1,209 stocks. Of the 1,209, only 135 are "primary" stocks. The rest are also carried on either the New York or American exchanges.

If the SEC is upheld, and institutional investors are ordered out of the PBW, financial advisers say it would not mean the end of the exchange. But they say it would force it to trim its sail, perhaps signaling its return to its old role as an exclusively regional exchange.



"We got rid of our two directors who were serving on competitors' boards."

Stocks Rise After Good Energy News

NEW YORK (UPI) — News the energy shortfall will be less than originally expected and word from the administratio that gas rationing will be avoided for the time being helped stocks rally in fairly heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange today.

At a morning news conference, William E. Simon, administration energy spokesman, said, "The shortfall in crude oil was not as great as the government had expected." He said the government had established a stand-by system of gas rationing that would allow drivers 35 gallons per month, but added the system would go into effect only if conservation measures fail to stem the energy crisis.

Auto travel-related issues reacted upward to news the government is foregoing gas rationing for the time being. Ryder System advanced 2 ¾, Walt Disney 1 ¾, Holiday Inns and Howard Johnson 1 ⅛ each.

Also stronger were recently hard hit glamors. IBM added 5 ¼, Upjohn 3 ⅜, Burroughs 3 ¼, Motorola 2 ¾ and ARA Services 2.

Melville Shoe Corp. was the volume leader, off ⅛ to 11 on 111,800 shares, including a 100,000-share block at 10 ¾.

On the American Exchange, prices moved broadly higher in moderate trading. Recrion topped the actives, up 2 to 22 ⅜ on 27,300 shares.

With the fortunes of coal rising steadily, rail issues advanced on the Big Board. Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Burlington Northern and Chessie System each advanced a point or more.

Gold mining stocks joined the rally, with Dome Mines ahead 7 ¾, Campbell Red Lake 4 ⅞, and Homestake Mining 2 ¾.

Getty Oil gained 3 ¼, Superior 3 ⅜, Kerr-McGee 2 ¼. Exxon, Phillips Petroleum, Mobil and Schlumberger each advanced at least a point.

Steels and motors rose in fractions, while airline and aircrafts were mixed.

Prison Visit Program Is Planned

A San Quentin Prison visitation program will be among the public service projects to be undertaken in 1974 by the Marin Association of Life Underwriters.

Paul L. Thurston, the association's vice president for public service, announced that the life underwriters' new "People In Crisis" project involves recruiting volunteers for M-2, a community based prison visitation program, as well as for probation work and boys clubs.

Robert Vaughn of State Mutual Life Insurance Company will head the drive to recruit M-2 volunteers. Thurston emphasized the simplicity of the program. "Everybody needs a friend, but there are more than 100 inmates in San Quentin who have signed up for the M-2 program and are waiting for sponsors. Many of these men haven't had a visitor in years."

He said sponsors are asked to visit or write their inmate friend once a month and be available to spend the day with them upon release from prison.

Ron Faircloth of Bankers Life of Iowa will be in charge of the continuing project for Medic Alert. Plans call for designating a Medic Alert Month early in 1974 to focus attention on the importance of wearing medic alert bracelets for people who have hidden medical problems.

Jim McBride of Equitable Life Assurance Society will head the underprivileged children's project. Trips to ball games, Marine World, picnics and other outings are planned.

Energy Crunch Didn't Bother Christmas Shoppers In Marin

The energy crunch and the expected economic slowdown apparently had little effect on Christmas shopping in Marin this year, as most major stores reported sales as good as or better than last year. A couple of department stores reported the "best Christmas ever."

Emporium at Northgate — Last minute rush pushed total sales over last year. Cosmetics, jewelry, and lingerie were exceptionally strong. Toys were popular as usual.

Roos Atkins — Sales were up close to 15 per cent. Outer wear such as sweaters, jackets and sportswear in general were popular.

Sears Roebuck — A spokesman was "very pleased" with the Christmas sales but said he cannot give out comparisons with last year or items that proved popular this season.

J. C. Penney Co. — Sales were down in the San Rafael store, but the Corte Madera store reported the "best Christmas we've ever had." Shoppers chose practical goods like wool clothing and robes and stayed away from the fancier items.

Macy's, San Rafael — Reported the best-ever Christmas, with sales up substantially in all items from children's to adult wear. Especially popular this year were hand calculators ranging from $30 on up.

Montgomery Ward, Corte Madera — Reported sales about even with last year. Sales were down in mid-December but came roaring back the final week. Electronic ovens were hot items this year.

Strawberry Shopping Center — Definitely better than last year. Clothing, gift foods, tennis items and television and stereos did well.

Long's Drugs, Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo — Sales up over last year. Christmas card sales dropped, but hair care and personal care products came on strong.

TED S. SMITH, Realtors, at 634 San Anselmo Avenue in San Anselmo, has opened a branch office in Fairfax, at 9 Bolinas Road near Enrico's restaurant.

The new Fairfax office is managed by Georgia Anker, who got her broker's license last April. A long-time resident of Marin, Mrs. Anker was associated with Lash Realty in Fairfax for two and one-half years before joining Ted S. Smith last month.

Working with Mrs. Anker in the Fairfax office are Collin (Raschid) Rognlie and Ray Wood, both of Fairfax, who formerly served with Ted Smith in San Anselmo; Drake Dawson, formerly with Stephen Kramer Realtors; and Mary A. Curtis, formerly with Kenny Burt Realty.

WHITE'S ACE HARDWARE store at Cove Shopping Center in Tiburon will close at the end of this year after 20 years of operation.

Proprietor George White said he is quitting the retail business and plans to go into wholesaling of hardware next spring.

William Hoey Company of San Rafael arranged warehouse space for White at 30 Golden Gate Drive, No. 5, in San Rafael, off Simms Street. However, White said he is not yet sure whether that will be the location of his wholesale hardware firm. He said it would be several months before he gets the wholesale business in operation.

REGULAR BUS SERVICE between San Rafael and Richmond is the goal of two San Rafael businessmen, who have applied for a permit to the Public Utilities Commission.

The two are Kem Yim (Kevin) Louie, part owner of Traveler's Inn in San Rafael; and David McGreevy, who was formerly in the tourist-travel business in Colorado Springs for five years before coming to San Rafael. They want to run buses every half hour between Greyhound stations in San Rafael and Richmond.

"For more than two years, there has been no bus service over Richmond Bridge," said Louie. "People need the service badly; you'd be surprised how many people want to get across Richmond Bridge."

Louie asked that those who want to see the bus service started should testify before the PUC hearing officer at 10 a.m. Jan. 10 at the Marin Civic Center.

RICHARD M. GARVIN of Mill Valley, an advertising agency executive, will have his novel "The Fortec Conspiracy", made into a major motion picture. Both he and his collaborator, Ed Addeo of Mill Valley, will be given bit parts in the film.

Garvin's novel, a science fiction work dealing with UFO's, was published in 1968 and has sold a quarter million copies in paperback. It will be filmed by Cline Arts Studios in Hollywood and released through 20th Century Fox.

Radar Car Can Ease Collisions

NEW YORK (UPI) — James Bond's Aston Martin was equipped for almost every occasion, but now scientists at the Sperry Research Center have come up with the radar-equipped automobile.

The ultimate in defense driving, the car with its low-power radar system attached to the nose, can detect impending collisions. This system then activates protective air bags, which soon may be mandatory.

Known as the BARBI sensor, it can determine an imminent collision more than 10 feet in front of a moving vehicle allowing enough time to inflate an air bag even at speeds over 30 mph.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We own 314 shares of Dart Industries (NYSE), originally we bought 100 shares in 1958 at $2,570 and received the rest in splits and stock dividends. Your analysis of this stock and advice on what action to take would be appreciated. — F.P.

A. Third quarter ended September marked the tenth consecutive quarter of rising earnings and twelfth of higher year-to-year sales. Management anticipates record results in the final 1973 period. Yet the company is not without problems, particularly in its land development operations. However, this division contributed only 3 per cent to 1972 sales. Prospects for 1974 are clouded by shortages of raw materials which would hamper the company's plastics and glass manufacturing businesses.

The shares' current low multiple of earnings, the lowest in a decade, amply discounts the reduced level of economic activity anticipated for 1974. Share performance should at least match that of the market in the next six months. Thus, retention is suggested on the basis of the above-average return available from cash and stock dividends

Q. Could you discuss the automatic investment plan described in the enclosed brochure. I am able to invest $40 per month and would appreciate your opinion on using this investment method. — T.J.

A. These bank-sponsored plans, which are similar in concept to the NYSE Monthly Investment Plan, enable the average wage earner to invest painlessly on a regular basis as little as $20 per month toward retirement. You are, however, restricted to a list of 25 Big Board-listed issues, although these are among the most widely held NYSE securities. In addition to your pro-rata share of the commission, which is less than the rate usually would be on a small commitment, you do have to pay a small fee for bookkeeping and custodial services. You, nonetheless, derive the advantages of dollar-cost averaging, assuming you stick with one stock for a reasonable period. By all means this type of investment plan is a worthwhile method for building an estate.

Outhouse Maker Is Crisis Victim

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI) — Effects of the nation's energy crisis have reached the portable fiberglass outhouse industry.

The Industrial Plastics Co., one of the few makers of the portable "Johnny houses" for construction sites, has stopped production, company president George Mackie Jr. said yesterday.

Mackie said the firm can no longer maintain production in the face of increasing prices and the scarcity of petroleum-based materials needed to make resin used in the structures.

Japanese Cars

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan exported 179,721 motor vehicles in November, the Japan Automobile Manufacturers Association announced today.

By JIM CLARK
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Like an old-time circus wrestler, the PBW Stock Exchange is taking on all comers. If it's not the New York Stock Exchange, then it's the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Each year it grows, spewing out ideas designed to carve out a bigger share of the market, and maybe to embarrass the bigger exchanges on Wall Street.

While the New York Stock Exchange was talking about raising brokerage fees, the PBW came up with a plan to lower fees to attract smaller investors.

In January PBW will open an office in Miami, and is looking at Atlanta and Dallas as possible locations. And for some time it has been pushing a plan to get the regional stock exchanges to merge.

For all of its ambition, however, the PBW still does only as much trading in a year as the NYSE does in a week. And despite winning a number of battles, the PBW may be about to lose the war.

The idea was that an insurance company which traded tens of thousands of shares a year could avoid paying brokerage fees if it held its own seat on a stock exchange.

Since a seat on the PBW cost only $4,000 and the institutions could save hundreds of thousands of commission dollars a year, the lure was obvious.

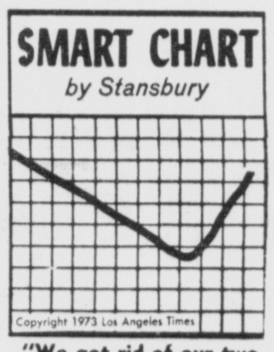
But early this year the plan hit a snag. The Securities and Exchange Commission adopted a rule forbidding the entry of institutions into the stock exchanges unless a certain amount of their business was public.

Since then, PBW has been in court, trying to appeal the SEC order. It is now preparing to appeal to the Supreme Court, and at the same time trying to convince the institutions to do some public business.

The PBW is the nation's oldest exchange. It was originally called the Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Stock Exchange, but changed its name and its staid image after Elkins Wetherill took over as president in 1965.

Today, the exchange has 444 members and lists 1,209 stocks. Of the 1,209, only 135 are "primary" stocks. The rest are also carried on either the New York or American exchanges.

If the SEC is upheld, and institutional investors are ordered out of the PBW, financial advisers say it would not mean the end of the exchange. But they say it would force it to trim its sail, perhaps signaling its return to its old role as an exclusively regional exchange.



"We got rid of our two directors who were serving on competitors' boards."

Stocks Rise After Good Energy News

NEW YORK (UPI) — News the energy shortfall will be less than originally expected and word from the administratio that gas rationing will be avoided for the time being helped stocks rally in fairly heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange today.

At a morning news conference, William E. Simon, administration energy spokesman, said, "The shortfall in crude oil was not as great as the government had expected." He said the government had established a stand-by system of gas rationing that would allow drivers 35 gallons per month, but added the system would go into effect only if conservation measures fail to stem the energy crisis.

Auto travel-related issues reacted upward to news the government is foregoing gas rationing for the time being. Ryder System advanced 2 ¾, Walt Disney 1 ¾, Holiday Inns and Howard Johnson 1 ⅛ each.

Also stronger were recently hard hit glamors. IBM added 5 ¼, Upjohn 3 ⅜, Burroughs 3 ¼, Motorola 2 ¾ and ARA Services 2.

Melville Shoe Corp. was the volume leader, off ⅛ to 11 on 111,800 shares, including a 100,000-share block at 10 ¾.

On the American Exchange, prices moved broadly higher in moderate trading. Recrion topped the actives, up 2 to 22 ⅜ on 27,300 shares.

With the fortunes of coal rising steadily, rail issues advanced on the Big Board. Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Burlington Northern and Chessie System each advanced a point or more.

Gold mining stocks joined the rally, with Dome Mines ahead 7 ¾, Campbell Red Lake 4 ⅞, and Homestake Mining 2 ¾.

Getty Oil gained 3 ¼, Superior 3 ⅜, Kerr-McGee 2 ¼. Exxon, Phillips Petroleum, Mobil and Schlumberger each advanced at least a point.

Steels and motors rose in fractions, while airline and aircrafts were mixed.

Prison Visit Program Is Planned

A San Quentin Prison visitation program will be among the public service projects to be undertaken in 1974 by the Marin Association of Life Underwriters.

Paul L. Thurston, the association's vice president for public service, announced that the life underwriters' new "People In Crisis" project involves recruiting volunteers for M-2, a community based prison visitation program, as well as for probation work and boys clubs.

Robert Vaughn of State Mutual Life Insurance Company will head the drive to recruit M-2 volunteers. Thurston emphasized the simplicity of the program. "Everybody needs a friend, but there are more than 100 inmates in San Quentin who have signed up for the M-2 program and are waiting for sponsors. Many of these men haven't had a visitor in years."

He said sponsors are asked to visit or write their inmate friend once a month and be available to spend the day with them upon release from prison.

Ron Faircloth of Bankers Life of Iowa will be in charge of the continuing project for Medic Alert. Plans call for designating a Medic Alert Month early in 1974 to focus attention on the importance of wearing medic alert bracelets for people who have hidden medical problems.

Jim McBride of Equitable Life Assurance Society will head the underprivileged children's project. Trips to ball games, Marine World, picnics and other outings are planned.

Radar Car Can Ease Collisions

NEW YORK (UPI) — James Bond's Aston Martin was equipped for almost every occasion, but now scientists at the Sperry Research Center have come up with the radar-equipped automobile.

The ultimate in defense driving, the car with its low-power radar system attached to the nose, can detect impending collisions. This system then activates protective air bags, which soon may be mandatory.

Known as the BARBI sensor, it can determine an imminent collision more than 10 feet in front of a moving vehicle allowing enough time to inflate an air bag even at speeds over 30 mph.

Energy Crunch Didn't Bother Christmas Shoppers In Marin

The energy crunch and the expected economic slowdown apparently had little effect on Christmas shopping in Marin this year, as most major stores reported sales as good as or better than last year. A couple of department stores reported the "best Christmas ever."

Emporium at Northgate — Last minute rush pushed total sales over last year. Cosmetics, jewelry, and lingerie were exceptionally strong. Toys were popular as usual.

Roos Atkins — Sales were up close to 15 per cent. Outer wear such as sweaters, jackets and sportswear in general were popular.

Sears Roebuck — A spokesman was "very pleased" with the Christmas sales but said he cannot give out comparisons with last year or items that proved popular this season.

J. C. Penney Co. — Sales were down in the San Rafael store, but the Corte Madera store reported the "best Christmas we've ever had." Shoppers chose practical goods like wool clothing and robes and stayed away from the fancier items.

Macy's, San Rafael — Reported the best-ever Christmas, with sales up substantially in all items from children's to adult wear. Especially popular this year were hand calculators ranging from $30 on up.

Montgomery Ward, Corte Madera — Reported sales about even with last year. Sales were down in mid-December but came roaring back the final week. Electronic ovens were hot items this year.

Strawberry Shopping Center — Definitely better than last year. Clothing, gift foods, tennis items and television and stereos did well.

Long's Drugs, Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo — Sales up over last year. Christmas card sales dropped, but hair care and personal care products came on strong.

TED S. SMITH, Realtors, at 634 San Anselmo Avenue in San Anselmo, has opened a branch office in Fairfax, at 9 Bolinas Road near Enrico's restaurant.

The new Fairfax office is managed by Georgia Anker, who got her broker's license last April. A long-time resident of Marin, Mrs. Anker was associated with Lash Realty in Fairfax for two and one-half years before joining Ted S. Smith last month.

Working with Mrs. Anker in the Fairfax office are Collin (Raschid) Rognlie and Ray Wood, both of Fairfax, who formerly served with Ted Smith in San Anselmo; Drake Dawson, formerly with Stephen Kramer Realtors; and Mary A. Curtis, formerly with Kenny Burt Realty.

Proprietor George White said he is quitting the retail business and plans to go into wholesaling of hardware next spring.

William Hoey Company of San Rafael arranged warehouse space for White at 30 Golden Gate Drive, No. 5, in San Rafael, off Simms Street. However, White said he is not yet sure whether that will be the location of his wholesale hardware firm. He said it would be several months before he gets the wholesale business in operation.

REGULAR BUS SERVICE between San Rafael and Richmond is the goal of two San Rafael businessmen, who have applied for a permit to the Public Utilities Commission.

The two are Kem Yim (Kevin) Louie, part owner of Traveler's Inn in San Rafael; and David McGreevy, who was formerly in the tourist-travel business in Colorado Springs for five years before coming to San Rafael. They want to run buses every half hour between Greyhound stations in San Rafael and Richmond.

"For more than two years, there has been no bus service over Richmond Bridge," said Louie. "People need the service badly; you'd be surprised how many people want to get across Richmond Bridge."

Louie asked that those who want to see the bus service started should testify before the PUC hearing officer at 10 a.m. Jan. 10 at the Marin Civic Center.

RICHARD M. GARVIN of Mill Valley, an advertising agency executive, will have his novel "The Fortec Conspiracy", made into a major motion picture. Both he and his collaborator, Ed Addeo of Mill Valley, will be given bit parts in the film.

Garvin's novel, a science fiction work dealing with UFO's, was published in 1968 and has sold a quarter million copies in paperback. It will be filmed by Cline Arts Studios in Hollywood and released through 20th Century Fox.

Seems Everyone Has Fuelish Idea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are writing 1,500 letters a day to energy chief William E. Simon on ways to cope with the energy shortage, including one man who urged householders to burn buffalo chips.

The man with the buffalo chip idea touted it as a replacement for coal or oil. After all, he said, "If it was good enough for our ancestors," it should be good enough for modern day Americans.

Another woman telephoned the Federal Energy Office and asked what could be done about her automobile. A puzzled official asked what had happened to the car.

"You told me to stop using gas so I parked the car, and now the police have towed it away," the caller said.

Another sent a many-page letter explaining his device to put "ocean waves" to work. To make sure officials took his letter seriously, the man added this post script.

"Remember, they told Orville, it won't fly."

One inventor wound up his letter by explaining he was motivated by patriotic reasons but that "I would be less than honest if I do not add that I expect to be well paid."

Another driver complained that he was trying to observe the President's request to hold to a 50-mile-an-hour speed limit, but police had arrested him for driving 50 in a 35-mile-an-hour speed zone.

One man told Simon he knew the location of "a pool of oil" but the government had better "hurry and get the information out of him because he was 75 years old."

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union announced today it has launched an Oreol 2 earth satellite in cooperation with France to explore the upper atmosphere and the polar lights.

Judge Sends Offender To Drug Center

Douglas James Jarrett, 23, of Forest Knolls, may satisfy a one-year jail sentence in a burglary case by completing a drug treatment program at Metanoia West in Santa Rosa.

Marin Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best made the ruling and placed Jarrett on probation for three years.

Jarrett pleaded guilty to stealing 12 silver dollars, a leather jacket and a turntable, with a total value of $262, from the William McBride home on Meadow Way in San Geronimo in October.

His probation report termed Jarrett an abuser of drugs and alcohol, and Best ordered the man to asbstain from liquor and submit to search by any policeman at any time.

Big Business

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Missouri fur hunters and trappers took almost $2 million worth of pelts in the 1972-73 trapping season, an all-time record, according to the Missouri Conservation Commission.

Judge Offers Woman Term In Drug Center

A woman who admitted an armed robbery and cashing a forged check stolen from her mother will be allowed to serve a jail term in a drug treatment program.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court said Toi Ann Weindel, 22, of no fixed address, can satisfy a one-year jail sentence if she completes a rehabilitative program at Metanoia West in Santa Rosa.

Miss Weindel pleaded guilty to taking $103 at knifepoint from the Uniform Nook in San Rafael in September. She also admitted cashing a $61 check stolen from her mother the same month.

Best dismissed a second check forgery count and said the first charge will be reduced to a misdemeanor if Miss Weindel successfully completes three years probation. The robbery will remain a felony.

According to her probation report, Miss Weindel, a former heroin addict, gained 28 pounds during two months at Metanoia West.

Scotch Whiskey Suit Charges A Monopoly

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Distillers Co., Ltd., described as the world's largest producer and exporter of Scotch whiskey, was sued yesterday for allegedly monopolizing the world trade in Scotch.

The suit seeking at least $48 million in damages was filed in federal court by The Fleischman Distilling Co. and Julius Wile Sons & Co., both of New York and subsidiaries of Standard Brands Inc.

Also named as defendants in the action were Distillers Co. subsidiaries James Buchanan & Co. Ltd., of London, and Peter Dawson Ltd., of Glasgow.

The treble damage suit alleges that the defendants engaged in a continuing conspiracy to restrain world trade in Scotch whiskeys in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act and the Wilson Tariff Act.

Fleischmann's distribution franchise for Buchanan's products ends Dec. 31. Wile's distribution rights ended a year ago. They charge that Distillers Co. combined with competitors through mergers "or collusion" to suppress competing brands.

Life expectancy for a white male in the United States is 67.5 years; for a nonwhite male — 60.1 years. For a white female, it's 74.9 years; for a non-white female — 67.5 years.
